EDITOR DEFENDS PUBLICATION IN REPLY TO STORY

Literary Editor of Omaha Paper Says Awgwan Not Funny.

"APES FUN MAGAZINES" Blames Sponsorship by a Fraternity for Part of Trouble.

Editor Marvin Robinson of the Awgwan Thursday came to the defense of collegiate humor as exemplified by Nebraska's comic publication in replying to an attack on the Awgwan by George Grimes, literary critic of the Omaha World-Herald, published in the book review section of the World-Herald Sunday.

Grimes, former editor of the Daily Nebraskan, declared that the Awgwan is "fun without a smile," and accused the magazine of aping "nearly every fun magazine on the market." He suspects that "the fact that the magazine has to be sponsored by a journalistic fraternity is part of the trouble."

To Appear in Awgwan. Robinson's statement, which will appear also in the April issue of the Awgwan to be released the first of next week, in full: "JOURNALISTS MUST LIVE OR OVER FORTY COMIC EDITORS MUST BE WRONG."

Mr. Grimes, that H. L. Menckner of the Omaha World-Herald has again launched one of his caustic acid attacks. This time on the Awgwan. We strongly suspect that his fresh and arrogant article had been brewing in his mind some time before he saw the Spring Number. He is certainly old hand times with a vengeance. According to our notion he would be the sort of a person to wish for a fallen daughter to put out on a cold and stormy night.

"Spirit Squelched." A paragraph from his article is as follows: "One wonders how it happens that the spirit of non-sensu and fun could be so effectively squelched at the state university, as the magazine indicates. Time was when a certain gay ribaldry attended student affairs. The time is not now. So serious is the depression that not even a smile can be cracked about it."

If a "gay ribaldry" ever attended student affairs we were in on it and we are reproducing for you the picture. The story of "Brahmin and Chloe" is beautiful not because of the intimate passages in it but because of its simple love story. So it is with Boccaccio, Rabelais, and Flaubert.

They all presented a well balanced picture of their time. They believed in calling a spade a spade, and so do we. But we do not believe in making a collection of spades for exhibition as do some humor sheets.

Mr. Grimes may rest assured that if, in our wanderings, we uncover a spade, it will be shown. We can excuse all of his statements in the first paragraph except the reference to the depression. That, today (Continued on Page 4.)

OMAHA PRESENTATION OF SHOW CANCELLED

Kosmet Klub Play Not to Be Given There on Saturday.

Cancellation of the appearance of "Jingle Belles" in Omaha Saturday evening was announced by manager of the Kosmet Klub, Thursday afternoon. "Due to unfavorable circumstances it seemed advisable to both the Kosmet Klub and Joy Sutphen of the Brandeis theater that the scheduled appearance be cancelled," Faulkner said.

The advance sale of tickets, the failure of other large productions to pay expenses, and some difficulties with the union were responsible for the breach in the schedule, according to Klub officials.

The cancellation was agreeable to both parties as both the Omaha theater and the campus organization stood to lose in case there was a small house. Bill Devereaux, of the business staff, is to make a special trip to Omaha Friday to close the matter.

Advance sale of tickets for the Lincoln appearance of "Jingle Belles" in the Temple theater April 18, 19 and 20, is under the (Continued on Page 4.)

BASIS OF ENTRANCE AWARDS ANNOUNCED

Extension Division Lists Qualifications For Scholarships.

Qualifications for the 150 tuition scholarships to be offered freshmen students beginning next year are listed in the current extension department bulletin. Selection for the scholarships will be based on an examination of the present academic pentathlon plan.

The scholarships are to be awarded on the basis of an examination in five academic subjects required for admission to some college in the university. The examinations will be in English, mathematics, foreign languages, natural sciences, and social sciences.

Each fully accredited school may enter at least two contestants, chosen from an upper 10 percent of the senior class. The entire 10 percent in academic ranking may be entered in the contest, but not more than one scholarship will be awarded to each school.

