ADMINISTER OATH TO FRESHMEN AT ANNUAL MEETING

Five Hundred New Students Pledge Themselves to Cornhusker Ideals.

BURNETT MAKES SPEECH

Jack Thompson, President of Innocents, Acts As Chairman.

Pledging themselves to the ideals of the Cornhusker oath, 500 freshmen attended the second annual freshman convocation Thursday morning in the University coliseum.

Jack Thompson, president of the Innocents society, acted as master of ceremonies, and introduced Chancellor E. A. Burnett who gave the opening address of the convocation. "Pay close attention to your scholastic record," advised the chancellor. "Remember that you must make good here."

"Find Activity."

Miss Amanda H. Heppner, dean of women, spoke to the neophytes next, advising them to find some outside activity for themselves. "Adjust yourselves as quickly as possible to the new surroundings and make the best of the opportunities the university offers."

Dean T. J. Thompson, dean of student affairs, asked students not to forget their parents and to write home often. He was followed by Coach Dana X. Bible, who

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS WILL HOLD TRYOUTS

Dramatic Department Calls For New Talent From Hundred Men.

TO REVIEW CANDIDATES

Tryouts for University Players, campus dramatic organization will be held on Tuesday evening, Sept. 27, according to announcements made Thursday by the dramatic department of the university.

The University Players review candidates Tuesday, at 7 o'clock in the University theater. Men are requested to try-out for all parts, as straight, juvenile, character and heavy parts are all in demand. One hundred men are asked to report.

Men wishing to try out give a scene from some play; readings will not be accepted. Aspirants may make up, and costume if they wish. If two or three candidates wish to try out in a group, they may do so. Three minutes will be allowed each individual.

Those trying out must register in Zolney Lerner's office, Temple 153, before the tryout. Members of the dramatic department are willing to confer with candidates and help them to select a suitable play.

Talent is in high demand, members of the department state. Men who have experience in high school plays and other productions are especially requested to try out. Freshman may try out but the eligibility rules of the university prevent them from becoming a member of the University Players and thus gaining a part in one of the six major productions which the University Players will stage this year. Last year the Studio theater was organized as a training and trying-out stage, and freshmen will be given parts in plays staged there.

All university eligibility rules will be enforced and scholastically ineligible students are asked not to try-out.

"Hello Week" As Tradition Rapidly Securing Support and Favor Among All Campus Leaders, Organizations

Although "Hello Week" has not officially started the idea is fast gaining ground on the campus. Before the official opening date Monday, Sept. 26, those in charge of the movement believe that the spirit of the week will have invaded the entire campus, the entire student and faculty body and will do much to eliminate the feeling of newness among the student body.

This plan, established many years ago as a means of creating a more "at home" spirit among freshmen and new students on the campus, lacked support of the student body as a whole. This year every organization on the campus is an enthusiastic endorser of the idea. Every effort is being made by the A. W. S. and other backers to insure the success of the movement and to develop a plan which will be retained as a worth while tradition, revived each year.

Thompson Supports Plan. Dean Thompson, an enthusiastic supporter of the plan comments: "Why not 'Hello Week'? We need to nurture a friendly atmosphere and saying 'hello' is a good way to do it. I always speak to everyone because a friendly word serves as encouragement."

The fact that Dean Heppner is a firm believer in the value of the movement to the school, is supported by her statement: "Anything which will break down formalities and create a friendly spirit between students

CORNHUSKER FILINGS CLOSE NEXT TUESDAY

Editor of Annual Announces No Applications Taken After Sept. 27.

Filings for positions on the business staff of the 1933 Cornhusker will be taken until Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock when no more applications will be considered by either the editor or business manager, Charles Skade said yesterday afternoon.

Skade asked that freshmen be urged to file their applications for assistant business managers before the time of closing Tuesday afternoon, since there are but a limited number of these positions open. He pointed out that the Cornhusker desires to get the first year students interested in the work at that office by placing them on the staff as assistants.

