

ALUMNI STUDENT PARTY PROGRAM PLANS ARRANGED

Kosmet Klub Will Present Features of Both This Year's Shows.

FOUR NUMBERS PICKED 'Jingle Belles' Extracts and Fall Review Skits to Be Produced.

A half hour's entertainment between 8 o'clock and 8:30, is a special part of the Innocents-Mortar Board Ivy day party, according to an announcement by Kosmet Klub, which was delegated to arrange for the added feature by the Innocents society.

The first unit will be the Delta Gamma trio of Zoa Warner, Louise Correa and Eleanor Burwell. An extract from Kosmet Klub's "Jingle Belles," the most humorous scene of this year's musical comedy, will be the second feature.

The apache dance from the Delta Gamma-Sigma Chi act of last fall's Kosmet Klub morning revue will show Pat McDonald and Caroline Echols jerking cigarettes and using body slams.

A medley of tunes from the musical comedy "Jingle Belles" will be sung by Russell Mousel, lead of the Kosmet Klub show. "Just You Dear," "Sophomore Sal," "The Corn Cob" and the "Tassels," are the numbers that the Kosmet Klub soloist will sing.

Patrons and patronesses and chaperones for the Ivy day party were announced last Saturday by William McCaffin and Jean Rathburn, general chairmen in charge of the arrangements for the alumni-student affair.

This year's party is the first of such affairs to be held on Ivy Day. The party has been accepted as a fitting climax for the events of the traditional day.

Eddie Jungbluth's orchestra is to play at the Coliseum during the evening. Johnny Johnson and his Victor recording orchestra were to play for the affair but were unable to keep the engagement.

MEDICAL COLLEGE TO ACT AS HOST MAY 7

One Hundred Students Are Expected to Attend Pre-Medic Day.

The University of Nebraska medical college at Omaha will be host to the pre-medics from all the colleges of the state on Pre-Medic Day, May 7. About one hundred students are expected to be present.

Registration at the medical college will begin Saturday morning at 8 o'clock and will be followed by conducted visits through the buildings of the school and through the University hospital. Every student will be given an opportunity to attend clinics and lectures by members of the Medical college staff.

At noon, luncheon will be served in the cafeteria of the hospital. In the afternoon the schedule includes (Continued on Page 2.)

New Carrie B. Raymond Dormitory Will Provide Women Fine Quarters Because of Years Spent in Planning

With the naming of the new residence hall being erected on North Sixteenth street for Carrie Belle Raymond, deceased, long-time director of the University Chorus, as announced by the Board of Regents at their meeting Saturday, an inquiry into the beginnings of the agitation for the building which finally met with success would prove interesting.

The first unit of the building, costing $269,000, will be ready for occupancy in the fall and will accommodate 170 university women. Any woman may live in the hall who is enrolled in the university, there is no compulsory residence for freshmen women.

The first women's dormitories were put into use in 1920 when six cottages, most of them located on R street between Twelfth and Thirteenth, were converted into dormitories. These buildings were private residences that had been purchased a short time before in the extension of the city campus and were not designed for dormitory use.

BIG SISTERS LIST MADE

Names of Ninety Coeds Will Be Announced May 14 At Initiation.

Ninety girls were selected by the Big Sister board at their meeting Monday noon at Ellen Smith hall to serve as official big sisters to the girls entering the university for the first time next year. Letters are being sent to the girls chosen, which request them to attend an initiation service Saturday, May 14. Announcement of the names of the girls asked to participate in this movement will not be released until the initiation ceremony.

The Big Sister board is composed of twelve girls chosen at a general election. The board chooses as big sisters the girls whom they feel will accept the responsibility of orienting new girls to the campus. Help will be given the new girls at time of registration, at various social functions and in activities of all kinds.

DEBATE TOURNAMENT FINALS SET FOR TUESDAY EVENING

Delta Sigma Lambda, Beta Theta Pi Will Argue For Plaque.

The climax to the intramural debate program will be reached Tuesday night when Beta Theta Pi meets Delta Sigma Lambda in the final round of the scheduled contest. The debate will get underway at 8:30 o'clock because of the interfraternity banquet that is being held Tuesday night.

With a plaque as the stake the Greek arguers will dispute the question: Resolved, that military training be abolished at Nebraska. Three judges will officiate at the debate.

The Beta Theta Pi team will be Edward Brewster and Edward Beagler. The Delta Sigma Lambda team will be represented by Norman Malcoln and either Larry McDonald or Dan Easterday.

