word about that which is to come.

The retiring members of the council were ushered into office one year ago imbued with the peculiar responsibility which was theirs of inaugurating a new era in student government at the University of Nebraska. This council has been the first to operate under the revised council constitution which one year ago was new and untried. The realization of the hopes of those who were instrumental in securing the adoption of the new constitution depended in a large measure upon the energy and ability of this group.

It was the task of this year's council to demonstrate to the students, faculty and administration that the Student Council was capable of handling larger tasks, of bearing greater responsibilities, and of being of an increased service to the university. How well the council has measured up to this responsibility we will leave it to others to judge. Suffice it to say that the council has initiated and carried to successful conclusions a number of far-reaching reforms as well as administering its routine duties in a satisfactory fashion.

THREE MAJOR PROJECTS

Stimulate Activity Interest.

Three major projects have received council support. At the suggestion of the Innocents' society, the council was pleased to appoint a representative committee to work out ways and means for stimulating increased student participation in extra curricular activities. The newly-established Barb organization is the direct outgrowth of the council's efforts in this direction. This organization is now well on its feet. The council in the coming year will do well to maintain a kindly interest in the group and encourage its growth and development to the end that student activities may become more truly representative of the entire student body. At such time as the group is prepared to crystallize its permanent organization the council should assist it in the perfection and ratification of its constitution. In this way the Barb group may take its proper place in the hierarchy of student organizations.

2.—Athletic Board Representation.

After two years of effort the council perfected a plan whereby the student body might secure representation upon the Athletic Board of Control. Such plans were approved by a referendum vote of the students. At the present time the plan is awaiting final action by the Board of Regents. We trust that the Regents will see fit to act favorably upon the council's proposals' formulation. In the event then devolve upon the new council to carry into effect the provisions of the plan in the non-partisan spirit which prevailed in the proposal's formulation. In the event that the Board of Regents rejects the petition, we urge upon the new council the advisability of conferring with the proper authorities so that a revised plan may be presented to the regents and some degree of representation secured on this important board for the students. Should our plans meet temporary defeat the new council must carry on in order that the council's objective may eventually be obtained.

3.—Renewed Outside Contacts.

This year has witnessed the renewal of our contacts with the student governing bodies in other schools. The council delegated certain of its members to attend the congress of the National Student Federation of America at Toledo. The recommendation of the delegates was that the Nebraska council not affiliate with the N. S. F. A. The trip, however, which was made possible through the co-operation of the university administration, in allowing an added item on the council budget, was productive of much satisfaction by the delegates as to the structure and operation of activities at Nebraska. A direct result of the trip was the recent helpful conference of delegates from councils in the Big Six. The responsibility for maintaining interest in future conferences lies with the new council.

Sinecure Offices Reduced.

By council action the number of sinecure campus offices was reduced through the removal of the minor class presidencies. It is to be hoped that the new council will continue the work of simplifying and integrating the structure of student activities. In at least one instance the council satisfactorily adjudicated an inter-organization dispute—the Kosmet Klub-Law College difficulties being smoothed out.

Supervised Migrations.

The responsibility for student migrations to football games was assumed by the council in a satisfactory manner. Over 1,400 people attended the Nebraska-Kansas Aggie game at Manhattan under council supervision. Future councils will do well to co-operate with the dean of student affairs in effecting the proper handling of such expeditions.

Again this year the council requested the Innocents' society to assume charge of rallies with the assistance of the Corn Cobs and Tassels. The fine record made by the Innocents in this matter would lend weight to the recommendation that they be authorized to arrange for rallies next year.

The chair suggests to the new council the advisability of perfecting the council's machinery for handling the constitutions of new organizations. Some way should be devised whereby a close check could be maintained on these groups. A definite policy should also be established relative to granting permission for subscription dances. These have increased in number to the point that they constitute a problem. We recommend that next year's council investigate the feasibility of installing a unit tax system for the support of activities at Nebraska.