The addition of an advertising department on the business staff makes it possible to have a larger force this year than has been used on former books. This addition creates a new staff position, supplemented by three assistants. Skade stated that students interested in the work of Nebraska's year book who have not already filed their applications should take advantage of the opportunity to do so before Tuesday afternoon at 4.

In the editorial department applications are still pouring in, he said. As soon as the new business staff has been chosen, which will be during the latter part of next week, actual work in Skade's department will begin. Contracts for various divisions of the book are now pending and will be awarded in the near future.

GIVES TALK ON DEPRESSION

Sociologist Says Loss Will Be as Great as That Of World War.

"As great as the loss caused by the World War will be the effect of the present economic depression upon the cultural development of growing children," declared Miss Hilda M. Heinz, sociologist, at a child behavior conference at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine in Omaha this week. Miss Heinz is district secretary of the Family Welfare society.

"The loss in interrupted careers and vocations of the ten million children of unemployed in America may never be measured," Miss Heinz said. "They are being forced to accept and make the best of their present reduced circumstance."

and encourage new students to go half way toward promoting this spirit is a fine thing for any college. Most undergraduates feel that they must wait for upperclassmen to speak first. During this week it will not be necessary. At any rate, under these conditions there is no excuse for any new student to feel that he cannot speak to anyone on the campus or to wait for upperclassmen to make the first approach to friendship."

E. A. Miller, general secretary of the university, Y. W. C. A. says, "Hello seems to be in keeping with the spirit of Nebraska and I should like to offer a prize for the person who can greet the greatest number of new students by their first names."

STUDENT DIRECTORY NEARING COMPLETION

Moran Announces that Lists of Student Names Are Being Compiled.

Alphabetizing of cards used in the compilation of lists for the student directory is rapidly nearing completion, according to an announcement made yesterday by Dick Moran, editor of the publication. Practically all of the cards from the various religious organizations have been turned in, but a few are yet to come.

The letters requesting the fraternity and sorority chapter lists have been sent out and are to be returned as soon as possible, the editor announced. Material for the publication will then be typed and sent to the printer.

"Publication of the directory will be speeded up if all fraternities and sororities would return their chapter lists immediately," Moran stated. "These lists are usually slow in coming in, but an effort will be made this year to get them in on time."

Lists of students will be posted on the bulletin board of Social Sciences for correction in a short time, it was announced. These lists will remain on the board for a few days and then be sent to the printer as corrected.

PUBLICATION BOARD MAKES SALARY CUTS

Payments First Semester Bonuses To Be Made Next Year.

At a meeting of the publication board, held Thursday afternoon in University hall, it was decided that a 10 percent cut would be made in the drawing accounts of the A. W. S. and the Daily Nebraskan staff salaries.

Payments of the first semester bonuses will be made at the end of the second semester, it was decided.

The 10 percent cut in payments will be put into a fund which will be used to meet any shrinkage in returns from these publications because of the falling off of advertising. Staff members will have first claim upon this fund at the end of the school year, when the sum is pro-rated according to the salaries.

The resignation of Harry Foster, appointed to the position of News Editor, was accepted by the board.

"Hello Sister" Substitution of A. W. S. Members

"Hello, Sister!" is the new salutation for freshmen women approved by the A. W. S. board. The greeting for freshmen women is to last one week and will be revived each year as a new Nebraska tradition, according to the board. "Women are strong for the idea," says an announcement from Margaret Upson, in charge of plans for Hello week. "And the boys like it equally well." "Hello Sister!"

ATHLETIC TICKET DRIVE CONTINUES WITH MANY SOLD

Committee Considers Plan To Make Salesmen Conspicuous.

With approximately 400 tickets sold the campaign drive for the selling of student all-season athletic tickets will continue apace, according to Charles Skade, chairman of the Innocents society in charge of the campaign. In addition a plan is being considered which will make identification of campus ticket salesmen easier for potential purchasers.

