FIGURES SHOW TOTAL NUMBER OF STUDENTS HAS BEEN DECREASED

Semester Enrollment Less Than Last Year's by 8.93 Per Cent.

With a collegiate enrollment of 5,414 students for the current semester, the University of Nebraska student body has decreased 8.93 percent this year, as compared with 5,945 students the first semester last year. Official figures for the present semester enrollment were made public Saturday.

The decrease was fairly uniform among the various undergraduate colleges of the University, the graduate college, the law college, and the school of nursing at Omaha showing increases. The medical college student body decreased but one.

The college of arts and sciences, with 1,534 students as compared with the 1,671 of last year, held its place as the largest college in the University, with the teachers college, with 984 students, holding its second position. Business administration and engineering retained the next two positions, while the graduate college replaced the college of agriculture in fifth place.

Figures for the present semester do not represent the total enrollment for the University year, explained university officials. Additional students who attend the second semester, attend summer school, take extension or night school work, short course work, and other phases of university work will probably double the figure for the present semester.

MANAGER EXTENDS PURCHASE DATE OF NEBRASKA ANNUAL

Salesmen to Offer Books At Discount Price Until Tuesday.

Students may purchase their Cornhuskers at the discount price until after Tuesday, according to Charles Skade, business manager. Extension of the deadline is the result of student demand and the fact that Friday, which was to have been the last day, was taken up with rallies and parades, he declared.

Corn Cobs, Tassels and staff members will not turn in their salesbooks until Tuesday afternoon. The annual may be purchased at the discount price of $4.25 for a limited time after that at the Cornhusker office in the basement of Nebraska hall.

Winner of the Magee award of $25 worth of merchandise will not be determined until after the books are turned in, the business manager announced. Several salesmen are running a close race for the award, and it will be impossible to determine the winner until the deadline is reached.

AXLING TALKS AT BANQUET

Japan Missionary Says Both Hemispheres Face Same Problems.

People in both hemispheres are facing the same problems and asking the same questions, according to Dr. William Axling, missionary to Japan, and University of Nebraska graduate who spoke at the annual international friendship banquet for students Friday night at the First Christian church.

Dr. R. J. Pool presided as toastmaster. Dean O. J. Ferguson greeted the foreign students, and Roberto Mario, senior in Teachers college from the Philippine Islands responded for the foreign students. The banquet is sponsored every year by the Council of Religious Welfare particularly for foreign students on this campus.

SCHOONER PLACED ON SALE

November Issue of Literary Publication Features Nebraska Writers.

The November issue of the Prairie Schooner went on sale yesterday at the book stores and will be placed in downtown news stands early next week. The last number of volume 7, the Schooner will feature Nebraska writers and carry an index of stories appearing in the last four issues.

Among the contributions of former students of the university will be a farm story, "Brother," by Lyman Ross. Loren Easley, a Nebraska graduate, offers "Riding the Peddlers." John T. Coffee, who was in school last year, writes from the Wyoming oil fields on "Sand Line."

MEN STUDENTS TO ELECT SWEETHEART

Election Will Decide Which Of Nine Candidates Will Be Chosen.

With nine candidates in the field, the largest number in several years, the election Tuesday will decide who will be presented at the annual Kosmet Klub Thanksgiving Morning Revue. The vote is limited to all men students in the university.

The nine candidates are: Leola Schill, Alpha Xi Delta; Betty Kelley, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Alice Pedley, Kappa Alpha Theta; Anne Bunting, Pi Beta Phi; Jeanette Clarke, Alpha Chi Omega; Mildred Huff, Alpha Delta Theta; Rosalie Lamme, Delta Delta Delta; Pat Miller, and Jeanette Arensburg, Alpha Phi.

The election will be held in the Temple building Tuesday from nine until five. Members of the Student Council will supervise the election, and the votes will be counted by Professors E. F. Schramm and E. J. Frankforter, faculty advisers to Kosmet Klub; Jack Thompson, president of the Klub; and Art Pinkerton, Klub member in charge of the election.

PREPARE TAX LESSON SERIES

Ag Extension Service Plans To Aid Citizens in Problem Study.