To Be At Beta House. The debate will be held at the Beta Theta Pi house as that fraternity is taking the negative side of the question. Fraternities have been alternating as hosts and have taken both sides of the issue during the elimination contest.

The Delta Sigma Lambda team has had two more debates than the Beta Theta Pi team, as the Beta's won their first round by forfeit and the Delta Sigma Lambda's had to engage in a special debate to make the bracket even.

The debates have been run off in the last two weeks. Seventeen teams were entered at the beginning of the contest. Judges have been members of the varsity debate team or alumni who were active in debate when they were in school.

Rudolf Vogeler, chairman of intramurals, has been responsible for the carrying out of the project that was proposed by Delta Sigma Rho, national intercollegiate forensic society. Prof. H. A. White, varsity debate coach, has chosen the judges for the debates.

Intramural debate was started after a survey of student opinion demonstrated that the Greeks were interested in the forensic activity. The Daily Nebraskan assisted in sounding out student sentiment in regard to the proposal.

Walter Huber, Ivy day orator and president of Delta Sigma Rho, was active in the campaign to inaugurate the program. Letters were sent to the various organizations on the campus requesting them to state their stand on the proposed intramural debate and for the interested fraternities to signify their intention of entering the contest.

W.A.A. EXECUTIVE COUNCIL SPONSORS PICNIC ON MAY 3

The W. A. A. Executive Council is sponsoring a picnic to be held at Pioneer park, Tuesday evening, at 6 o'clock, according to Jane Robertson, general chairman for the affair. Mildred Gish is in charge of transportation and Dorothy Charleston, the games. The sport board along with the club heads and their assistants are to be the guests of the Council at the picnic.

BRYAN, SORENSEN WILL SPEAK FOR LAST FAIR RALLY

Governor, Attorney-General Featured on Thursday Ag Program.

PLAN OLD CLOTHES DAY Farm College Students to Wear Overalls, Aprons On Wednesday.

Governor Charles W. Bryan and Attorney General Sorensen are scheduled to be headline speakers at the Thursday fair rally to be held in Ag hall, according to Miss Eva Buel, who has charge of the rallies. Dean W. W. Burr of the college will introduce both speakers. The Junior fair board will also present a skit for the rally.

All students registered in the College of Agriculture will be required to wear old clothes Wednesday to generate spirit for the annual farmers fair to be held Saturday, according to announcement made by the senior fair board this morning. Boys will be required to wear overalls and girls aprons.

In past years it has been a tradition to wear old clothes on at least one day preceding the fair. Since there is no school on Thursday, Friday or Saturday at the College of Agriculture, the board decided to make Wednesday the traditional day. They promise a "tubbing" to all students who fail to comply with their request. The horse tank is being put on the rectangle today in preparation for the day.

Plans Nearly Complete. With the fair but a few days away, Manager Fred Meredith says final plans are nearing completion. (Continued on Page 3.)

PROGRAM COMPLETED FOR ENGINEERS' NIGHT

Mechanical Engineering Hall To House All Displays Of College.

EXPERIMENTS PLANNED

The program of the mechanical engineering department for the Open House night of Engineer's Week, May 5, has been completed, according to James Ludwickson, chairman of the mechanical engineering departmental committee for Engineer's Week. All of the department's displays will be located in the Mechanical Engineering building and all machines will be in operation.

The machine shop, the power laboratory and the foundry, located on the first floor, will be open to the public. The machine shop will illustrate the principle of interchangeable manufacture. The power laboratory will give a demonstration of reciprocating steam engines, steam turbines, and internal combustion engines including the newer type, the Diesel engine, as well as several types of refrigerating systems. Hydraulic equipment, such as hydraulic pumps, nozzles, weirs, and the like will be demonstrated, and in the foundry, castings will be made from molten iron.

On the second floor, a liquid air experiment will be given. The paint shop on the same floor will have the various power driven woodworking machines in operation throughout the evening.

In the basement, the aeronautics laboratory will exhibit various types of airplane engines, as well as a completely constructed airplane. The metallurgy laboratory will feature samples of various metals as viewed under the microscope and the fuels laboratory will demonstrate several laboratory tests commonly made on fuels and lubricants.

The mechanical engineers are doubly busy for they have charge of the campus structure for this year. The nature of the structure has not been disclosed but the structure itself will be erected on the campus by Tuesday, May 3.

NAME HONORARY MEMBERS

Theta Sigma Phi Initiates Mrs. Eberhard and Mrs. Weaver Monday.

