SURVEY REVEALS COLLEGE NEWS IS ONE THIRD SPORT

NEW YORK. (CNS). Sports occupy 39 percent of the space given by 100 leading newspapers in the country to college news, according to results of a survey announced this week by A. C. Marts, president of Marts & Lundy, inc., counsellors in college finance and publicity.

Pictures depicting college news events, he said, are given 24.2 percent of the total space, while general news receives 11.75 percent.

While college scandals receive approximately 2.4 percent of the space, contrary to popular belief editors are inclined to "play down" this type of news, according to his findings. What scandal stories were found, he said, appeared mainly in local newspaper, and usually did not gain widespread publicity.