"We are pleased at the response which students have shown to our call for Cornhusker loyalty during the first two days of the drive," declared Skade. "However we anticipate an even greater daily turnover of tickets as soon as students realize that the time for the first game is drawing near."

At present those in charge of the drive are considering the feasibility of using a special ribbon to designate salesmen of student tickets in order that non-affiliated students may have an easier time of finding them. At present all salesmen are wearing the red and white "N" buttons which each ticket purchaser also sports a button. Chairman Skade asserts that the situation is becoming a trifle confusing.

Skade recalled particular attention to the fact that the ticket includes not only football, but basketball, track, swimming, wrestling, and tennis as well. The ticket gives admission to all sports at an average cost of less than thirty-three cents per event.

POLICE TO CONTINUE SEARCH FOR ROBBERS

Unable to Trace Men Who Break Into Alpha Xi Delta House.

According to Officer Regler, the police do not as yet have any information concerning the robbery at the Alpha Xi Delta house. The campus policeman was unable to unearth any information at the police headquarters. Both the Tuesday and Wednesday robberies of money and jewelry are still mysterious.

Miss Luht Runge, mathematics instructor, was unable to furnish sufficient identification of the man whom she saw in the house.

In discussing the many robberies and housebreakings which have occurred in Lincoln lately, Officer Regler said, "It is doubtless the work of bums who would rather steal than beg. They prefer to ransack houses for money or anything loose rather than beg. Several of them go about in pairs, one going to the door to beg while the other goes into the house the back way and carries off anything movable."

The police will continue their investigations and hope to discover clues that will lead to the malefactors, he said.

PLACE 'N' BOOKS ON SALE

Handbooks to be Sold Today On Stands in Andrews, Social Science.

Nebraska "N" books were placed on sale Thursday in Andrews hall and Social Science building and will again be on sale Friday in Social Science, according to an announcement by Harold Soderlund, business manager.

"Freshmen will not secure their free copy of the book in Social Science building but may secure their copy by calling the 'Y' rooms," said Mr. Soderlund. The women may receive their copy in Ellen Smith hall, and the men at the Temple. This also includes all new students who are not freshmen."

A number of the freshmen have not yet received their book, and the members of the 'N' book staff are anxious that they do so, it was stated.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR RECEPTION SATURDAY NIGHT

Dance, Games Will Feature Entertainment at Ag College.

EXPECT MANY STUDENTS

Faculty of College Sponsor Event in Activities Building.

A dance, games and other forms of entertainment are to feature the annual student reception given by the college of agriculture faculty Saturday evening in the student activities building. Final plans for the event were completed late Thursday. Practically every student in the college is expected to attend.

Dr. P. A. Downs, who is in general charge of the reception, promises the students a big evening. The reception is enthusiastically by students and a good turnout is expected Saturday. No agricultural college functions are being held that evening.

Though it was not known late Thursday whether or not there will be any regents in the receiving line Saturday, they have been invited. Dr. F. D. Keim is in charge of that part of the reception. Those to be included in the line include Chancellor and Mrs. E. A. Burnett, Dean and Mrs. W. W. Burr, Miss Amanda Heppner, Dean and Mrs. T. J. Thompson and Miss Margaret Fedde. The line is to be much shorter than in former years.

The Saturday reception, as usual, is being presented to the students free of charge. Prof. C. C. Minter, who has charge of the financial part of the reception, reported Thursday that the faculty are backing the affair enthusiastically. Students in the college have until Saturday noon to get their tickets from Dean Burr's office. Presentation of identification cards entitle the students to their tickets.

SALE OF TICKETS FOR SYMPHONY GOES ON

Chairman Says Drive Will Continue Until Next Wednesday.

The ticket sales drive for the ensuing winter season of the Lincoln Symphony orchestra is progressing very favorably, according to Miss Josephine McDermott, chairman of the campus drive.

