GREEK COUNCIL VOTES TO ELIMINATE FAVORS

"The tickets sell for fifty cents and a splendid meal will be served an interesting program will be presented for those attending the luncheon.

Further discussion was conducted concerning the new rushing rules previously adopted by the council by a split vote, the new rules passing by only a majority. Further amendments are being considered in an effort to secure the co-operation of the entire body which is necessary to the successful enforcement of the rules.

A trial vote taken Tuesday evening to determine how the fraternities lined up with these new rules showed 20-11 in favor, eight representatives being absent.

MORHEAD GIVES ADDRESS BEFORE DEMOCRAT CLUB

(Continued from Page 1.) go unlettered, and, as in the past, in the interests of the people. "I have been a consistent supporter of the democratic party because I thought it stood for the interests of the rank and file of the people," he said. The congressman impressed on his audience that the older men in politics were working for the interests of the young people. At least those older men, he said, that were not interested primarily in furthering their own interests. He made it point that it was not possible for a man to enter public life and become wealthy while in office, if he were honest. "This country needs more men who are interested in the welfare of the nation," Morehead stated.

SAVING DIVIDEND MAY BE GIVEN TO BOOK PURCHASER

The price of the 1933 book, which is already the lowest in the history of the Cornhusker, may even be lower if the co-operation of the students can be secured. The profit-sharing plan, which has been introduced this year, may make it possible for each purchaser to share in the profits if enough books are sold.

First Time Plan Used.

The Cornhusker business manager, said, "The unique profit-sharing plan offered this year by the 1933 year book is the first time that such a plan has been offered to the students. It will prove of substantial savings to all chasers if they will co-operate with the staff of the Cornhusker, and purchase their books during the present sale.

"The lowest price offered, $4.25, may be reduced even more if 1,000 books are sold. The extended reduction will be taken care of by a refund at the end of the year when the books are delivered which will possibly bring the price to below $4, on the cash payment plan. The same corresponding saving will also be effective on all sales plans.

Must Vote for Three Coeds.

"This possibility will be realized only if enough books are sold. As the price of the book will be higher after the initial sale is closed, orders must be placed now in order to receive full advantage of the opportunities placed at the disposal of the students."

Skade also pointed out that the votes for Cornhusker Coeds must be cast for different girls. Every ballot gives each person three choices. In other words, one voter cannot cast 10,000 votes for the same candidate. He must cast 5,000 for one girl, 3,000 for another for another and 2,000 for his third choice.

GREEKS APPROVE IDEA OF JOINING PARTIES JOINTLY

Sigma Nu approves also. Sigma Phi Sigma believes that combination parties would be a good idea, according to John Johnson, social chairman.

Jane Von Seggern, social chairman of Kappa Kappa Gamma believes that the parties would be a success if Greek letter groups would combine. "I wish, tho, that the coliseum could be fixed up better than it has been. If good permanent decorations could be had. I think the party would be a grand success." According to Charlotte English, Sigma Kappa the idea is a good step toward reducing expenditures and at the same time increasing social functions.

UPPERCLASS GROUP HEARS FIRST TALK

Member YW Board Gives First of Series of Home Talks.

At upperclass commission meeting held Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Ellen Smith hall, Mrs. Norma Kidd Green gave the first of a series of six talks on home relationships. Mrs. Green is a member of the Y. W. C. A. advisory board, and has also published an article on home relations.

This commission group has been divided into two sections due to the large number of members. Doris Steeves is the head of one group and the newly elected president is Margaret McDonough. Elizabeth Barber is in charge of the other group, and the new president is Helen Uhling. Mary Jean Claasper is secretary.

All upperclass girls are invited to attend these meetings, and for the next six weeks Mrs. Green will continue her series of talks.

KANSAS CHANCELLOR TO ADDRESS COLLEGE

University Head Will Talk On Importance of Persons.

Consent has been received from Chancellor E. H. Lindley of the University of Kansas to speak at the Teachers college convocation to be held Tuesday, Nov. 8 at 11 o'clock in the Temple building. His subject will be "The Importance of Persons." This convocation is being held under the auspices of the Teachers college and the university as part of their participation in National Education Week, which is to be observed in all educational institutions.

Chancellor Lindley will complete his day with a talk before the Faculty Men's Dinner club at the University club Tuesday night. The Chancellor's subject for that meeting will be "The New Frontier."

The seniors in Purdue celebrated the initial touchdown of the season by throwing away their derby hats. That night at the football dance, all seniors wore cords, which served as tickets of admission. The first game was played with Kansas State.

Socialist Club Hears Candidate for Senate

Members of the University of Nebraska Socialist club were addressed Monday evening by Daniel Hill, socialist candidate for congress. The meeting was held in the Temple theater.

The present depression, Mr. Hill said in his talk, was caused by concentration of capital and over-production in all lines of business, industry and science.

He was introduced by C. E. Gray, president of the student socialist club.

Colorado university recently appointed nineteen new faculty members.

Puppet Show in Java, Battle Fields Of China Lend Variety to This Cruise

Variety—from watching Japanese produce plays with outlandish puppets, to visiting the war scarred areas of China where the recently Sino-Japanese hostilities took place—lent flavor to the recent round the world trip of Bekah M. Gibbons, associate professor of the home economics department.