Council Non-Partisan. The chair wishes to take this opportunity to express to the retiring members of the council his appreciation for the effort which they have exerted in the successful execution of the council's measures. The wholesome non-partisan spirit which has prevailed in the council during the past year stands as witness to the earnest desire of the council's members to serve the interests of the university as a whole rather than the interests of any group or faction.

Advisers Complimented. The council has been most fortunate to have as its advisers two

Yellow Jacket Faction Got Name in 1927 Election When Daily Nebraskan Promoted Interest in Spring Ballot

What's in a name? The names Blue Shirts and Yellow-jackets mean something to those of the campus realm even if they signify only haberdashery to the rest of the world.

The origin of the name Blue Shirts occurred prior to the spring election of 1927. The Yellow Jackets had their name thrust upon them by the Blue Shirts who adopted the name "Blue Shirts" for the election. The "Oily Sixes" now dubbed "Yellowjackets" at first objected to their new name, but when the Daily Nebraskan took it up, and when the ratio in the Innocents' selection was changed from a seven to six split to a ten to three verdict in favor of the new Blue Shirt faction, the old name of "Oily Sixes" lost its significance.

The Daily Nebraskan under the editorship of Bill Ceynar wished to promote interest in the spring election of 1927. The "Slippery Sevens" changed their names and held special rallies before the election. A plan was decided upon whereby all members of that facsuch interested and able people as Miss Anderson and Mr. Lantz. Their untiring devotion and valuable advice in securing the best ends of the council have been sources of inspiration and renewed vigor for the student members of the council. The new members will do well to consult the council's advisers freely upon all questions.

The chair urges that the close contact which has characterized our relations with the university administration be maintained. The success of the council's efforts depends in a large measure upon the maintenance of a spirit of harmony and mutual confidence. This spirit can best be maintained by working shoulder to shoulder with all those parties who are interested in better student government at Nebraska.

Respectfully submitted,
E. J. FAULKNER,
President.

which a young midwesterner becomes involved when he starts sparkin'."

"Minnie Field," the other play which will be presented by this author, presents in 15 or 20 minutes the entire life of a woman who has died, thru the conversation of five men who are sitting up at her wake. This is also a midwestern story.

Lerner Presents "Kadish." The play of Mr. Lerner, "Kadish," deals with modern Jewish life and the conflict of father and son when the son announces his intention to marry a gentile.

The room in the Temple which is being decorated as a studio theater has become very attractive with large drapes and hangings which are being made by students in the department. Screens of a decorative nature will be the only scenery used. New curtains and lighting fixtures have been added to the room. It has a seating capacity of approximately 250. The program will begin at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening.

Sig Alphas at Ohio State deferred initiation plans when Brother Rudy Vallee made a week-end visit to their house.

A crowd of about 200 attended the annual dance drama given by Orchesis in the coliseum Wednesday evening. The recital was directed by Miss Charlotte Bergstrom, instructor in the department of physical education for women.

"Symphony," the first dance in part one, was composed of four parts: Andante, Vivace, Largo and Lamentante. Largo was presented by a choir with a leader, and Lamentante was done by four girls with a large scarf.

A primitive dance, done to the beating of a tom-tom, by a large group of girls in costumes representing animal skins, was next on the program. Following this, a "Gypsy Cycle" included Contre Dance; Black Eyes, the story of a gypsy girl who found a scarf and decided to run away with it—portrayed by La Verle Herman; Dancing Bear, portrayed by Warralene Lee, and Rustic Dance by the whole group.

Machine Age Dances Given. "Conflict Cycle" included Machine Age, in which the wheels and moving parts of machines were portrayed by the group. Josephine Orr did a solo dance: Mob, by the whole group, and Youth and Age, showing how youth pushes age into the background. The last number of part one was "Day of the Last Judgment."

Part two began with a solo dance, "Cradle Song," by Ruth Winberley; "Shadows," by Estred Anderson and Warralene Lee; "Milk Maid and Vagabond," by Lucille Reilly and Ruth Winberley; "Ancient Sailor Dance," by Estred Anderson, Ruth Winberley, Warralene Lee, and Julienne Deetken; and "Hurdy-Gurdy," by the whole group.