Mrs. Mignon Good Eberhard, prominent Nebraska novelist, and Mrs. Anna Dee Weaver, editor of the Home Circle department of the Nebraska Farmer were initiated as honorary members of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary women's journalistic sorority Monday evening. Eight other girls were initiated as active members. The initiation was followed by a banquet at the University club.

Mrs. Eberhard has gained considerable notoriety for her mystery stories. Some of the best known are "While the Patient Slept," "The Patient in Room 18," and "The Mystery of Hunting's End." She has recently returned from a winter in Europe. Mrs. Weaver was formerly in charge of a feature of the University of Nebraska radio program, on which she was known as Mrs. True Homemake.

FRANKLIN DAVIS ASPHYXIATED IN HIS OWN GARAGE

Senior Bizad Student Found Dead Monday Morning By His Father.

NO INQUEST IS PLANNED Carbon Gas Poisoning From Running Motor Blamed For Accident.

Franklin B. Davis, twenty, senior in the College of Business Administration, was found dead at 2:30 Monday morning in the back seat of his car parked in the garage at his home, 1922 High st. Death was attributed to accidental carbon monoxide gas poisoning. No inquest will be held unless requested by the family.

The garage doors were closed and the building was filled with carbon monoxide gas when the incident was noticed. The motor of the car was still running when the body was discovered by the father, Benjamin F. Davis. County Attorney Towle, a neighbor of the family, investigated and attributed the death to gas poisoning.

Four days was suspected when it was discovered that the three side windows of the car were smashed. The windows were broken from the inside, and shattered glass was scattered about the floor of the garage. A careful examination of the body, however, by Dr. Leonard J. Owens, failed to reveal any evidence of an attack. No bruises or abrasions on the body were found with the exception of a scratch on the left leg, apparently caused by glass.

Davis and two of his fraternity brothers, David L. Sisco, a junior in the College of Business Administration, and George Zimmerman, a senior in the College of Business Administration, had been on a picnic early in the evening, it was learned. About 11 o'clock Sunday night, Davis arrived at the Pi Kappa Phi house, of which fraternity he is a member, and left about midnight, presumably for home.

Mr. Davis said he awakened about 2:30 Monday and noticed that the boy was not at home and that the garage doors were closed. He investigated and found the body in the car. He immediately summoned Dr. Owens who pronounced the boy dead. At that time Davis had been dead about an hour, he estimated.

Contrary to its customary practice of avoiding publicity for sororities the panhellenic council at its meeting Monday at Ellen Smith hall passed a rule favoring a publicity feature on social welfare projects in which national groups are engaged. A committee was appointed to collect the stories from the various houses and this will be turned over to the Lincoln papers for publication.

In completing the discussion of rushing rules it was decided that girls affiliated with any sorority will be allowed to go to the dining (Continued on Page 2.)

The social dancing club picnic is to take place Thursday May 5 at 4:30 in Belmont park. Audrey Cameron is the chairman of the committee for the picnic. Tickets may be purchased by calling the Y. W. C. A. or Audrey Cameron. The tickets are twenty-five cents and the members will meet at the armory.

Presentation of the Twenty-First May Queen Differs From Ceremony Used to Present Miss Barr in 1912

Her honor, the twenty-first May Queen of the University of Nebraska Ivy Day ceremonies, will be crowned Thursday morning following traditional events including the interfraternity sing contest sponsored by Kosmet Klub, the daisy and ivy chain processional and the triumphal processional of the Queen and her attendants.

The first queen who ascended her throne in 1912, was Miss Louise Barr, now Mrs. Lewis R. Anderson of Lincoln. She was elected at a coed mass meeting. The 1932 May Queen was elected by senior and junior women at an election held for that purpose some months ago. That Ivy Day was a different affair from those of today, according to Mrs. Anderson. It was a very colorful affair, she herself being adorned in cream satin while she carried a staff topped with a sheaf of red and white roses, thus carrying out the university color scheme. Instead of walking to her throne, she rode in a jirikisha loaned by the late William Jennings Bryan.

Ivy Day tradition itself, however, is older than the exercises surrounding the coronation of the May queen. It has existed since 1898 when only seniors were excused from classes to take part in the ceremonies. The planting of the Ivy was the main event of the day in those years. Two years later the day became "senior day," and the program became more elaborate as an Ivy day orator, the reading of the class poem, and the presentation of the senior gift to (Continued on Page 3)
