FIRST BATTALION SPONSORS DINNER

Tri Delts Will Celebrate Founders Day With a Banquet Monday.

Reviving an ancient custom of entertaining at a formal dinner preceding the Military Ball, the first battalion will preside at a 7 o'clock dinner at the Cornhusker Friday night. Guests of honor will include Colonel and Mrs. Frankforter and Major and Mrs. Charles Speer.

Others on the guest list will include Major Howard Mixson and Elizabeth Barber; Lieutenant and Adjutant Bob Kiffin, Major Robert Cochran and their special guests. Captain of Headquarters Company Thomas Snipes and Margaret Chase; Captain Clyde Card, A. and Martha Hershey; Captain Byron Hirst, B. and Roma DeBrown; Captain Don Hulbert, C. and Evelyn O'Connor; and Captain Holmes Congdon and Elizabeth Struble are among the other invited guests.

Honor Dinner Given.

A "Roseidon supper" was served at the Delta Delta Delta sorority house Monday evening in celebration of Founders day. The tables were attractive with sea shells, sea weeds and treasure chests. The place favors were small candles in pearl shells. Mrs. Amy Parmelee of Champaign, Ill., editor of the national sorority magazine, "Trident," was the honored guest. Mrs. Glen Buck, alumnae president, acted as toastmistress and presided over the following program: Reading of the national president's message; welcome, Miss Mildred Root; alumnae toast, Miss Bertha DuTeil; pledge talk, Miss Ruth Cain; and freshman toast, Miss Breat Peterson. Mrs. Charles Matson sang preceding Mrs. Parmelee's address.

Group Plans Dinner.

At a candlelight dinner at the Willard chapter house Monday evening twenty-two members of the alumnae club met with the actives of the group. ### Tuesday's Workout Finds Huskers in Playful Spirits

(Continued from Page 1.) Tater Fahrbruch has been sick with an attack of the "flu," but he was able to take part in Tuesday's practice and should be in good shape by Saturday. There are no injuries in the Nebraska squad, Mathis and Sauer having fully recovered from some bruises encountered in the Missouri game.

Southern Methodist boasts a big, rugged line and two fine backs in Sprague and Oliver. A report from the Dallas school yesterday, however, indicated that Oliver will not be in the best of shape Saturday because of injuries suffered in the Texas Christian game.

England's Return to Gold Standard Remote, Says Flux

(Continued from Page 1.) the increasing distrust that the Bank of England could maintain specie payments. Borrowing, first by the bank and then by the British government, from the United States and France only gave further impetus to the growing distrust.

Britain Off Standard.

Finally, when during the three days ending Sept. 19, $190,000,000 was withdrawn, the Bank of England was authorized to discontinue payments of gold and on Monday, Sept. 21, 1931, a bill was rushed through the House of Commons taking England off the gold standard.

The immediate result was a drop in the price of the pound on foreign exchange quotations. Commodity prices and costs of manufacture in England, however, have risen less slowly than the pound has dropped, making export profitable.

The ultimate result has been to increase British industrial activity and stay the sweep of the depression with its accompanying unemployment.

Today, Mr. Flux inferred, England is in a much better position than would have been possible had the gold standard been continued. Prices and the cost of living have risen but little, and export has once more become profitable. It is apparent, he said, that British financiers prefer this condition to stability of the pound in relation to gold.

United States Worrying About Being War Debt "Suckers"

"Another way in which the debt question has become complicated," continued Professor Arndt, "is that Europe has succeeded in opposition to the stand of the United States in connecting the question of inter-allied debts with that of war reparations so that the United States supports reduction of German reparations she must as a result be wishing to accept the reduction or cancellation of inter-allied debts. America in her turn would like to establish a bargaining connection between the allied debts and the reduction of armaments but may not be successful in doing so."

Student Effect Slight.

"The effect of the debt question on the students," stated Professor Arndt, "will be very slight because the debt payments, if any, are stretched over such a long time that any lapse in the annual payments if it had to be made up by taxation would be very small and hardly noticeable for the individual taxpayer."

The task confronting President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt in their conference, in the opinion of Professor Arndt, is to discover some settlement of the debts which will satisfy us that we have not been cheated or duped but which will make it unnecessary for Europe to pay us any money, contradictory as it may sound.

WILL ADDRESS TEACHERS.

The teachers in the Hastings public schools will have an opportunity to hear Dr. F. E. Henzlik, dean of the teachers college, Dec.

7. Dr. Henzlik will discuss the subject, "The Fine Art of Teaching."
