Tackles: Lipigrove, Kerianedes, Gartner.

Guards: Justice, Peterson, Don Hubert, Green, McBeth.

Centers: Jones, Hurchum.

Backs: White, Eldridge, Thomas, DeLaney, Chase, Ballor, Skewes, Mueller, Miller.

Services of Lincoln Churches to Be Held Sunday Particularly for University of Nebraska Students.

held at the University club.

The Evangelistic churches will have special services for All University Church Day with a special program adapted to both the students and the congregations. There will be special recognition of students with responses from student representatives, special music, and messages fitting for the occasion. Rev. William G. Rembolt has extended an invitation to all students and states that transportation will be furnished to all who wish free of charge. Call M-3141 if transportation is desired.

Student Speaker to Talk.

Woodrow Magee will speak on the republican platform at the young peoples club Sunday night at the First Baptist church. This is the concluding talk in a series of three on the political parties and their platforms. Virginia Larsons' commission will have charge of the meeting. The social hour will be under the direction of Annabell Stannard, Margurite Phillips, and William Banner. Marjorie Rystrom will have the devotions.

Rev. Clifford Wallcott of the First Baptist church has prepared a special sermon for the students Sunday. The choir, which is composed of university students will sing. One section is being reserved for the university students and the Baptist student council.

Politics and Morals Subject.

At the Second Baptist church, Rev. James McPherson will preach on "Politics, Morals and Religion." After the church service Mr. C. H. Patterson will speak at the noon university class on the origin of the new testament. This is Mr. Paateros' second talk on this subject.

All Lutheran students are urged to attend their respective churches on All Church Sunday, Nov. 6, according to Reinhold Carlson, Lutheran student secretary. Each church will hold an 11 o'clock service and a 10 o'clock class for students.

At the Friedens Lutheran church on 6th and D, Dr. M. Koolen will speak on "The Joys in Distress." At the First Lutheran on 17th and A there will be a Communion service, with Rev. G. A. Elliott conducting the service. Dr. G. Keller Rubrecht will speak on "Christian Progress" at the Grace Lutheran church, 14 and F. There will be special music by the church choir and soloists.

Luther league meetings will be held at 6:15 at each church with the Luther Leaguers and the students leading the discussions.

A special service has been planned at the University Episcopal church at 13th and R streets, where a special sermon has been prepared for the students at the morning sermon, beginning at 11 o'clock. Rev. L. W. McMillin, pastor has extended a special invitation to all students.

TASSELS DRAFT LAWS FOR NATIONAL CLUB

Constitution Is Submitted To Govern Pep Clubs Of Big Six Group.

WILL CONSIDER EMBLEM

At the meeting of Tassels, women's pep organization, held at Ellen Smith hall this week, the charter for a national pep organization among the schools of the Big Six was submitted and approved.

Anne Bunting was chairman of the committee which drafted the constitution. She was assisted in this work by Margaret Chevrant and Alice Quigle. The constitution consists of seven articles dealing with membership, jurisdiction, elections, officers, and uniforms for the national organization. Each of the six individual chapters will work out its own bylaws, it is planned.

Tassels Is Instigator.

At the instigation of Tassels, representatives from the pep clubs of each school in the Big Six met in Lincoln last spring to consider the formation of a national organization. The constitution is the first step in the realization of such an organization. Emblems and suitable names for the organization are now under consideration.

A new member of Tassels, Frances Rice of Gamma Phi Beta, was introduced at this meeting.

After the program the pledges were presented with their pledge pins by Harriet Daly, president of the sorority, and Ruth Johnston, secretary and treasurer.

DEPRESSION BOOSTS GRADES

Uni President Says Students Now Look at College More Seriously.

The depression is listed by President M. Lyle Spencer, of the University of Washington, as one of the three major features in boosting the universities' grade average each quarter during the last two years.

Students now look at their college careers with a more serious attitude, Dr. Spencer said. Unemployment has also forced students to look ahead and prepare for the competition of the business world. Decreased allowances for entertainment has increased the students time for studying, which also helps to raise the scholastic standing.

Higher entrance requirements are resulting in a better type of students. Scholarship awards and the compilation and publication of the relative scholastic standings of fraternities and sororities also tend to put students on the honor list who did not try before.

