NO MARKED DROP IN REGISTRATION SEEN BY MORITZ, JOHNS

Economic Conditions Not Expected to Affect Enrollment.

Early Indications Point to Favorable Session; New Features Offered.

An opinion that last year's summer school registration total of 2,713 would be equalled or possibly surpassed was expressed yesterday by R. D. Moritz, director of the summer session, and W. B. Johns, supervisor of mathematics in Teachers' college high school in charge of the summer session schedules.

About 300 university students of the regular year filled out summer school registrations during the week of May 2 to 7. This method of registration, during the period when regular students register for next fall's classes, was an innovation which met with successful results.

Mr. Moritz, altho recognizing that the economic situation might keep some students away from university this summer, pointed out that teachers are beginning to find that school boards are placing more and more emphasis upon the academic qualifications of those whom they hire.

"The raising standards for selection are most noticeable in the selection of men for supervisory and administrative positions," he said. "School boards are looking for men with their master's degree. This was shown clearly in the university bureau of educational service this spring."

Mr. Moritz went on to point out that superintendents, in selecting teachers for the larger high schools, are looking to candidates with qualifications beyond those represented in a bachelor's degree.

"In anticipation of future raised standards of teacher selection, teachers are studying more than ever before," he said. "When normalcy returns those who are best prepared and best qualified will get the positions."

Commenting upon the possible registration figures, Mr. Johns pointed out that if the number of inquiries received concerning courses this summer is any indication the registration should be at least normal. An increase in registration is not to be entirely

Aim of the Session

The coming summer session of the University of Nebraska is of commanding interest to hundreds of students who are about to register for either the six or the eight weeks term.

The faculty for this summer session will include about 135 members of our regular faculty. Most chairmen of departments and leading professors are available during the summer. A number of lecturers with attractive personalities have come from other universities to add strength to our summer courses.

The summer sessions adds many types of students. Teachers from all portions of the state attend the summer school to perfect themselves in some major subject. More and more students with bachelor's degrees return for graduate study. Other students who were unable to carry a full schedule during the regular year attend to expedite securing their degrees.

Moritz Welcomes Summer Students TO SUMMER SCHOOL STUDENTS:

Your presence here is indicative of your desire to improve your opportunities and to avail yourself of what the University has to offer those seeking knowledge, truth, and culture—elements indispensable in the state.

It is the possession of knowledge which will enable you to perform your part in the reconstruction of American economic and political life, which will enable you to take your place as a worthy member of what we hope may be a better social order, and which will give you that optimism so essential to progress.

The University of Nebraska places at your command all its facilities for the pursuit of knowledge, and in so doing bids you a most cordial welcome.

R. D. MORITZ,
Director, Summer Session.

SCHEDULE VARIES FROM LAST YEAR

Noon Classes Abandoned; Fewer 7 O'Clock Periods.

Several variations in this year's summer school schedule are noticeable by a comparison with last year's arrangement of classes, according to Walter B. Johns, supervisor of mathematics in Teachers college high school.

This year there are only twenty-three 7 o'clock classes as compared with about thirty last year. Most of the classes are held at 8 o'clock, the most popular hour of the day, Mr. Johns said. Altho last year the experiment was tried of holding classes during the noon hour the plan has been abandoned this year.

"On the whole they worked fine," Mr. Johns explained, "but there were too many occasions when group luncheons or other events occurring between 12 and 1 o'clock caused conflicts."

Last summer there was some agitation for the elimination of all afternoon classes when the next schedule was made up. This could not possibly be done, Mr. Johns pointed out, because no way could be found to place all laboratories and classes in the morning without conflicts.

DR. BENGSTON WILL TEACH AT COLUMBIA

Dr. Nels A. Bengston, chairman of the department of geography at the University of Nebraska, has been appointed professor of economic geography for the six-week summer session at Columbia, University, New York City. He will leave for the east on July 1.

PROFESSORS HEARD ON RADIO.

Prof. R. D. Moritz, Director of the Summer Session, and Dr. W. H. S. Morton, Director of Teacher Training, each gave fifteen minute radio talks over station KFAB through the University Studio, Thursday morning.

FULL PROGRAM OF RECREATION IS ON SUMMER SCHEDULE

Lantz Announces That First Party Will Be Held Next Friday.

Last Year's Committee to Serve; Contests Planned.

With elaborate plans for a full recreational program of parties, picnics and student sports the first summer session party has already been scheduled for next Friday evening, according to Prof. E. W. Lantz, faculty member in charge of recreation. Arrangements are being made to secure the coliseum for the affair.

"We shall try to arrange one of the most complete 'fun' programs in the history of summer school for students who are on the campus this session," Professor Lantz emphasized. "Last year's program under the direction of a student executive committee, was highly successful and this year's plans indicate even better results."

Last year, under a new plan, a permanent student executive committee was appointed by Director R. D. Moritz in co-operation with Professor Lantz. This committee, composed of W. R. Colson, Alliance; Verne Jones, Phoenix, Ariz.; George Dunn, Pierce; Misses Sara Upton, Union; Gladys Zutter, Lincoln, and Margaret Huston, Osceola, will again have charge of recreation this summer. Should any members of last year's committee fail to return to school this summer new appointments will be made and announced at the party next Friday.

At last year's summer session an organized party or picnic was held each week with an orchestra and a minimum admission charge of 10 cents a person. The same general program will hold this summer. In addition there were baseball, horseshoe, golf and tennis tournaments.

Realizing the need of a full program of extra-curricular activity the Summer Session administration reports that it will put forth every effort to provide a recreational program, incidental to regular classroom activity, which will find a favorable response in every student.

Further details on the party and the general recreation program for the summer will be given in next Wednesday's issue of the Summer Nebraskan.
