

JACK MILLER WILL PROBABLY START AT HALF AGAINST PITT

Bible Announces Easy Drill For Today to Escape Any Injuries.

Jack Miller's appearance at right half in the Nebraska first string backfield Tuesday afternoon apparently indicating that the former Omaha North high star will start against Pittsburgh Saturday, was the highlight of yesterday's secret drill at the stadium.

Working with Miller in dummy scrimmage against both fresh and B outfits was George Sauer, fullback, Bernie Masterson, quarterback and Chris Mathis, left half. Penney and Hokuf at the ends, Hulbert and O'Brien, tackles, Debus and Bishop, guards, and Ely, center, completed the regular eleven.

Fearing possible injury to the Husker squad which is now in sound physical trim, Coach D. X. Bible announced Tuesday that only a light scrimmage will be held Wednesday instead of the usual hard practice session. Lawrence Ely, game captain for the Pitt game is bothered with minor leg bruise, but "Doc" McLean says that the Grand Island athlete will be in the best of shape by Saturday.

Team Hears Pitt Charted.

Motion pictures of last year's 10 to 0 plasterings at Pittsburgh was shown the squad Tuesday, and then Scout Bill Day charted the Panther grid system from his observation of the Pitt-Notre Dame game two weeks ago and the Pitt-Pennsylvania tilt last Saturday.

George Sauer displayed his customary fire and skill in Tuesday's practice, the big fullback revealing by his form that long absence because of a thumb injury has not hindered him.

Coach Jock Sutherland is bringing three full teams from Pittsburgh, the squad entraining Wednesday. Stops for workouts will be made at Chicago Thursday and at Omaha Friday.

Women Alone Can Prevent Future Wars, According to Dean Oldfather

Head Arts and Science College Addresses Vespers Group.

"If war is to be prevented, it must be done by the women. They must take a stand and say that they will not see their husbands, brothers and sons sent off to war. Men are too conservative to ever favor a change from the present systems."

"It is up to women to propagandize always against war; to study its causes. No greater contribution to civilization could be made by this generation than the outlawing of war—the most idiotic thing left in our civilization."

Thus spoke Dr. C. H. Oldfather, dean of the arts and science college addressing the Vespers group Tuesday afternoon. "Theoretically," he said, "we all approve of peace. About one person in a thousand holds the view that war is a necessity as a means of eliminating the unfit, as in jungle days there was the survival of the fittest."

Even tho a man such as Theodore Roosevelt held this view, its absurdity is obvious, Dr. Oldfather pointed out, for modern warfare does away with the fittest rather than the unfit. On enlistment for service in the World war applicants were given examinations, and only those who were the most perfect mentally and physically were admitted to the service. That, he said, was plainly not the elimination of the unfit.

Censorship Limits Knowledge.

"People do not like war in the abstract, but in particular cases," stated Dr. Oldfather. "In wars gone by men have said they were fighting for their homes, for justice, for civilization, or for God. It is difficult, however, to judge the justice of war, for the minute war appears imminent, those in power clamp down with censorship, and it becomes impossible to get at the facts."

In the World war, he pointed out, immediately after the Balkan murder occurred a limited censorship was established and the conditions could not become known.

"The only sure way to avert war," according to Dr. Oldfather, "is for every individual to make up his mind he will not have war."

FIELD GENERALSHIP SYSTEM UNPOPULAR

California Colleges Try New Twelve Man Grid Idea.

PASADENA. (CNS). Coaches and football fans, who last weekend saw what was believed to be the first twenty-four man grid contest ever held, this week were undecided—and to some extent, unenthusiastic—about the idea of football battles with twelve men on each side.

The historic contest here was played on Friday night in the Rose Bowl, and resulted in the defeat of Santa Barbara State college at the hand of the Occidental college "twelve," 20 to 0. Altho twelve men were in the lineups of both teams, two of these were "field generals," who directed offensive plays but did not participate in the actual combat.

Those who saw the game declared that the "field generalship" system failed to produce any spectacular results.

whole world that it is hard to see them as a whole, the speaker explained.

"Even tho things look very rosy at the moment," he said, "we are not safe from war."

Pointing out some of the causes of wars, Oldfather mentioned a recent book "America Conquers Britain," which tells of the economic war going on among nations of the world today. "There are a thousand powder spots scattered over the world which need only a match to set them off," he declared.

As a conclusion he impressed the group with the importance of women being on guard to help erase the last great blot on civilization.

Sigma Nu failed to secure swimming permits and was forced to default to Sigma Chi.

Games scheduled in the elimination meet Tuesday night included tilts between Delta Sigma and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Tau Kappa Epsilon and Delta Lambda and the Kappa Sigma-Sigma Phi Epsilon contest.