Must Originate Dances. Members must work out original dances in groups or as individuals before they are admitted to Orchesis. The members who presented the recital are Josephine Orr, Lucille Reilly, Ruth Winberley, Warralene Lee, Julienne Deetken, Charlotte Goodale, Harriette Willey, Estred Anderson, Loretta Borzych, Nellie Sacchi, LaVerle Herman, Marie Boren, Margaret Chase, Georgia Kilgore, Sarah Vance, Lynette Gatten, Virginia Moomaw, and Gladys Wright. Mable Forberger was accompanist; Jean Alden and Helen Baldwin served as business managers; and Edith Vail, instructor in physical education, had charge of lights and staging.

COLUMBIA TRIES NEW PLAN

Journalism Students Work Full Eight Hour Day For Practice.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—The Columbia school of journalism has done away with the old system of instructions and has turned its journalism building into a veritable newspaper office. Instead of the old system of grades, outside work and quizzes, the school now runs on a more practical plan.

The students work through an eight hour day as if they were preparing a metropolitan newspaper for press. Each man has his own beat on which he works his full time. The entire routine of publishing a paper is gone through except the actual printing. The professors act as editors and head copy desk men. There are no grades other than "passed" and "failed," no outside work to do. When the student finishes work at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, he is through until the next day as though he had a regular 9 to 5 job. His required reading is the newspaper.

An aviation class for coeds is being planned at Marshall college. It is being sponsored by a freshman, West Virginia's only licensed aviatrix.

STUDENT WORLD TOUR FOR CREDIT PLANNED

Trans-Atlantic Liner Will Be Used as Campus for Floating College.

Plans for a 35,000 mile trip around the world by more than 600 American college students, to sail from New York in October and return in May, and to be joined en route by students from England, Germany, Norway and Italy, are being made by a group of nationally known leaders and by men and women prominent in the social, educational and business life of this and other states, it was learned today.

Senators Arthur Capper of Kansas and Royal S. Copeland of New York, Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Henry J. Allen, former governor and senator from Kansas, and Mrs. Allen, together with others well known here are included among the patrons of the movement, which is designed to broaden the outlook of American university men and women and give them a first hand knowledge of foreign peoples, places and conditions, without loss of time in their regular college work.

A trans-Atlantic ocean liner, equipped with study halls, lecture rooms, science laboratories, auditorium, library, gymnasium and swimming pool, and chartered for the exclusive use of the "American Floating University," will serve as home and campus for the students during the eight months, or two college semesters spent on the world tour. Forty-three countries, sixty-one ports and 100 additional places of international significance will be visited and studied.

Faculty Being Selected. A faculty of fifty-five professors and instructors, most of whom will be on sabbatical leave from American colleges, is now being assembled. Classes corresponding to those in the usual college curriculum will be held regularly at sea, supplemented by field trips in the various countries visited.

The students will be selected for the tour on the basis of character and scholastic standing, with a quota assigned to each state in proportion to the number of college students resident in the state.

Because of the international aspect of the movement and the interest shown by foreign governments and university groups, a special effort will be made to have the student body represent the best in American college life, it is said. Patrons and patronesses are now being chosen in each state to aid in making these selections.

The quota allotment allows for 85 students from the Pacific coast states; 95 from the western states; 115 from the middle west; 100 from the south; 125 from New York and Middle Atlantic states, and 100 from New England.

James R. Wadsworth, assistant professor of romance languages at the University of Nebraska, is interested in the movement.

business managers will be selected. Applications for the Cornhusker were distributed as follows: Two for editor, four for managing editor, two for business manager, and nine for assistant business manager. One editor, two managing editors, one business manager, and two assistant business managers will be chosen.

Three students applied for the position of editor of the Awgwan, while two applied for business manager of the same publication. One editor and one business manager will be selected.

The publications board will probably meet some time the first of next week to consider the applications. Gayle C. Walker, head of the school of journalism, stated yesterday. Contracts will be considered later.
