Homecoming Decorations Suspended CYCLONES RALLY IN SECOND HALF

INNOCENTS REDUCE GRAD DAY EXPENSE

Jack Thompson Says Greek House Display Competition To Be Cancelled Because of University-Wide Economic Retrenchment Program.

TO RESUME TRADITIONAL PLANS NEXT YEAR

Dr. G. E. Condra and Dean Thompson Comment Group Action in Cutting Expenditures for Fraternities and Sororities.

Homecoming decorations for the present year have been suspended, according to an announcement Saturday by Jack Thompson, Innocents president.

The retrenchment program being carried on in all departments of the university necessitated the suspension Thompson said. As a result the colorful spectacle which has occurred for many years on the night before the homecoming game will not be held.

For several years past fraternities and sororities have been cutting down their efforts and expenditures for the decorations and the Innocents society suspended the decorations as one step in reduced budgets for the houses.

Thompson made it plain, however, that the suspension was for one year and that if it was reasonable decorations for homecoming would be resumed next year.

Dr. G. E. Condra, Innocents advisor, declared that he believed the plan to be the best policy because of the general retrenchment.

The cups now in the possession of Delta Gamma and Sigma Alpha Epsilon will remain the property of those houses for another year.

Jack Erickson, chairman of the committee in charge, said that he believed the sentiment to be generally in favor of the decorations but that many would not be able to prepare displays because of reduced financial circumstances.

Dean T. J. Thompson, dean of student affairs, said Saturday that in view of present circumstances the move was a good one in his opinion. "It is a shame to lose the colorful spectacle, but when one figures up $25 for every fraternity and sorority on the campus one can realize the magnitude of the having effected by the suspension."

Members of the Innocents society but expressed the belief that drastic steps were necessary in order to make budgets balance. They were all eager, too, to see the decorations be returned to a regular place as soon as financial conditions would permit. It is a spectacle unique to Nebraska, they declared, and it should not be abolished.

NEBRASKA Y.W.C.A. IS HOST TO CONFERENCE

Presidents and Sponsors of State Organizations Attend Meeting.

The University of Nebraska Y. W. C. A. served as host to the Nebraska Conference which convened Saturday and Sunday. Presidents and sponsors of the local organizations in colleges over the state were present.

The purpose of the conference was to discuss problems of the Y. W. C. A. and outline tentative plans and future policies of the organization in regard to campus administration, ethical problems, and economic and international questions.

Miss Helen Cassidy, chairman of the Rocky Mountain Regional Council, presided at the discussion groups Saturday at Ellen Smith hall. She was assisted by Miss Stella Scurlock, who is national student secretary of the regional council.

Saturday evening this group met for dinner with members of the Y. W. C. A. who were holding a Rocky Mountain field council of the student Y. M. C. A. Following the dinner there was a discussion of problems and activities which affect both groups.

The final meeting of the conference will be held this morning in Ellen Smith hall, at which time representatives will be able to summarize the previous discussions to take back to their own schools.

OBSERVER SAYS FALL ELECTION STARTS ACTION

Blue Shirt, Yellow Jacket and Non-Fraternity Men Organize.

THREE POSITIONS OPEN

Fewer Posts to Be Filled Than Ever Before in Campus Politics.

By the Observer.

As the coming fall election approaches the campus political horizon becomes shaded with various and assorted shadowing hulks which, upon closer inspection, appear to be the Blue Shirt, Yellow Jacket, and Barb faction machines undergoing the process of organization.

There is a peculiarly significant feature about the fall election—it is the smallest election in University of Nebraska history from the standpoint of elective offices to be filled. There was a time, even when your chronicler entered school, when the first semester election meant a direct and indirect filling of seventeen offices.

This fall there are but three posts to be filled, all as a result of a Student council which has zealously and righteously guarded the portals of campus political sanctity.

Formerly Elected Four.

Four years ago fall voters turned out to elect four class presidents and an honorary colonel. The class presidents in turn called class meetings at which were elected three more officers, namely a vice-president, a secretary, and a treasurer. It is admitted that their most arduous task was to compose for pictures in the Cornhusker, but even so there were Laura McAllister Turns In 66 Sales to Win Second Contest Award.

Tassel's campaign for the sale of University Players' tickets closed Friday night with more than 1000 tickets sold. Although lower than last year's sales, which was a record in all Tassel's campaigns, the year's total does not include a large amount of season tickets sold during the summer and at the end of last year's season.

Alyce Widman, who has been high saleswoman all during the campaign, turned in a total of 206 tickets, winning the prize offered for high saleswoman. Laura McAllister, who did not start in the campaign until the second day, turned in 66 tickets and fourth place prize.

Third and fourth places went to Lois Picking, who sold 53 tickets, and Dorothy Luchsinger, who sold 39. Miss Luchsinger's

DWIGHT KIRSCH SHOWS PHOTOGRAPH EXHIBIT

Instructor Shows Pictures Taken in New Mexico To Audience.

"Indian Arts and Crafts of the Southwest," the series of color photographs taken by Dwight Kirsch during his four weeks stay in New Mexico this past summer, was shown to a large audience Friday at 8 o'clock in the Temple building. Mr. Kirsch, after the six weeks summer school period, left for Santa Fe where most of the pictures were taken and where he took a class in Indian art under Kenneth Chapman, who is an authority in this field as well as a discoverer of modern ways of producing an ancient type of pottery.