Three Groups of Schools. The 470 schools which are fully accredited will be divided into three groups, according to the number of students in the graduating class. One group includes all schools with less than twenty-one graduates, the next, all schools with twenty-one graduates to forty-four graduates, and the last, all schools having over forty-five graduates. Fifty scholarships will be apportioned to each group.

Those scholarships will be good for all fees except matriculation, registration, and medical fees, in value approximately $25 a semester. They will be renewed for the second semester if the student's work justifies the renewal.

The first part of the five examinations to be given will be given on May 5 and will include the regular English and algebra tests given throughout the state to high school seniors. The second part will take place on May 7, and will consist of the remaining three tests.

All applications for the examinations must have been mailed to the university examiner before April 12.

'JINGLE BELLES' SUCCESSFUL IN HASTINGS SHOW

More Than Thousand See First Showing of Klub Play.

BOTH CHORUSES CLICK

Lincoln Presentation Will Be April 18, 19, and 20.

Predicted as being the outstanding Kosmet Klub musical comedy in several years, Herbert Yenne's "Jingle Belles" lived up to expectations in its Hastings appearance Wednesday evening. Herbert Yenne, author and director, was the outstanding star of the show which played before over a thousand in the Hastings auditorium.

Russell Mousel, playing in front of a home town audience, was called upon for several encores. Neil McFarland as Jane, a college classmate of the heroine, Helen, with his loquacity provided one of the most humorous elements of the show.

The pony and male choruses, which have been coached by Ralph Ireland, clicked with precision. A solo by Bill Irons and a dance by Louis LaMaster and Jack Minor were additional features of the performance.

Only Outstate Trip. Hastings is the only out of town trip that the Kosmet Klub will make this year as negotiations (Continued on Page 4.)

DEFENDS PROHIBITION LAW

Attorney Says Difficult to Believe There Is More Drinking Now.

Lloyd J. Marti, Lincoln attorney, defended the prohibition law, as improving conditions in the university in a talk before the Lincoln Knife and Fork club Thursday noon.

In agreeing with the stand of the Wickersham committee on prohibition as set forth in its report he declared: "It is difficult for me to believe that there is more drinking among university students than in the 'good old days' when Lincoln had forty saloons and thirty houses of ill fame operating lawfully and openly soliciting the university trade."

Prof. J. E. Almy presided at the luncheon.

AWGWAN WILL APPEAR FIRST OF NEXT WEEK

April Issue Contains List of Rating Sororities Based on Pins.

SEND TO HIGH SCHOOLS

The April issue of the Nebraska Awgwan will appear on the campus the first part of next week, according to Art Mitchell, business manager of the publication.

The outstanding features of this month's issue is a rating list of sororities on the campus. This rating will be based on the number of girls who have accumulated the greatest number of fraternity pins up to this time. According to Mitchell, the sorority winning will not be announced until the Awgwan is on the stands.

To encourage a spirit of gambling on the campus, a horse race feature has been introduced, wherein the best picker will get as a prize the New Yorker's album which includes all the cartoons printed in this year's New Yorker. Who will cover bets is not announced.

A page of nominations to obscure campus personalities, also at least one faculty member, will be one of the features.

The campus tempo page and the gore column, which have proved successes in previous issues, will be continued.

The beauty page of this issue will contain pictures of five Nebraska coeds who have been nominated to fame. Last month's issue contained only four photographs.

This issue of the Awgwan will be sent out to all high schools in the statewide contest which is being carried on at present. The contest is being sponsored by the magazine to promote familiarity with the university and its publications.

ANNUAL DEBATE CONTEST OPENS WITH 15 TEAMS

Use New System of Numbers For Groups Entered in Meet.

ANNOUNCE NO WINNERS

Prof. White Does Not Like Plan; Doubts It Will Be Used Again.

High school debating teams representing fifteen districts in the state completed the first round in state tournament Thursday evening under a new system whereby each team is assigned a number and debates anonymously throughout the tournament.

