INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL ADOPTS NEW RUSH RULES

(Continued from Page 1.) rushees who do not decide by the time of the Wednesday night preferential dinner may not pledge for another month, and pledges who change their mind after the dinner may not pledge for the remainder of the semester.

The new rules were adopted on the second ballot. In the discussion of the rules, several objections were raised, and an effort will be made to adopt rules which will prove satisfactory to all fraternities, it was announced at the meeting.

Commenting on the vote on the new rules, Jack Thompson, member of the council, stated: "Although the numerical count indicates the passage of the new rules, the objections are too numerous to insure unified co-operation."

"All fraternities not in accord with the new plan are assured that the differences of opinion will be satisfied before the new rules go into effect," Thompson continued. "Any changes necessary to secure unanimous support will be made."

The following dates must be kept by all rushees: Saturday—9:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m., luncheon included; 2:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.; 6:00 p. m. to 10:00 p. m., dinner included. Sunday—Same as Saturday. Monday—Closed for freshman day until 6:00 p. m.; 6:00 p. m. to 9:00 p. m., dinner included; 9:00 p. m. to 12:00 p. m. Tuesday—Same as Saturday. Wednesday—Rushing shall be closed from 10:00 p. m. Tuesday until 6:00 p. m. Wednesday evening at which time each fraternity shall hold a pledge dinner at which the rushees shall become pledges of the respective fraternities having filed their preferences previously to the faculty committee appointed for such purposes.

Limit Number of Dates. A rushee may have not less than one nor more than three dates with the same fraternity; nor may the rushee have more than one date with the same fraternity each day.

Every date listed above must be kept by the rushee. There shall be no split dates. No fraternity man shall communicate with any rushee except during bona fide dates filed with the Interfraternity Council committee.

The rushee must file his dates personally before the last Friday prior to rush week. After filing no dates will be changed. No rushee may remain in any fraternity house at any time other than during his bona fide dates.

Any rushee who has not indicated his choice to the faculty committee by 12:00 p. m. prior to the Wednesday night preferential dinner may not pledge any fraternity for one month following that dinner.

Each fraternity shall file its bid list with the faculty committee not later than 12:00 noon before the Wednesday night preferential dinner.

A student committee appointed by the president of the Interfraternity Council shall have charge of filing the rushee's dates.

A faculty committee shall have charge of compiling bid lists of the fraternities and preferential lists to the rushees.

Any pledges broken after the Wednesday night preferential dinner prohibits the offender from pledging another fraternity until the second semester.

Violation of any of the above rules prohibits the rushee from pledging until the second semester.

Violation of any of the above rules by any member of a fraternity subjects the fraternity to a fine of not less than fifty dollars to be levied by the faculty committee appointed for that purpose. All complaints may be filed to this faculty committee for trial.

Above rules apply to alumni as well as active members of the fraternities.

The one change in the rules, as adopted in the form of an amendment, provides that the number of dates open to rushees will be increased. The number added to the present amount will be left up to the council to be decided upon at a later date.

Altho first drawings are made Wednesday night, tickets will be on sale until the opening of the game, Saturday at the price of $6.00. The method of drawing procedure follows: When a student makes his reservation for a ticket, either thru one of the campus salesmen or at the activities office, he is given a receipt and his name is placed in a numbered envelope. Any group or organization of two or more which has made reservation is treated as an individual and the name of the organization or group placed in one envelope.

Cards corresponding to the numbers on the envelopes are then placed in a box. At 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, the drawings will be made, with Howard Allaway, editor of the Daily Nebraskan, in charge. As the numbered cards are drawn from the box, the correct number of tickets are placed in the envelope corresponding to the number drawn. If more than one ticket is required for that particular reservation, the tickets will be selected so that all the members of that organization may sit together.

All in East Stadium. The same procedure will be carried out whether the reservations have been made for the card section or outside. All student tickets are for the east stadium.

Student tickets will still be on sale Thursday and Friday, Mr. Seickel announced, and students may select their own seats from those which have not already been taken.

EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES AT THE UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA

Published through the co-operation of the Innocents society in the interests of students, new and old, who are not fully acquainted with activities, their organization, purposes and benefits, as they operate at the University of Nebraska, with the hope that a greater number will avail themselves of the opportunities offered, thereby putting into the whole activities organization a revitalized interest among the entire student body.

This article is one of a series being run in the Daily Nebraskan this semester, describing the component organizations of the extra-curricular program on this campus.