RAMSEY PLANS TO FLY TO IOWA CITY FOR ANNUAL GAME

Weather permitting, Ray Ramsey, secretary of the Nebraska Alumni association, will fly in his plane to Iowa City Saturday to take motion pictures of the Hawkeye-Husker game. Ramsey will be accompanied by Boyd Krewson who will take "stills" of the game from the sidelines. They plan to return Sunday.

Kenneth W. Brighton, student at Johns Hopkins university, this week was recovering from serious burns suffered when a chemical solution he was mixing in a laboratory burst into a sudden flame.

His clothes caught fire and he was severely burned before he was rushed to a nearby shower bath. He was taken to the Union Memorial hospital.

NON-PARTISAN TALKS GIVEN BY PETERSON

Instructor of Political Science Addresses Two Groups.

F. Valdemar Peterson, instructor in political science at the University of Nebraska, addressed two hundred students Wednesday morning, November 2, at Luther College, Wahoo, Nebraska. He gave an analysis of the political presidential campaign of 1932.

Mr. Peterson will speak again on the same subject before the Lincoln DeMolay meeting Tuesday evening, November 8. He gives from a non-partisan viewpoint the records of the three outstanding candidates, and points out that never, in the history of the American government, have the contemporary voting peoples considered the two major parties to be of definite difference. "This is due to the fact that a candidate, in order to be elected president, must appeal to all the various different occupational and color groups, and can therefore deal only in generalities."

Eighty-Four Eating Establishments Offer Variety at North Carolina U

With eighty-four different eating places in Chapel Hill, where the University of North Carolina is located, the students should not want for variety in their diet, even the most exacting of them. That is the conclusion drawn by the Daily Tar Heel, campus paper at Chapel Hill, which recently conducted a survey of all the boarding houses, cafeterias, restaurants, fraternity house dining rooms, sandwich shops and the two university dining rooms.

These eating establishments cater to about 2886 students and 200 more. The survey revealed that ninety-five students are employed as managers.

Many Miss Breakfast.

Concerning the eating habits of the students, it was discovered that about twenty-five percent regularly miss one meal a day, which is, almost without exception their breakfast. One reason advanced is the preference for sleep rather than toast. Another is the saving affected by going without breakfast.

In most places the question of money was uppermost and the collection of accounts furnished trouble for many establishments.

A great number of complaints were made about the poor manners of students in general. One lady declared, "Students are anything but gentlemen and have no manners whatsoever." She added that the appearance of food on the table was always a signal for a free for all grabfest. Another manager stated that all of her boarders had been driven away by medical students. Fresh from the dissecting room their conversation was anything but conducive to a healthy appetite. The breaking point came when one of the would be doctors proclaimed lamb chops superior to cadaver meat.

Over $15,000,000 has been received by the University of Texas from oil royalties during the last eleven years. The receipts run as high as $260,000.

The entomology department at the Idaho university is experimenting with the pea weevil, hoping to exterminate it.

Ames Grad, Who Worked Way Thru College, Reaches Top As Contractor

AMES, Iowa.—One September day eight years ago a Louisiana lad, Wallace C. Walker, drove onto the Iowa State college campus intent upon acquiring an engineering education. He came in a stripped flivver he called "Miss Behavior." The trades and industries course, now reorganized as industrial arts, attracted him and he enrolled in it.

He had nothing in his favor as a prospective college student except an irrespressible desire to learn. No high school diploma lurked under his arm. He had no preparatory school credits on file in the registrar's office.

Without a cent in his pockets he settled down to the serious business of finding a way of eating regularly. He washed dishes for his meals and performed odd janitorial jobs for his room. Meanwhile he made an excellent record in class and laboratory work.

Several days ago, Walker, this same boy, announced his entry into the general contracting field in New Orleans under his own name, at a time when every advertisement for new construction brings a flood of bids which fairly swamp the engineers. He left the safe haven of a partnership, one he had acquired without capital three years ago in the contracting firm of J. V. & R. T. Burkes, inc., to branch out for himself.

Between his departure from Iowa State with Pullman fare paid to New Orleans by the company that hired him while still in college and his contracting partnership, he worked on the construction of the famed Lake Pontchartrain bridge. First he was a concrete inspector. Then he advanced rapidly until he was offered a partnership with the Burkes brothers.