"Tickets are selling very rapidly, and I urge prospective concert attendees not to delay their purchases," Miss McDermott stated Thursday. "Sales tables are conveniently located in Morrill hall and the School of Music building, and Friday is the last day of their operation."

The drive continues until Wednesday of next week, the sales being made personally by members of Mu Phi Epsilon, honorary musical sorority.

Of interest to the campus populace is the announcement of the election of Emanuel Wishnow as concertmaster of the symphony for this season. Mr. Wishnow has many friends on the campus. Studying with August Molzer in the University School of Music, Mr. Wishnow graduated this spring, gaining membership in Pi Kappa Lambda.

The new concertmaster succeeds Carl Frederick Steckelberg, a faculty member of the Nebraska School of Music who was forced by increased duties to resign.

NEBRASKA ARTISTS WILL CONTRIBUTE TO EXHIBITION

An invitation to contribute to the College Art Exhibition of Student Work has been issued to the university art department.

"This is an honor which has never before been given to Nebraska," says Miss Kady B. Faulkner, "and one of which we are justly proud."

The exhibition tours the country presenting work done by students from the best art departments in the various states. It will come here in its entirety later this year.

CAMPAIGN SHOWS RESULTS Business Manager of Daily Nebraskan Pleased With Drive.

H. N. Galleher, business manager of the Daily Nebraskan stated Thursday that the circulation drive continues to show pleasing results.

"Individual subscriptions are still coming in," said Galleher, "and we expect the block subscriptions of fraternities and sororities to be as large or larger than usual, due to the reduced rates at which they are being offered. The faculty also has almost unanimously subscribed to the Nebraskan."

Individual subscriptions may be obtained at the Daily Nebraskan office, in the basement of University hall.

Jeanette Vreeland, soprano, appears as guest soloist with the Lincoln Symphony orchestra in the season's second concert Dec. 11.

SIX NEW YELL KINGS CHOSEN BY TRYOUTS

Jack Minor, Fisher, Bowen, Colton, Finkle, and Alter Selected.

Six varsity cheerleaders were selected in final tryouts held in the stadium Thursday afternoon by the Innocents society. Jack Minor was named head cheerleader to be assisted in the east stands by Ed Fisher and Dean Bowen, and in the west stands by Howard Colton, Joe Alter, and Beverly Finkle.

The men selected this year will wear uniforms, the jackets for the three men in the east stadium will be donated by the Innocents society. Arthur Pinkerton, in charge of cheerleader tryouts will select the uniforms which the men will use during the year.

Twenty students entered the elimination contests which started Monday under the direction of the Innocents with assistance of Mike Charters, former yell king at the university.

The cheerleaders will continue training before the football schedule starts. Charters and Pinkerton will continue instructing and helping the new men in the leadership of the Nebraska yell. The first practice is to be held Monday at 4 o'clock.

Jack Minor is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and has been a varsity cheerleader. Howard Colton, a member of Kappa Sigma, and Joe Alter, a member of Sigma Nu, have also had experience as cheerleaders. Ed Fisher is a member of Alpha Tau Omega, Dean Bowen is a member of Kappa Sigma, and Beverly Finkle is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Corn Cobs Secretary Asks For New Names

Fraternities are asked to report the names of the men who are to represent their respective groups in Corn Cobs organization this year to Bob Thiel, at the Acacia house by Saturday, Sept. 24 at noon. All names must be in by this hour so that eligibility may be checked before the first meeting of Nebraska's pep organization. This may be reached by telephone at B3907.

EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES AT THE UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA

Published through the co-operation of the Innocents society in the interests of students, new and old, who are not fully acquainted with activities, their organization, purposes and benefits, as they operate at the University of Nebraska, with the hope that a greater number will avail themselves of the opportunities offered, thereby putting into the whole activities organization a revitalized interest among the entire student body.

