BRYAN, SORENSEN WILL SPEAK FOR LAST FAIR RALLY

Practically every committee for the fair is working overtime in an attempt to be ready for the annual exposition. Girls in the College of Agriculture will elect the 1932 Goddess of Agriculture and her six attendants on Tuesday and Wednesday. They will be presented at the annual prefair dance held for Ag students in the student activities building Friday night. The Goldenrod serenaders will play for the dance. Niesje Lakeman of Sargent was the Goddess last year.

Delphin Nash, who is in general charge of the milking contest, announced this morning that eight coeds have signified their intentions of entering the contest. They will be required to milk a certain portion of milk from dairy cows. Prizes will be awarded the winners.

Will Provide Comedy. The mens' milking contest is expected to be one of the big comedies of the 1932 fair. The beef cows will be turned loose in the arena just north of the student activities building and the men will be required to catch the cows and milk them in any fashion or manner. Pint bottles will be given to the contestants in which the milk must be received from the cows.

Coeds in the cow milking contest include Muriel Moffitt, Vera Mae Bang, Helen Hengstler, Lucille Hile, Alice Reese, Mary Gerlach, Dorothy Brewer, Frances Duchack and Mabel Heather. Several more entries are expected before the end of the week. Practice on the pageant which will be presented both in the afternoon and evening is going forward rapidly, according to Miss Ruthalee Holloway, who is in general charge of the production. Students in the pageant are excused from late afternoon classes today and tomorrow for practice.

Riding Contest Planned. Several girls have already officially entered the coed intersorority riding contest to be held at the fair Saturday. Al Ebers is in general charge of arrangements for the event. Richard Faulkner of Lincoln is donating the cup to the winner and will judge the show. Jane Beaumont won the 1931 contest.

George Harrison, who is in charge of the horse pulling contest said today that there will be two classes for horses, the light and heavyweights. Prominent Lincoln business concerns are donating the prizes to be awarded the winners. It was reported at the college

Monday that Russell Hughes, one of the principals in the main boxing event for the fair, will be in Lincoln late this week to train for his bout with Sallentin. Hughes is a former University of Nebraska student and comes from Albion. There are three other bouts on the evening's program. Sooner Powerful. The Nebraska-Oklahoma dual here Friday should be an interesting affair, with the Sooners presenting a talented crew of trackers. Mell and Morris in the broad jump, Klees, javelin winner at Kansas and Drake relays, Newblock, a high jumper, and Howells, shot put and discus man are some of the headliners on the Norman team. Included in the list of ten state colleges are members of both the N. C. A. C. and N. I. A. A. conferences. Each school will send approximately five men to Lincoln to compete against the Huskers. The schools invited by Director Gish are: Hastings, Doane, Wesleyan, Midland, York, Cotner, Kearney State Teachers, Peru State Teachers, Wayne State Teachers and Omaha university. The meet has been scheduled on the same date as the state high school championships. Nebraska will be attempting to shake off the jinx that has followed them in the conference outdoor meets when Big Six squads gather in Lincoln May 20, 21, for the annual championships. Coach Hamilton's Kansas Jayhawks have edged out the Cornhuskers for the two successive years, and if their showing at the Kansas and Drake relays is any indication, have another fine team this year.

A waiter's training school is about to become a reality on the Ohio State campus. There will now be no excuse for waiters who spill soup in patrons' laps and jab customers in the eyes with forks. Certain eastern schools have been having revolutions on popular music trends. Dean Butler of Syracuse came out with a statement that branded him as an anti-crooner when he deplored modern tendencies in jazz and said uncomplimentary things about radio crooners. Bing Crosby, taking the stand for the crooners, wrote a letter to the Syracuse Daily Orange and refuted the dean. And before their Junior Prom, the Purdue Exponent asked the opinion of Charlie Dameron, who was to conduct the Prom orchestra. Said Dameron: "Concerning the popular music and crooning 'bunk', 100,000,000 people can't be wrong."

