FRANKIE TRUMBAUER AND 15 PIECE BAND WILL PLAY FOR BALL

Eddie Jungbluth Comments Favorably on Signed Orchestra.

Frankie Trumbauer and his fifteen piece band will furnish the music for the Military ball on Friday evening, Dec. 2, according to Cadet Major James McGeachin, chairman of the orchestra committee. The orchestra comes here from Dallas, Tex., where they have been playing under a contract that expires Nov. 28. Earlier in the fall this dance band played at the Muehlbach hotel in Kansas City, receiving much popular acclaim during its engagement there and every place it has appeared.

"Frankie Trumbauer has played in Paul Whiteman's band for several years and is pronounced by all musicians the best saxophone player in the world, barring none," stated Eddie Jungbluth. "He also brings with him some other men who have also played in Paul Whiteman's band including one of the best trumpet players in the country." According to McGeachin, this band has received much favorable comment from every one who has heard it.

Plans for the ball have been going thru rapidly. The final arrangements will be completed and announced in the next few days, it was learned from the chairman of the committee.

COUNCIL TO PRESENT PINS AT CONVOCATION

Three Girls Earning Highest Averages Will Be Recognized.

Recognition of the highest scholastic averages made by girls in the freshmen, sophomore and junior classes will be given by the Panhellenic council Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when pins are presented to the winners at the seventeenth annual scholastic convocation in the Temple theater.

The awards will be made by Elizabeth Barber, president of the Panhellenic council, at the conclusion of the regular weekly recital of the school of music.

The pins go to the holders of the highest scholastic averages regardless of whether or not they are sorority girls. Miss Barber pointed out, and added that the convocation is one which should be attended by all girls on the campus.

Last year's awards went to Miss Ida Sommers of the freshman class who had an average of 95.47, Miss Margaret Upson, of the sophomore class, who had an average of 90.83; and Mrs. Harriet Zink, of the Junior class who had an average of 92.92. The averages are based on grades made during the preceding year.

ELECTION RULES

1. Solicitation of votes in the building in which the election is held is forbidden. Candidates or supporters shall spend no money on a campaign. Any literature on behalf of candidates is forbidden.

2. All male students are eligible to vote for Nebraska Sweetheart.

3. Receipt numbers must be written in ink on the validation of the students identification card. No students will be permitted to use another student's identification card. Cards of violators will be confiscated.

4. Identification cards of voters will be checked with files from the registrar's office. A written statement from the registrar's office must be secured to vote if a voter is challenged at the polls.

5. Violation of any rule by any candidate or supporter automatically results in the ineligibility of the candidate.

VEPERS TO HOLD SERVICES

Gertrude Clarke Will Speak On Membership Meaning Tuesday Afternoon.

Gertrude Clark will be the speaker at the annual recognition services for the new members of the Vespers, which will be held at 5 o'clock Tuesday in Ellen Smith hall. She will speak on "What Y. W. C. A. Membership Means."

The service, which will be a candlelighting ceremony, will be conducted by Lucille Hendricks, assisted by Jane Robertson. Evelyn Hasse will preside, and the choir will sing.

CURRENT SCHOONER CONTAINS WORK OF WESTERN WRITERS

Former Students Submit Short Stories for Publication.

The November issue of the Prairie Schooner, which went on sale this week, is made up mainly of the work of midwestern writers. The short story writers are Nebraskans, among them Rudolph Umland, whose first published story, "Sand Hill Interlude," appears in this issue. A former student of the university, Mr. Umland has spent three years touring the United States, and is at present raising swine on a Nebraska farm.

Among other contributions from Nebraskans are "Old Trails," a ghost story written by Mrs. Dora Bower of York, Nebraska, "Brother," a farm story by Lyman Ross, and "League of Nations," the contribution of Michael Ginsburg, an assistant professor at the university.

Out of state writers are welcomed by the Schooner, but Nebraskan writers are given first call providing their work equals the standard of contributions received from distant parts of the country, according to Editor Wimberly. "Kindred," a sketch, marks the first appearance of R. C. Pitzer, of Irvington, New Jersey.

Pauline Hirst, a young poet living in Riverside, Calif., and the niece of Dr. Robert F. Gilder, at one time connected with the university, is represented for the first time in the Schooner. Seventeen year old Jeanne Gregory, born in a sod house in the sandhills, writes from Stanton, Nebraska, Harold Vinal of New York City, who is editor of Voices, a leading poetry magazine, writes a series of sonnets.

Prof. Lowry C. Wimberly, editor of the Prairie Schooner, contributes a book review, and Loren C. Easley, editor of the "Crossroads," section, Gilbert Doane, who conducts "Bibliana," are included in the Fall number of the Schooner.

Monetary Conference Delegates Will Consider Two Plans of Aiding Farmer

Two plans for farm relief will be discussed at the conference on "Prices, Debts and the Farmer," which will be held Thursday, Nov. 17 in the Social Science auditorium. It is being held primarily to discuss monetary and banking procedure that will be beneficial to the farmer.

The two most common procedures advanced for farm relief have been readjustment of prices of farmers' debts according to present price levels and a readjustment of prices of farm products. Roughly speaking, the farmer today must repay debts contracted some years ago in mortgages and other obligations with a dollar worth almost twice as much as it was in 1929. Therefore the problem confronted is to raise either prices for produce or reduce the amount of the farmers' indebtedness.

C. A. Phillips Speaks.

Headlining the speakers' list is C. A. Phillips, dean of the college of commerce of the University of Iowa, who will appear both in the morning and afternoon programs, speaking in the morning session on "Banking and Prices" and in the afternoon on "Teachings of the Turbulent Twenties."

The banking profession will have a prominent part in the program, with D. P. Hogan, president

BUSINESS HONORARY INITIATES TWO MEN

Commercial Club Plans Ceremony Tuesday at Delt House.