In an effort to give citizens of Nebraska a foundation upon which to base a study of current Nebraska tax problems, the Ag college extension service, with the cooperation of Prof. G. O. Virtue has prepared a series of tax lessons for use by study groups to be completed before the Nebraska legislature starts tax legislation.

Three of the twelve primers, dealing with local, state, and federal taxation have already been issued. The remaining nine are to be distributed before Jan. 1.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS WILL PRESENT THREE ACT PLAY IN TEMPLE

'As Husbands Go,' Current Drama, Concerns Love Hungry Matrons.

"As Husbands Go," coming play of the University Players will be given at the Temple next week starting November 14. The play is a three-act comedy, written by Rachel Crothers, and concerns the adventure of two love-hungry matrons who crossed the Atlantic in search of love, and found it. Two scenes are used in the play, the first a Paris cabaret, and the home of a Dubuque, Iowa banker.

Heading the cast of "As Husbands Go," is Mary Katherine Throop, who takes the part of Lucile Lingard. Opposite her is Clifton Conaway, playing Ronald Derbyshire, an English poet. Emmie Sykes, the other matron is portrayed by Augusta French, while opposite her is W. Zolley Lerner, playing the part of Hippolitus Lomi, an accomplished gigolo. Charles Lingard, a conventionalized Dubuque, Iowa, banker is played by Herbert Yenne, Peggy Sykes, the second matron's daughter is played by Lois Picking, and Francis Brandt plays the part of Jake Canon, fiance of Peggy Sykes.

Doors will open at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening, and the show will continue throughout the week. Miss H. Alice Howell will direct the play.

COLLINS WILL GIVE TRAVEL TALK TODAY

Assistant Museum Curator to Show Slides With Presentation.

The audience at the regular Sunday afternoon Nebraska State Museum program this afternoon at 4:15 in Morrill hall downstairs auditorium will be taken through Devonshire, England, in travelogue manner by F. G. Collins, assistant curator of the museum.

Mr. Collins, who was born in Devonshire and spent the greater part of his life in that English county, will illustrate his travel-talk with lantern slides made from original photos of famous historical landmarks, intimate glimpses of the English countryside, and life as it is lived there.

Children's Division

The children's division at 2:30 in the same auditorium will listen to Miss Marjorie Shanafelt, curator of visual education in charge of the Sunday programs, tell the story of "Rikki-Tikki-Tavi," by Rudyard Kipling. The story will be illustrated by lantern slides of Miss Shanafelt's creation.

The school of fine arts program which was scheduled for 3 o'clock this afternoon, has been postponed until next Sunday.

Number of Freshman Women Follows Custom and Shows Slight Decrease

With but two fewer women students than at the same time last year the present freshman class has maintained its number of women more consistently than any other University of Nebraska class, figures released Saturday by Miss Amanda Heppner, dean of women, reveal. There are a total of 155 fewer women registered for work in Lincoln this year than last, she reports.

Following are the first semester freshmen women for the last four years:

| | |
|--------------|-----|
| 1929-30..... | 663 |
| 1930-31..... | 539 |
| 1931-32..... | 533 |
| 1932-33..... | 531 |

The feminine portion of the 1929-30 first semester freshman class, with various changes in personnel due to changing schools, dropping from school, etc., has decreased to the 394 senior women now in school, comparative reports show. The 539 women who entered as freshmen two years ago, with various changes, decreased to 488 sophomores last year, and to 374 juniors this year, the smallest number of women in any university class. Last year's freshman class of 533 women has decreased to a sophomore class of 421 for the current year.

HARD BATTLE ENDS IN SCORELESS TIE

GAME SIDELIGHTS

Coach Jock Sutherland came over to the Nebraska dressing room following the game and told Coach Bible that "your boys outplayed us today." Which after all was merely admitting what 27,000 fans thought about the affair.

Coach Dana X. Bible simply said: "It only goes to show that when a team is 'right' mentally, it can give a good account of itself." The Huskers were certainly in that frame of mind, because a more brilliant exhibition by a Nebraska team rarely has been seen at Memorial stadium.

Two Pittsburgh sports writers had this to say after it was all over: "The trouble is, your Nebraska teams are underrated in the east. We knew you had a much better team than you were given credit for. Coach Bible's eleven deserved to win today." They praised the great line play of the Huskers, the running of Sauer and Mathis and the smart field generalship of Masterson.