Contents of libraries, museums and collections owned by the University of Minnesota are valued at $2,470,550. Following charges and countercharges of illegal rushing tactics, the twenty-four fraternities at Stanford have pushed themselves into a pretty mess. They have been barred from further rushing and pledging activities until next November. Radio television is a new subject to be added to the extension course of the University of California. One hundred sixty-five dollars collected from attendants at the Carl Sandburg lecture at Ohio State will be used to bring prominent literary men to the campus. Youth is not irreligious, but only losing faith in the forms and dogmas of the church and synagogue said James Waterman Wise of New York in a recent address to University of Illinois students. Thumbs down on slang is the new rule at Oklahoma university, where the classroom slangist may be denied his diploma. After explaining to his class that it would meet with another group for the remainder of the semester, one of Minnesota's most absent minded professors proceeded to assign seats for the rest of the term. Nine hundred forty-five of the students enrolled at Yale are foreigners. The first step toward abolition of cliques among University of Maryland women has been taken, with each sorority having been requested to sign a pledge promising to enter no political faction. Fifty new teachers have been appointed to the New York university faculty. Dormitories will be used exclusively by law students at Harvard next year. Present day youth is quieter and more staid than the youth of seven or eight years ago according to Dr. Harris Franklin Rall in the Iowa State Student.

HEAVY PROGRAM FACING VARSITY, FROSH TRACKMEN

Telegraphic Compet, Two Duals and Conference Meet on Slate.

OKLAHOMA HERE FRIDAY

Newblock, Morris, Howell, Kleas Headline Sooner Performers.

Husker cinder burners, both varsity and freshmen, face a busy program for the next three weeks. On Tuesday, the yearlings start their annual telegraphic meet in competition with frosh athletes from other Big Six schools. The varsity meets the University of Oklahoma at Memorial stadium track Friday in their only dual with a Big Six team this season. Coach Schulte's men encounter ten state colleges in a second dual meet on Saturday, May 14. The affair will start at 10 o'clock. The Big Six conference meet here May 20 and 21 will wind up the season for the Scarlet. With Funk, Williams, Lamourcaux, Skewes, Green, Reifschneider, Toman, Eisenhart, Roberts and Werner showing the way, Freshman Coach Jimmy Lewis hopes to see some good marks hung up during the two weeks of the telegraphic meet. The best four performers in each event will be compared against the records made by freshmen at Kansas, Iowa State, Missouri, Oklahoma and Kansas State. The mile, 100 yard dash and all field events are on the slate for Tuesday. Sooner Powerful. The Nebraska-Oklahoma dual here Friday should be an interesting affair, with the Sooners presenting a talented crew of trackers. Mell and Morris in the broad jump, Klees, javelin winner at Kansas and Drake relays, Newblock, a high jumper, and Howells, shot put and discus man are some of the headliners on the Norman team. Harmony in Museum Caused by Hawaii's God of Happiness

IOWA CITY, Ia.—A little chap, with ears like Pan and a head like a cocoon, is apparently the cause of harmony in the University of Iowa museum. He is Hauoi, Hawaii's god of happiness. Hauoi came from Hawaii with Director Homer R. Dill in 1920 when Mr. Dill was on an expedition for the university. One of the higher officials in Honolulu in an unguarded moment offered Hauoi's god of happiness to Mr. Dill and before the offer could be withdrawn, Hauoi was safely packed in a suitcase. Hauoi is a dwarf-like little creature about eight inches long with a mouth stretching from ear to ear. He had the strange experience of being broken to pieces, burned in a fire, and then reassembled. One day Mr. Dill sent a student out to do some house cleaning for him. When Mr. Dill came home Hauoi was gone. "What did you do with Hauoi?" he asked the boy. "Hauoi? Oh, you mean that little thing sitting on the window sill? Well, when I opened the window he fell and broke to pieces. I swept him up and burned him in the furnace with some other rubbish."

