TRACKSTERS OUTSIDE FOR MONDAY SESSION

Lambertus Features Drill With 22.6 Effort in 220 Yard Dash.

Taking advantage of their first chance to get outdoors, a squad of thirty Husker trackmen went out in Monday afternoon's sunshine in the season's initial workout on Memorial stadium track.

Cautioning his men to take it casy, Coach Henry F. Schulte put the cinder men at work ironing out what few kinks they have left, and in general allowed them to loaf through the session.

The Nebraska track coach relented sufficiently from his original plea to go slow, by clocking a half dozen or so sprinters over the 220 yard stretch. Heye Lambertus, sophomore dash and low hurdle he coasted through the furlong in 22.6 seconds. John Roby and Bob Ostergard did it in 22.7, while Copenhayer was credited with a 22.0 won a minor letter. He left sales is the coasted through the furlong in weighs 170 pounds. Scoggan played occasionally at tackle last fall on the varsity and won a minor letter. penhaver was credited with a 22.9 effort, Jerry Lee, still favoring his ankle, sprinted easily to break the 200. tape in 23 seconds.

A call for additional javelin, dis-cus, broad jump and high jump men was sounded by Schulte Monday. The veteran Cornhusker mentor is concentrating on developing men in the field events, for he says the team lacks strength in these

TWO SURPRISES in the persons of Fred Overstreet and Warren Scoggan greeted the Huskers at Monday's drill. Both men will work out at the stadium this week, return to their home in Scottsbluff, and then report to Bible next fall at the start of the 1932 season.

Overstreet, who has been out of school this year played a regular halfback position with Coach Harold Browne's freshman grid team two years ago, also being a member of the frosh cinder squad. The Scottsbluff flash runs the century close to ten seconds flat, and in high school was credited with a 440 in 51.5 seconds. Appearing to be in fine shape, Fred stepped right into a backfield assignment his first drill Monday. He won a minor letter. He left school at the close of the first semester. Scoggan tips the scales around

Return of Overstreet to the fold makes one more addition to an already brilliant array of ball carrying talent. Right now, the Corn-huskers have more honest and truly outstanding backs than since the days of Presnell, Howell and Sloan. And that's something!

But as John Selleck dubiously remarks: "Spring practice teams don't win any games in the fall."

RUDY VOGELER is all hopped up about prospects for his swimming team next season. Rudy expects to have thirty men of varsity caliber reporting to him one year hence, the number including eleven lettermen, seven reserves and at least a dozen mem-bers of a crack yearling squad. Rudy hopes the his lettermen won't go back on him next year. He had counted on seven lettermen AMES.—Only two lettermen will answer the call for spring basketball practice at Iowa State basketball practice at Iowa State was seen basketball practice at Iowa State was responsible. Even at that were responsible. Even at that, the Huskers gave Iowa State a great fight for the conference title. Vogeler has done remarkabl, well in his four years here, producing one Big Six championship team in 1930 and three teams that have placed second. And until this year, Nebraska had no home for its