POLITICS

Politics on a university campus is something a little difficult to describe to one not acquainted with the organization and operation of the system. To account for its existence is, nevertheless, simple. A phenomenon characteristic of democratic government everywhere is that where there are public officials to be elected by popular vote, there spring up organized groups seeking the promotion of their own good or adoption of their own programs through election of their members to those offices. This applies as well to university student government as to local, state or national government in this country. There are officers to be elected and it is only natural that there are political factions.

By calling it "politics" we do not imply the existence of corruption and throat-cutting tactics. If these exist, they are not prevalent. We merely denote the nominating system of candidates for elective student offices. The system at Nebraska of course has its good and bad points. But this is not the place for a discussion of these. The purpose here is to describe the system briefly.

Since the most obvious division of students is between those who are members of fraternities and sororities and those who are not, this is the first line of political cleavage. Members of the fraternity group are called "Greeks," because of the Greek letter names of their organizations. The unaffiliated students are called "Barbs," in no sense a term of reproach.

Within the fraternity group, however, there are two factions, Blue Shirt and Yellow Jacket, between which rivalry is generally greater than between the Barb and Greek groups as a whole. The Barb faction, as the recognized political organization of the unaffiliated students, completes the three party system recognized by the student council.

This system was further complicated last spring by the addition of a new unaffiliated students group organized by the student council at the suggestion of the Innocents society that greater participation of unaffiliated students in activities would promote a revived interest in extra-curricular undertakings. It is expected, however, that the two barb groups will in general co-operate, although the new organization is intended rather to supplement than to replace the old barb group. The new group is organized on a house-club plan paralleling that of fraternity factions.

Each of the existing factions is organized as a perpetuating body with representatives from the several member houses meeting at the call of officers of the group, which consist of a president, vice president and secretary.

Campaigns preceding elections are carried out by publicity in the Daily Nebraskan, house-to-house canvassing and pep rallies, or serenades. The student council forbids expending any money on campaigns and this rule is strictly enforced. Climax of campus politics is the annual spring election when members of the Student council and student members to the Publication board are elected for the succeeding year.

Division on political faction lines within other campus organizations is generally discouraged and active participation in campus politics by members of the Society of Innocents is absolutely banned by that group. Political contests take the form of friendly rivalry rather than bitter fights and major disturbances are a thing of the past.

During the past two years the Blue Shirt faction, largest in number of member houses of the two fraternity factions, has held a disproportionate number of elective student offices because of an unbalanced political setup. Last spring, however, an increased interest in student elections prompted by the new Barb clubs resulted in a record vote and about an even division of offices between the two fraternity factions with the Barbs once more electing representatives to the Student council after a year without membership on that body.

Observers believe this balance indicates a healthy condition in student politics and heralds an era of more general interest in extra-curricular activities by the study body as a whole.

Women do not participate in faction politics, but run as independent candidates in all student elections.

LATE BULLETINS

AUSTIN, Tex.—Police last week took into custody an apparently demented youth, described as a "half-wit," whom they sought to question in connection with the murder of Edgar Collins Arledge, Jr., University of Texas senior. Arledge was shot to death on the night of September 19 as he sat in a parked automobile with Miss Margaret Jean Trull, who was graduated from the university last June. Miss Trull was wounded slightly by the unidentified assailant. Arledge was a nephew of Dr. Eugene C. Barker, professor of history at the university.

As a result of the murder, Professor E. T. Mitchell of the university philosophy department, proposed that "petting zones" be set aside so that students might be protected from bandits. "Though not desirable, it is inevitable that young men and women should go riding in cars—and park them," he declared. "They have been driven from well-lighted roads into out-of-way spots, where they attract murderers and maniacs."

PASADENA, Calif.—Ellsworth Vines Jr., national tennis champion, this week was scheduled to marry Miss Verle Low, his former classmate at Pasadena Junior College. They planned to leave immediately for Australia, where the 20-year-old champion is to appear in a series of exhibition matches.

MADISON, Wis.—Three fraternities at the University of Wisconsin this week were on probation as the result of asserted violations of rushing rules adopted by the interfraternity board last spring. The board at that time decided to eliminate rushing during the period known as "orientation week." Names of the houses on probation were not announced. TUCSON, ARIZ.—Faculty members of the University of Arizona last week agreed to donate one day's salary each month to create a fund for the relief of needy students. GERMAN INSTRUCTOR ATTENDS BERKELEY Miss Lydia Wagner, former instructor in the department of German, is spending this year at the University of California, Berkeley, where she is continuing her graduate studies toward a Phi D. degree.