Professor Gives New Conception Of Gangland Lore

COLUMBUS, O.—"This twist was an owl mob's front. Young, pretty, and flash. Had mumbly pegs that would make a preacher blow his kip. She would make the ads for some fifty dames s. o. s. and with phony refs she would get placed." No, you're wrong. The reporter did not punch the wrong typewriter key. This foregoing paragraph is an excerpt from some of the gangland language gathered by David W. Maurer of the department of English in his studies of underworld argot. Much of the public's conception of the underworld is incorrect, which is due, principally, to the ideas expounded by the movies and the newspapers, Maurer says. "The underworld has a language all its own, and is very secretive about it. The sentence structure is essentially the same, but some of the words are derived from many different sources and languages." The college senior recognizes only sixty-one out of one hundred words in familiar use by educated persons says a report issued by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

A PULLED muscle to a trackman is like a sprained back to an anglerworm. It doesn't work. Harold Petz encountered the same trouble at the Drake relays last week that kept Jerry Lee from displaying his best form last season. Running as lead off man on the Nebraska 440 yard relay team, Petz managed to deliver the baton to Lee, but it must have been an awful effort. Even at that, the Huskers placed second to Illinois in the heat to qualify for Saturday's finals. The Illinois team repeated its triumph in the Kansas relays, coming in ahead of the field in the finals. Coach Schulte says that Petz will not be able to run until the Big Six carnival May 20, 21 and perhaps not even then. The Nelson boy will certainly be missed. It isn't very often that two mile teams of the caliber of Notre Dame, Iowa State, Michigan and Nebraska clash in the same meet. With such intense competition, a new record was inevitable. The new mark of 7:48.8 hung up at Drake by Notre Dame means an average of a trifle over 1:57 for each of the Irish runners. However, in this case, Alex Wilson, the Notre Dame anchor man made up for the slower efforts of his mates by stepping the distance, unofficially in 1:53.7. Schulte is proud of his Husker team, although they did not win. Oestergard, Storey, Ayres and Asher averaged 1:58, good enough under ordinary circumstances to win in any track meet. Henry Brocksmith was termed by Schulte as "just about the best distance man I have ever seen in action." The Indian pioneer ran three times at Drake. On Friday he did a mile in 4:17, and then on Saturday afternoon shattered the American intercollegiate two mile record with a 9:13.6 mark and finished his day's work with an easy 4:27 mile anchoring the Hoosier four mile relay team. The bespectacled Indiana stars run with marvelous ease but with tremendous power, according to Schulte.

HUSKER NETMEN PLAY OKLAHOMA SATURDAY

Inexperienced Scarlet Team Meets Veteran Club in Sooners.

TO NAME FOURTH MAN

When the University of Nebraska tennis team opens its Big Six season against Oklahoma Saturday at the Lincoln Tennis Club, it will be a case of an inexperienced team meeting an outfit composed of veterans, with one exception. The Husker squad lists but one letterman, Roberto Mario, hard hitting Filipino netman, while the Sooner quartet includes three experienced players in Capt. Warren Hastings who will play No. 2, Charles Davis, No. 1, who held match point twice last year in a match with Bruce Barnes of Texas U., and Thomas, a steady, cool player. Coach Gregg McBride has nominated three of the four who will represent Nebraska in the Sooner match. They include Roberto Mario, Wilbur Haegen, co-holder of the state and city doubles title and Ellery Davis. This is the first season for both Haegen and Davis as varsity players. The fourth member will be selected following a series of elimination matches this week between Wentworth Fling, Voris Peden, Joe Miller, Ray Frerichs and Lester Flodman. Miller plays Frerichs in one bracket, the winner to oppose the victor of the Fling-Peden vs. Flodman match. Presentation of the Twenty-First May Queen Differs From Ceremony Used to Present Miss Barr in 1912 (Continued from Page 1.) The class were added to the day's events. In 1903, the first May pole dance was given, a tradition adhered to until three years ago, and in 1905 the innocents first began the practice of tapping their new members. The Black Masques, now the Mortar Boards, first masked their new members in 1908. It was the innocents society which was responsible for making Ivy day an all-university tradition and holiday. Through their efforts, the entire day was devoted to the ceremonies. 1917 found Ivy day a tradition of general festivities with something planned for every hour of the day and much of the evening. Following the crowning of the queen in the morning, masking and tapping by the honoraries took place in Electric park. There were games and athletic contests, a picnic supper at night, and dancing. And so, one of Nebraska's few very old traditions, will again be observed Thursday. The May Queen and the maid of honor, the girl who received the second highest number of votes at the campus election, will be presented at the conclusion of the professional of pages and class attendants. The Ivy Day poet will be presented, and the Ivy will be planted. Another year will be added to those years of background accruing to the tradition.
