RED SHIRT LINE SMOTHERS FROSH RUNNING ATTACK

Yearlings Unable to Make A Single First Down Against Huskers.

STAAB AND SAUER SHINE Masterson, Mathis, Miller, Fahrbruch Outstanding Among the Backs.

By Joe Miller.

Speed, power and a passing attack, all these the Huskers had as they ripped their way to a smashing 55 to 0 victory over the freshmen Saturday afternoon at Memorial stadium in the inaugural game of the 1932 season. A crowd of about 5,000 witnessed the tilt.

A defense that was impregnable as the proverbial stone wall smothered any offensive efforts on the part of the frosh. Ed Weir's lads failing to make a single first down thru the entire fray. The yearlings exhibited a rare bit of defensive play themselves, however when they took the ball on downs one foot from the goal line late in the second quarter, after a second varsity eleven had been stopped following three successive tries at the line.

Shining lights in the varsity attack were Carlyle Staab, the speed merchant from Ansley who scored two touchdowns personally in addition to passing and running brilliantly; George Sauer, who also accounted for a pair of markers and whose 44 yard off tackle dash in the third quarter was the longest run of the game, Bernie Masterson's field generalship, passing and line smashing was a feature. The big quarterback grabbed Sauer's long pass for a touchdown in the third quarter to make another addition to the point column.

Second String Stars.

No less dazzling was the performance of Bible's second string backfield which included Mathis at quarter, Miller and Eldridge, halfbacks and Fahrbruch at full.

Parsons subbed for Eldridge in this quartet. Tater Fahrbruch contributed to the scoring late in the first half, when he went over on a line smash and Staab had run off two 10 yard gallops. Jack Miller, who looked better than he has any time since the start of the season, plunged for the final tally about a minute before the gun.

Bruce Kilbourne was all by himself when he caught Staab's pass on the five yard line a few seconds before the end of the first half, and his effort made the score read 18 to 0 at the half. Corwin Hulbert converted another when he fell on a blocked punt which rolled over the goal line midway in the third canto.

Most of the scoring came in the third period, twenty-four points being rung up. Six counters were registered in the initial quarter, twelve in the second and the same number in the fourth.

Roby Nabbs Passes.

Hokuf, Roby and Kilbourne looked best at the end positions. Roby was on the receiving end of two long passes which went for considerable yardage. Both the first and second varsity lines were charging fast and did a fine job of blocking on the offense.

For the frosh, Parlek, quarterback from Crete and Williams, Lincoln halfback stood out. Parlek ran back some punts nicely, while Williams was a power in backing up the wavering freshman line.

Only one try for point was converted, a pass from Masterson to Hokuf. Coach Bible declared following the game that "the boys looked weak in making the point after touchdown and so we will stress this phase in getting ready for Iowa State next Saturday." Blocking, too will come in for more attention, he asserted.

variety of technique, style and subject matter. The majority of the prints are in the language of today although not extreme, and many of them provoke the comments and criticisms that American artists fail to respond to their environment.
Howard Cook, one exhibitor, makes impressive use of the skyscraper theme in "The New Yorker" and of other engineering achievements in "Manhattan Bridge." He emphasizes the majesty of these giant structures, and suggests the aspiration behind them.
A humorous phase of contemporary life is captured in Margaret Schiemann's "Jazz Babies," in which devotees will recognize the "King of Jazz" himself, his roundly making an interesting circular design in the foreground, which is echoed in the drum, the horn, the puffing cheeks of one player and the open mouth of another.
A number of prints deal with humanity in some of its myriad present day aspects; and a mere glance at this group will serve to reassure those who fear worldwide standardization. The stark "Funeral-Soviet Russia" by Ise Biechoff presents an interesting contrast to Leon Underwood's "Yuccas." In "Mask Composition," J. L. Wells, a young negro artist, effectively uses racial motifs. Hubert Logan pokes fun at the more extreme tendencies in art and simultaneously offers a good example of them in "Home Life of the Abstractionist."

In contrast to these prints of contemporary scenes are such serene landscapes as Meisner's "Catskill Country" and Nason's "A Deserted Farm," both done in the minute style of the old masters of wood engraving.

There are several animal prints, all of them far removed from the naturalists study. Although recognizable as species, these animals are primarily designs.

The exhibition as a whole gives assurance that the art of woodblock print making, which reached so high a standard of quality in the United States in the last quarter of the nineteenth century, and then became moribund, has had a genuine re-birth and is more vital than ever.

be present along with "N" club representatives of the various sports.
Arrange Final Details.
Monday's luncheon is the last of a series of three, and it will mark the occasion for arranging details of the final week of the drive which ends as the whistle for the Iowa State game blows to open the Cornhusker football season on Nebraska sod. At that time tabulations will be commenced for the purpose of determining the prize-winning salesman and saleswomen who are competing for the trips to Minnesota, Dallas, and University of Kansas.
"Everyone is highly optimistic over the events in store during this last week of the campaign," Scide asserted. "There have been a great many students who have been waiting for those checks from home which will come in this week. We are confident that at least 3,500 students will have purchased the tickets, which certify that they are behind their team, before the week is up."

Price Lowest in History.
Selling at $6.00, the lowest price in the history of the university and the lowest price in the Big Six conference, the student ticket includes admission to all football, basketball, track, wrestling, swimming and tennis events.

Monday evening, representatives of innocents, Mortar Board, Tassels society, and other groups will give short talks at the various fraternity and sorority houses in support of the ticket campaign.