Crossing Europe through France and Switzerland and Italy, Miss Gibbons sailed from Naples to Africa, disembarking there and visiting Egypt. Then she went by way of Syria and Palestine to India and Burma. She made side trips from the latter places to Java, Bali, Singapore, the Malays, and Siam, and returned home by way of China and Japan. She stayed six months in India to visit two sisters while there, one of whom is a missionary and the other a doctor.

Collects Art Objects. Miss Gibbons brought back interesting pieces of art from the places she visited. In Java she found some carved wooden masks and statues. In India Miss Gibbons picked up a rosewood elephant, some native jewelry including a heavy silver toe ring (costing its weight in silver rupees) silver pins inlaid with kingfisher feathers, and coral earrings.

She also bought a Nurdiah rug in India. The people of Ladoc, in Tibet, make these rugs of felted goat's hair and then transport them on Yaks down the mountains to India where they are embroidered. The Ladocs raise goats, and use the animals hair to make the high boots and small caps that they wear.

In China and Japan Miss Gibbons secured carved pieces of jade, fashioned in the figure of a water buffalo, some images used in the tiny street theaters, a dancer and a Buddha on a Lotus blossom. Peking is the best place in the world to shop, according to Dr. Gibbons, especially in the thieve's market held in the temple courts.

Finds Egypt Interesting. Egypt was interesting because of the Valley of the Kings, the Valley of the Kings, Miss Gibbons found while visiting in the Orient that the Indian and Burman peoples, although close neighbors, differ greatly in speech, religion, in dress and native customs. Java was unique for its puppet plays. The people of the densely populated island of Bali she found to be happy go lucky. After Bali came Singapore, the Malay states, and Siam, where Miss Gibbons visited the ruins of Angkor.

In China Miss Gibbons saw the devastated war zone around Nanking and Shanghai. She crossed to Peking on a Blue express train heavily guarded by Chinese soldiers. Only two weeks before her trip, the guards themselves had held up the train, which they had been detailed to defend against bandits.

Survey Shows That Phi Beta Kappa Students Live Longer Than Athletes

Mortality tables compiled by a national insurance company reveal that the life of the studious Phi Beta Kappa is about two years longer than his more active brother of the gridiron while the ordinary undistinguished student can hope for fifteen-hundredths of a year more than the athlete, according to an article in the Wisconsin Daily Cardinal.

The tables, which are based on a study of the life of 38,269 graduates of eastern colleges, show surprising facts as regards the longevity of the scholars and athletes. In the group of students surveyed 6,500 were honor students, 5,000 were athletes, and the rest average students.

It was found that the average student may expect to live 46.71 to live but 45.55 years or a fraction of a year less than he. It is particularly interesting to note

SURVEY SHOWS INCREASE

Associated Press Indicates More College Graduates Than in 1900.

A survey made by the Associated Press indicates that there is a marked increase in the number of college graduates since 1900. Other observations included: "The chances of a boy or girl going to high school, which were only one in twenty-five in 1890, are now one in two. The chances of a boy or girl going to college, which were only one in thirty-three in 1900, are now one in six. Ten cents per day paid by every person voting in the United States would pay the entire bill for public education."

PAST REGENT DIES AT OMAHA TUESDAY

Carl Julius Ernst a Member Of University Board For Six Years.

Carl Julius Ernst, seventy-eight, former Lincoln resident and regent of the University of Nebraska, died Tuesday at his home in Omaha. He has been an employe of the Burlington for fifty-six years and at the time of his retirement last May, he was assistant treasurer of the road.

Connected with the land department of the Burlington in Lincoln, Mr. Ernst was a member of the board of education here six years and served an equal time as regent of the University of Nebraska, at one time being president of the board.

Was Native of Prussia. Mr. Ernst came to this country with his parents, his father leaving Silesia, Prussia, to escape the Prussian militaristic system. His parents first came to Nebraska City and his rise to prominence as an official of the Burlington reads like a tale of romantic fiction. At Nebraska City he went to work in the Guenzel store, owned by the father of Carl J. Guenzel, Lincoln.

Never having studied English, he learned the language from reading the Nebraska City News. After working for a time in the store, he took a position in a bookstore. On Oct. 1, 1872, he began working for the Otoe County National bank at Nebraska City.

On Feb. 1, 1876, Mr. Ernst left the bank to enter the service of the Burlington, from which beginning he worked to the top, attaining the position of assistant treasurer when he was pensioned.

Helped Many Foreigners. Mr. Ernst helped many foreigners who came over to this country. His acquaintances include not only his German countrymen but Austrians, Hollanders, Swedes, Norwegians, Danes, Bohemians, and German Russians. Many of his foreign friends came to him for advice.

This pioneer, attaining success under the burden of many handicaps and hardships, spent much of his life helping other people to adopt themselves to their new environments.

It is particularly interesting to note that the honor student may look forward to 47.73 years of existence. Two Causes. In the opinion of the company this longevity may be attributed to two causes. In the first place, physical and mental fitness tend to accompany each other; and secondly, it is difficult for a man to excel in scholarship unless he is in good physical condition. The failure of athletes to come up to the average of even ordinary students may be attributed to the fact that figures for much of the study were gathered before physical examinations became necessary for athletic competition. Moreover, with increased control of athletics in the last few years and the present system of medical examinations in the universities, it is probable that there is a radical change in expectations of the athlete and Phi Beta Kappa based on this survey.
