Voluntary Death TAKES PROFESSOR

College President Kills Self After Series of Personal Life Tragedies.

CIS.—Death, which he sought voluntarily, this week wrote final to the career of Dr. Simon S. Baker, former president of Washington and Jefferson college, whose life during recent years had been marked by a series of personal tragedies.

His body was found several days ago in a field near here. A gun lay by his side, and a bullet wound pierced his temple.

Although there was no explanation as to a reason for his act, three possible motives for suicide were recalled by friends.

They said he had long grieved over the death of his son, Lieut. Edward Baker, American flyer, who was shot down in France.

Dr. Baker also was known to have been "broken hearted," they said, over a five day student strike at Washington and Jefferson last year, when he resigned his post because of student protests against the threatened expulsion of two football players, assertedly involved in a hotel brawl, and the dismissal of three faculty members.

During the strike, all but a few dozen students walked out of classes and refused to return until the announcement of the president's resignation. Dr. Baker had been head of the college for ten years. He was sixty-five years old, and was said to have been in ill health.

Instructor Favors United States as Home After Two Year Tour of World

Making a circuit of the world, including two years of teaching in the Philippine Islands, Y. C. McKim, instructor in the geography department, brought back some new slants on the life in the various countries he visited.

After taking a civil service examination, Mr. McKim was appointed to go to the Philippines to teach in one of the normal schools in Luzon. These normal schools are based on the American high school system and are attended by people of high school age.

The school year in the Philippines is composed of ten months with the teachers given a vacation during the hot season. Camps have been built in the mountains by the government for the use of the teachers during their vacation.

One summer Mr. McKim became interested in doing some research work for his master's thesis and took a little side trip down into the foothills. After making the trip he found that he had been traveling through the country of the head-hunters. "If I had known that at first I never would have made the trip," Mr. McKim remarked. However, he went on to explain that the head hunters rarely bothered the Americans, although they sometimes attacked the Christian natives.

In Chinese Uprising. Mr. and Mrs. McKim made the trip to the Philippines by way of the Hawaiian Islands, China and Japan. In China they ran into one of the periodic uprisings and nearly lost their lives in the melee.

Mr. McKim stated that they were interested in Japan because of its cleanliness and the well ordered lives of the natives. After two years of teaching in the Philippines they made the return trip to America by way of the Indian and Atlantic oceans, thus encircling the globe.

They passed through Manila, Singapore, Sumatra in the Dutch East Indies, and Ceylon. Ceylon was interesting to the travelers because of the fact that the jungles on the island grew right up to the borders of the towns. Continuing from there Mr. and Mrs. McKim went to Aden and then through the Suez canal into the Mediterranean Sea. They left the ship at Genoa and traveled cross-country through Europe, stopping about two weeks in Switzerland.

Mr. McKim stated that after visiting twenty-one countries he has reached the conclusion that he would rather live in the United States with Switzerland as a second choice. When pressed for a third choice he stated that he believed it would be Holland.

PATTERSON SPEAKS AT VESPER SERVICE

Lucille Hendricks, president of the meeting, stressed the fact that the next vesper meeting would be a discussion of the religiously adequate philosophy of life by Dr. Paul Johnston of Westminster Presbyterian church of Lincoln. Vespers choir furnished a program of music.

NARROW MARGIN DECIDES VICTORY

Some Cards Confiscated. A number of identification cards were confiscated by election officials when students attempted to vote on cards belonging to others or attempted to vote as seniors or juniors when in reality they were only freshmen and sophomores.

The receipt numbers and names will be checked and announcement made later as to any discrepancies in the list. The identification cards which were confiscated will also be checked and it is likely that the names of offenders in both connections may be published, according to the Student council president.

On the whole, election officials reported fewer attempts at illegal voting than has been true in some previous elections. A strict vigilance was maintained, and while it was impossible to apprehend all who may willfully have violated the rules, there was apparently no electioneering, and most of those who attempted plural voting were either challenged, or will be subject to detection thru the plan of requiring them to register their signatures.

The identity of the honorary colonel will not be announced until the annual military ball to be held Friday, Dec. 2. At that time one of the three candidates, Jane Axtell, Helen Baldwin, or Grace Nilkka, will be presented, and until then only E. W. Lantz, faculty adviser to the Student council, Col. H. W. Oury, commandant of the R. O. T. C. unit, and the Student council president will know the identity of the winning candidate.

MAUPIN SPEAKS AT DEMOCRAT MEETING (Continued From Page 1.) republican regimes. He listed these as the corruption that accompanied the reconstruction period, the dishonesty during Grant's tenure and the great Teapot Dome scandal during Harding's administration. He declared that the latter was "the greatest political scandal in the history of the world."

The club will hold a business meeting next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Social Sciences auditorium. The group will also attend the speech of Huey Long next Monday evening.

THE CLOTHES LINE

Those plaids—it may be our Scotch ancestry asserting itself, but we do go for them. Mary Quigley has a red and blue plaid blouse which she wears with a blue wool jumper, and Jane Von Seggern wears a red and green plaid dress. As accessories Jane chooses a black felt hat and an ascot scarf of black velvet, fastening the scarf with an immense silver pin.

Another plaid devotee is Bertha Housner, who has a brown woolen frock with plaid sleeves.

Not satisfied with appearing in the wardrobe of most every coed in the role of jackets, gloves, shoes and handbags, suede has decided to become a dress fabric. Usually it allies itself with a knitted material.

One such alliance that we like a lot is an outfit of Jane Steele's—yellow suede used for the top of the dress and brown knitted stuff for the skirt and sleeves. With this she wears a turban of the brown trimmed by a tiny piping of the suede.

Fur and fabric are teammates this fall. They get along especially well in a frock of Jane Robertson's. It's fashioned of that soft, bright blue and trimmed with quite a lot of sealskin at the wrists and throat. The hat that goes with it is a broad brimmed felt of the same blue.

Twenty-five agricultural college girls attended the Y. W. C. A. vesper meeting Tuesday, Oct. 18, when Miss Fedde spoke on membership. The purpose of the organization, as outlined in the declaration to which all members are required to subscribe, is that all unite in the desire to realize a full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God.

Miss Fedde discussed the full life, in which all the aspects, mental, physical, social, spiritual, are included. "The creative side of life must not be overlooked," she said, "and it is important that everyone have a task, a purpose in life."