Before the presentation, Mr. Kirsch explained that basketry and weaving were the first arts mastered by Indians, and because geometric designs came natural to that art the pottery designs are all of a geometric nature. Originally the decorating on pottery was in black and white, or in the natural earth colors; it was not until later that they learned to paint in bright shades and to glaze. The earthenware was photographed against rather bright backgrounds in order to bring out its dull and subtle coloring.

Blankets and Pottery Displayed.

Prehistoric examples of blankets and pottery, the craft of which is now forgotten, were shown as they are displayed in the state museum there. In one instance the pieces were arranged on a piece of wrapping paper on a desk board used by Gen. Lew Wallace when he wrote "Ben Hur." Some of the bowls which had been found in Indian graves were marked by a large hole cut in the bottom in order to allow the departed spirit to escape to the "happy hunting ground."

After the showing the Art club served tea, wafers, and mints in the stage-design room. The tea was brewed in a genuine Russian samovar brought over from China by Miss Louise Austin. In the same room were displayed an exhibit of Indian and Mexican curios arranged by Mr. Kirsch and Herbert Yenne.

INSTRUCTOR TESTS MIND

Dysinger Gives Standardized Test to Determine His Class' Rank.

A standardized Army Alpha intelligence test was given in the elementary psychology classes by Prof. John Dysinger to determine the percentage ranking of his students. The average for the entire class was 149, which is considered an exceptionally high rating.

Mr. Dysinger contends that the grades would naturally run high because the test was given to a selected college group. This was a demonstration test, rather than a direct effort test, to determine the individual intelligence of students.

WOMEN ELECT PRESIDENT

Helen Day Elected President. Miss Helen Day, York, was elected president of the Nebraska High School Press association at the close of the two-day convention being held this week end at the university. Miss Mary E. Klopping, Omaha, was chosen vice president and Miss Frances Gustafson, Albion, was elected secretary and treasurer.

Miss Lena May Richardson, Fremont, was awarded a $5.00 prize as winner of the design contest held by the association. Miss Richardson's design will be used as the official seal of the organization.

RHODES APPLICATIONS WILL BE FILED MONDAY

Oldfather Says Only Three Have Applied for Five Nebr. Positions.

Aspirants for the Rhodes scholarship have only one more day in which to put in their applications, the deadline being set for Monday, Oct. 5. The University of Nebraska is permitted to enter five applicants in the state competition.

Dean Oldfather, chairman of the university committee on selection, announces that up to date only three names have been submitted. The dean desires to submit the University of Nebraska's full quota of applicants and desires a larger number from which to make a selection.

The Rhodes scholarship was instituted by Cecil Rhodes when he set aside a large sum of money to be used each year for the education of American students at Oxford college. Under a revised plan put into effect two years ago, two candidates are sent by each state into a district competition of eight states, from which four are finally chosen. There are eight districts in the United States for this competition. Nebraska's applicants will compete with those from Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa and Minnesota.

DICK GREFE STARS FOR AMES TEAM IN COMEBACK THAT FINDS CORNHUSKERS WITH BACKS TO WALL AS GAME ENDS

NEBRASKA LACKING IN CONSISTENT PUNCH

SAUER AND MASTERSON SCORE TOUCHDOWNS FOR SCARLET IN A TILT REPLETE WITH FUMBLER AND PENALTIES

Missing on several cylinders, the University of Nebraska grid-ders barely managed to stave off a fighting Iowa State eleven Saturday afternoon to score a narrow 12 to 6 victory in the season's opening football skirmish at Memorial stadium. About eight thousand people witnessed the game.

With only two minutes to go and the Huskers leading 12 to 6, Capt. Dick Grefe, Ames star ball kicker uncoiled a brilliant, twenty-three yard off tackle gallop to place the pigskin on the Nebraska 22-yard line. On the next play, Grefe fumbled after a short gain, the ball flying into the grasp of Bernie Masterson on the 11-yard line.

From this point on, the Scarlet team was fighting with backs to the wall. An exchange of punts between Sauer and Grefe kept Coach Bible's men in hot water, a three yard loss and an offside penalty leaving the Huskers in possession on their own 12-yard line. Sauer, standing on his goal line punted to midfield to Grefe, who attempted a lateral pass to teammate Impson. Lee Penney, Cornhusker left end had other plans, however, for he rushed in to nab the lateral and speed down the field, the entire Cyclone team trailing him. Impson saved his team a touchdown by overhauling Penney to dump him on the 20-yard line as the game ended.

DECREASE HOPES OF BASEBALL AS NEBRASKA SPORT

Saturday's Football Game Attendance Far Below Par Selleck Says.

EXPECTS SMALL CROWDS

Ag Students Prominent in Agitation for Sport's Return Here.

Hopes for addition of baseball to varsity sport calendar are not bright.

Attendance at the Iowa State-Nebraska football game Saturday was far below par, according to Director of Athletics John K. Selleck, and despite the success of the campus ticket drive, Selleck expects gate receipts throughout the year to drop from 33 to 40 percent below average.

"The Saturday crowd was one of the smallest to attend a varsity football game since Memorial Stadium was built," he declared late Saturday. "and even the casual observer can see that without larger football receipts it will be impossible to even think of adding baseball to the list of varsity sports."

Agitation for the return of baseball to the sports roster has been under way on the campus for about a week, with the Ag students furnishing most enthusiastic support for the idea.