If George Sauer's triple-threat display Saturday was not of All American caliber, then someone may be wrong. Chris Mathis wasn't far behind George in effectiveness, either.

Warren Heller was the only Pittsburgh back who could get away for anything approaching consistent yardage. He is a slippery, hard running ball carrier. Capt. Paul Reider was next in line for Panther offensive honors.

Statistics Reveal Biblemen Lead in All Phases Of Game.

Nebraska's Cornhuskers convincingly demonstrated to the Pittsburgh Panthers and 27,000 spectators Saturday afternoon that they had the better football team, altho the official score read another 0 to 0 tie into the football history between the two schools.

It was without question a "moral victory" for the Huskers. In fact, it was even stronger than that, for Coach Bible's inspired team outplayed Dr. John Sutherland's undefeated outfit by a decisive margin. With George Sauer and Chris Mathis showing the way, Nebraska rolled up a total of 13 first downs to 8 for Pittsburgh, while they out-yarded the Golden Panthers 269 yards to 183.

Sauer's presence in the lineup largely accounted for the brilliant offensive exhibition of the Nebraska eleven. He set up the pins for the chief scoring threat recorded by either team, when he galloped around right end for twenty-two yards midway in the second quarter to place the ball on the Pitt 25-yard line. After two ineffective tries at the line, Sauer dropped back and passed to Masterson in the flat zone for twenty-one yards. Sebastian tackled Bernie on the 6-yard line. Mathis wriggled thru for three yards on the next play, and then Sauer got one more. A determined Panther defense stopped Sauer for no gain, and the Husker threat

200 ATTEND ANNUAL DAD'S DAY BANQUET BEFORE PITT GAME

Speaker Urges Fathers to Take More Interest in University.

Declaring that dads of the state are obligated to become more vitally interested in the University of Nebraska and support it in its great work of developing young people of the state, Rev. W. C. Rundin of Wahoo addressed about two hundred, sons, and daughters at the eleventh annual Dads Day luncheon at the chamber of commerce Saturday noon.

Rev. Rundin paid tribute to the faculty members of the university, who, he said, are giving far more than book knowledge in their contacts with students. "They are doing something that money can't buy in moulding character," he declared.

Jack Thompson, president of the Innocents society, which sponsors the banquet annually, presided and introduced A. C. Lau, president of the chamber of commerce, and Chancellor E. A. Burnett who spoke briefly.

In a short ceremony at the conclusion of the program, every father was initiated into an organization known as Delta Alpha Delta by Dr. G. E. Condra, with members of the Innocents society assisting.

ORGANIZATIONS OF PROFESSIONAL MEN FAVOR ADVERTISING

The idea that it is unethical for professional men to advertise is disappearing. Prof. F. C. Blood told members of the Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accountants Friday evening at the Lincoln hotel. Various recognized local professional men's organizations in this country have endorsed and are using paid advertising space in newspapers and other advertising media, he said.

ENGINEERING SOCIETY MEMBERS TAKE TRIP

A.S.M.E. and A.I.E.E. Will Inspect Plants In Omaha Monday.

About seventy student branch members of the A. I. E. E. and A. S. M. E. will make an inspection trip to Omaha Monday, according to announcement of O. J. Ferguson, dean of the college of engineering. Men from Nebraska and South Dakota universities are to be the guests of the Nebraska sections of the two societies.

Alternative inspection tours are being offered, one to the plant of the Nebraska Power company and the other to the plant of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company. At 6:30 p. m. a joint dinner will be held at the Omaha chamber of commerce. The program will be presented by Ernest Hartford, national assistant secretary of the A. S. M. E. and student of the University of Nebraska. And among those who will give talks are J. C. Steele, L. W. Cook and A. D. Almquist. C. D. Brehm is listed for a musical number.

Present plans call for the group to leave Lincoln about noon, Monday, and inspection tours to begin about 2:30 p. m.

Buel Suit to Appear In Court This Week

Damage suit of $15,000 against Robert F. Buel, Sigma Phi Sigma, student last year in law college, will come up in district court this week. Mr. Buel is sued by the parents of Naomi Butterworth who was injured last spring when she walked into a car driven by Buel. Lawyers for the defense are headed by Roland Locke, former Nebraskan.