This is the second of a series of articles which will introduce and briefly describe the various organizations making up the extra-curricular activities program on this campus which will be published each day by the Daily Nebraskan during the next two weeks.

The Innocents Society. Thirteen junior men are selected each spring by the outgoing members at the traditional Ivy day "tapping" ceremony to constitute the Society of Innocents, senior men's honorary, during the succeeding year. Service to the school in extra-curricular activities, ability and qualities of leadership, together with scholarship, are the bases of selection.

Altho the Innocents society is called an "honorary" selection to it, in addition to being a recognition of past service, is the beginning of an opportunity for even greater future service. Since the members of Innocents are the acknowledged student leaders of the senior class, the group forms an effective organization for unified leadership and planned progress in student matters and constitutes a practical link between the student body, the faculty and the university administration.

Guard Nebraska Traditions. From a small group of students interested in promoting the best interests of the university, the society has developed into a carefully selected, carefully organized body of thirteen seniors, functioning as the chief inspirer of Cornhusker sportsmanship and guardian of significant Nebraska traditions. The society came into existence on April 24, 1903, because of a need for some student agency to guide university attitudes in athletics and to organize the student body for effective participation in university activities. Among those most active in organizing the society, among those graduates of the years before the society existed and faculty members since that time chosen to honorary membership and among those who have from year to year been selected for active membership in the Innocents society are many of the present leaders in every profession and business in Nebraska and elsewhere.

Until the Innocents were organized, there had been no medium for organizing Cornhusker spirit, nor for directing it into proper channels. The society furnished that agency. In the early years, activities of the society were few. But as the worth of membership was held on a high plane and as it regularly carried out its functions with smooth efficiency, its activities expanded. Ivy day, with the tapping of the new Innocents and masking of new members of Mortar Board, a parallel organization of outstanding senior women, each spring became and has remained the outstanding event of the student year.

FIFTY STUDENTS ATTEND MEETING OF ORGANIZATION

Young Democratic Club Will Organize Local Chapter On Nebraska Campus.

LAWYER ASSAILS HOOVER

Number of People Attending Indicate That They Desire To Be Group Members.

Launching of a local chapter of the Young Democratic club of America on the University of Nebraska campus took place Thursday being introduced, more than fifty students gathered in social science auditorium for a pre-organization meeting at which H. B. Fleharty, city attorney of Omaha, was the principal speaker.

The movement is being initiated by students, who are interested in the democratic party and hope to make the organization permanent on the campus. Formal adoption of the club constitution and election of officers are planned for the next meeting, Tuesday at 3 o'clock in social science auditorium.

Robert Harmon of Indianapolis, senior in the college of arts and sciences and member of Alpha Tau Omega, acted as temporary chairman, calling the meeting to order and introducing the other speakers. He also explained the purpose and plans of the club.

The other student to appear on the initial program was Howard Holtzendorf, Lincoln, a junior in the college of arts and sciences, who declared that the group present was the nucleus of an organization that is to become of considerable importance on the campus. He urged those present to co-operate in the establishing and developing of the club.

Upon being introduced, Mr. Fleharty complimented the group of students assembled on the interest they were showing in public affairs. In his opening remarks he attempted to justify student interest.

Spencer Arranges for Photograph of Park Crowd.

Marking the formal opening of work on the 1933 Cornhusker, the editor has arranged to have a picture of the dancing crowd taken at Antelope park at 10:15. It was learned yesterday. This will be the first picture of the year, and is being taken especially for the feature section of the annual.

The picture will be taken from the west side of the hall so that it will include all the dancers, which will be, for the most part, composed of university of Nebraska students, as well as the members of Leo Beck's orchestra who have been playing this season at Antelope park.

This picture, which will be a flash-light exposure, will probably have a full page space in the feature section of the Cornhusker. As soon as a cut of the picture can be obtained, it will appear in an issue of the Daily Nebraskan, Spencer said.