Two pledges to Alpha Kappa Psi, honorary business fraternity, were initiated Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. Clifford E. Spangler, professor of economics in the business administration college. Norman Prucka and Lawrence Young are the new initiates.

Another organization of the Bizad college, the men's commercial club, will initiate twenty pledges at the Delta Tau Delta house Tuesday evening at 7:15 o'clock. After the initiation, Mr. Karl Arndt, professor of economics, will give a talk on business finance.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS AMUSE AUDIENCE IN MONDAY EVE OPENING

'As Husbands Go,' Modern Comedy, Begins Run At Temple.

"As Husbands Go," a three-act comedy by Rachel Crothers, was presented at the Temple theater, Monday night by the University Players, campus dramatic organization under the direction of Miss H. Alice Howell. The play will have a week's run.

A chuckling and applauding audience attended this play, a wholesomely human affair with interludes of light humor. Miss Crothers, "admitting that the American husband is traditionally a patient dry horse, fit only to carry the money bag and the family worries" managed to present a leisurely, loose jointed, uneven story about him in a satisfying manner.

Cornhusker Salesmen

To Turn in All Books

Tassels, Corncobs and Cornhusker staff members who have sales books for the 1933 Cornhusker must turn them in by 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Cornhusker office. All books and money must be checked in by that time or Cornhusker Coed votes will not be valid. Any salesman in the organization contest will be ineligible for the prize at Magees if books are turned in later.

Barbs Petition Student Group to Close Dec. 10

The Barb council, which sponsors monthly all University parties is petitioning the Student council to close the night of Dec. 10 to all other campus social functions. The petition will be heard at a special meeting of the Student council on Wednesday at 5 o'clock in U hall, 106. Any organizations who have objections to closing this night are requested by the president to have a representative present at the meeting.

POLICEMEN CATCH GAME ATTENDANTS PILFERING AUTOS

Regler Takes Two Negroes To Police Station on Discovery.

Two negroes who gave their names as George Farley and William Conrad, both of Lincoln, were discovered breaking into cars and pilfering them during the game Saturday.

The men were seen from the stadium by an Omaha policeman, attending the game. Officer Regler caught Farley and handcuffed him to the door of a parked car but Conrad escaped after Regler had fired several shots at him. Conrad dropped a hat and coat as he fled.

Farley was taken to the police station and told where Conrad was living. Officers Regler, Miller and McCurdy and Detective Myers picked up Conrad and took him to the station where he confessed Farley was arraigned in court Monday morning and entered a plea of not guilty. His trial was set for Nov. 25. Conrad has not been arraigned yet.

Farley has served time in prison in Oklahoma and Conrad was in the penitentiary here for four years for breaking and entering.

ANNUAL CORNHUSKER COSTUME PARTY SET FOR NIGHT OF DEC. 9

A. W. S. Board to Give Prizes for Three Best Dresses.

Friday evening, Dec. 9, has been set as the date of the Cornhusker costume party, annual affair for all women on the campus sponsored by the A. W. S. board, according to Helen Baldwin, member of that group. The party will be held in the Armory from 7 to 9, the Panhellenic council having voted to close the evening to hour dances.

Prizes are awarded each year to the wearers of the costumes judged the cleverest, the prettiest, and the funniest. Last year Marjory Dickinson, dressed to represent a dressing table, was declared the cleverest; Margaret Leonard, garbed as a Spanish senorita, the prettiest; and Mildred Dole, posing as an African cannibal chief, the funniest.

The following committee appointments have been made by Miss Baldwin; arrangements, Harriet Dunlap; stunts, Anne Bunting; favors, Alice Quigle; and music and judges, Ruth Cherney.

An orchestra will play for dancing following the presentation of a program of skits. The girls will then form in line for a grand march past the judges' stand, and the costume winners will be announced according to their decision.

LIVESTOCK JUDGING TEAM PLACES FIFTH

Ag College Senior Takes Second Honors at Kansas City.

The university senior livestock judging team placed fifth in the intercollegiate judging contest at Kansas City Saturday in connection with the American Royal livestock exposition. Prof. M. A. Alexander of the animal husbandry department coached the team. Fourteen schools were represented in the competition.

LaVern Gengrich, senior in the college of agriculture, was the high scoring individual on the Nebraska team and was the second high individual in the contest.

YEARBOOK DISCOUNT SALE CLOSING TONIGHT

Business Manager Urges All Students to Buy Annual Now.

The initial Cornhusker discount sale definitely closes this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Charles Skade, business manager, announced yesterday afternoon. A two day extension of the scheduled opening sales drive was made Friday when it was seen that the demand for books could not be taken care of because of the activities on that day.

"The rally Friday morning, the parades in the afternoon and the general spirited activities going on before the Pittsburgh game kept many students who intended to order their Cornhuskers from doing so on the last day of the sale, hence the extension of time (Continued on Page 3.)

BIG SISTERS PLAN TO ENTERTAIN PROTEGES

Sponsors Expect Over 200 Guests Will Attend Annual Dinner.

Over two hundred are expected to attend the annual Big Sister and Little Sister dinner, which is being given at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Armory. All Big Sisters are expected to attend with their proteges, and many sorority pledges are coming with their sponsors.

Delores Deadman, head of the Big Sister board, will welcome the guests and preside over a short program, which will include a skit by Editha Long and Betsy Benedict, and a reading by Florence Smeerin. Dorothy Charleston and Marion Stamp will play throughout the evening for those who wish to dance.

The committee in charge of the dinner includes Margaret Reedy, who is in charge of the general arrangements; Calista Cooper, publicity; Muriel Moffett, the menu; Alice Quigle, the program, and Lucille Reilly, ticket sales.