The system adopted last December at the annual meeting of the Nebraska High School Debating League, is designed to eliminate any decisions based on the prejudice of the judge in favor of any certain town or district. The teams will continue throughout the tournament to be designated just merely by number instead of by the town which they represent.

Meet to Assign Numbers. A meeting of all the teams was held Thursday afternoon at which each team was assigned its number and requested to keep its number a secret. Neither the judges nor the teams themselves are supposed to know which teams are meeting each other in debate. Only when the final championship day (Continued on Page 4.)

DIVISION PUBLISHES BOOK ON SCHEDULES

Discusses Procedure in Enriched Curriculum, Class Revisions.

"Practical Procedures for Enriching the Curriculum," a recent publication of the Extension Division of the university, is concerned with class schedules of high school and their practical revision.

The department has been working during the past year on revision of class schedules of high schools throughout the state. Both the department of school administration and the extension division have had a part in this.

The major outcome of this revision is usually a wider array of subjects with a somewhat smaller teaching force. The usual savings by such a revision is approximately at about $500. The work has been given free of charge. For the next year this work will be centered under Mr. Earl T. Platt, assistant director in charge of supervised correspondence.

EXPECT RECORD BREAKING CROWD AT FEEDERS DAY

Chairman Gramlich States All Ready for Annual College Event.

TO INSPECT LIVESTOCK

Husbandry Head at Ka State College Is Speaker.

Nearly 2,000 Nebraska farmers are expected at the agricultural college today for the annual feeder's day program. Favorable weather conditions favor the attendance of the record breaking crowd.

Prof. H. J. Gramlich, head of the animal husbandry department and in general charge of the event, announced Thursday night that all was in readiness for the day. Prominent members of the college faculty along with livestock producers and outside authorities are scheduled to appear on the program.

Schedule Department Head. Dr. C. W. McCampbell, head of the animal husbandry department at the Kansas State college, is one of the headline speakers. He appears on both the men and women programs in the afternoon. Professor Gramlich says McCampbell has appeared in Nebraska before and is an influential speaker.

The Friday program includes sessions for both men and women. Both, however, will meet in a general meeting in the student activities building during the early part of the morning. Last year about 300 women attended the home economics session. Members of the home economics department have arranged an attractive program for the visitors.

To Announce Results. Results of various feeding tests with cattle, hogs and sheep will be announced during the day by professors who have had charge of the experiments. Prof. R. E. Blalock will give out the category experiment summary while Prof. M. A. Alexander will discuss the sheep feeding tests. Prof. Wm. J. Loeffel will talk about the swine test which is not completed as yet.

At noon the visitors will inspect the experimental livestock in the feed lots on the campus. Department instructors will be on hand to discuss the various lots and will explain them. Seats have been erected for the comfort of the farmers.

A question box dealing with all problems relating to livestock will feature the afternoon program to be held in the student activities building. In past years this has been one of the outstanding parts of the program. Instructors on the campus will answer the various questions handed in during the afternoon.

FACULTY MEMBERS AID IN BOOK PUBLICATION

Extension Division Prints Volume on How to Cut School Budgets.

Publication of a book, Practical Economics in School Administration, was announced recently by the extension division. The book was written by several members of the Nebraska faculty in collaboration with members of the Kansas State Teachers' association.

The purpose of the book is to assist school administrators, particularly in smaller cities and villages, in preparing an inevitable reduced budget so that a minimum of injury will be done to the school's educational program.

up, and the trunk starting to swing upward, the larger of the elephants is designed to look as if it had scented trouble. The smaller one is to be apparently sleepily wandering around behind it.

Praises Design. "Mr. Clark has designed the animals," Mr. Roper points out, "so that the big elephant is coming toward the rear entrance and the smaller one walking away to the rear. Yet they will hold their front feet any angle at which you look at them. As far as design is concerned, I believe they are superior to the elephants in the Field museum in Chicago."

Task of preparing the elephants has been carried on in the Clark studios in New York for about two and one-half years. The skins are tanned out down to size; clay models are made from which machine mauls are cast around which the skins are fitted for the mounting.
