PIGSKIN COMPETITION AT KEMPER FORCES OUT HUSKER TACKLE

Basketball, Track, Minor Sports Receive Cut in Squad Personnel.

Ulysses Schlueter, Fremont, who saw considerable service at a varsity tackle position this year, was declared ineligible for further competition at a meeting of Big Six conference directors at Kansas City Tuesday.

Three years at Kemper Military academy, and one year of competition at Nebraska was deemed sufficient varsity play for Schlueter by the athletic authorities. At Kemper, Schlueter played against various college elevens and this fact undoubtedly worked against the Husker gridders. Slash in squad personnel in basketball, indoor and outdoor track and in all the minor sports was announced at the conference meeting. In basketball this winter, only nine men will be allowed to compete in each game, and the rule applies to home teams as well. Indoor track teams have been limited to fifteen performers and in outdoor track to twenty. Minor sports also came in for a cut, with wrestling squads reduced to eight, swimming to nine and tennis to four.

Henry Schulte's electric clock, an innovation in varsity football games, was adopted by the member schools, thus dispensing with the field judge.

Conference representatives also approved a revision of the Nebraska football schedule which finds the Cornhuskers playing Missouri at Columbia on Nov. 4 instead of Thanksgiving day. The Pittsburgh game was switched from Nov. 4 to Nov. 18, leaving Thanksgiving and Dec. 2 dates open.

LAW-ENGINEER FEUD TO BE RENEWED BY GAME OF FOOTBALL

Suspect Law Challenge is Based on Ability of College Stars.

A renewal of the traditional law-engineer feud was in prospect Wednesday when the freshman law class, on behalf of what it said was the entire college, issued a challenge to its backyard rivals for a game of football. The engineers were expected to accept though some dissented in the idea of limiting the battle to mere football. Under the new rules, they said, football is too mild a game to determine general superiority.

was based, no doubt, on ability of some football players now enrolled there who in past seasons have graced Cornhusker teams. There are Lawrence Ely, Clark McBride, Berne Packer, Elmer Hubka, Red Young and Art Perry among them. Mike Charters made a letter as yell leader once too. The engineers claim Hubka won't be able to play because he has another year of competition and to compete would violate conference rules.

MUSIC SCHOOL GIVES OUT-STATE CONCERTS

Kirkpatrick Says Purpose to Acquaint High Schools With Endeavors.

The University School of Music, in keeping with the director's plans for future growth, is sponsoring the presentation of concerts in high schools of Nebraska, according to advices released from the school's office Wednesday.

For a nominal fee, plus transportation charge, the school is arranging to send the University School of Music orchestra, string quartet and vocal and instrumental soloists and ensembles, as well as individual recitals by the members of the faculty.

To date two such concerts have been made. Professor Kirkpatrick stated, one at Wahoo last Sunday evening, and another at Beaver Crossing Tuesday evening. A concert will be given at Holdrege Friday evening, Dec. 9.

Purpose Educational.

"The primary purpose of these trips and concerts is to acquaint the high school children of Nebraska with the University of Nebraska School of Music and to make them University of Nebraska minded," Mr. Kirkpatrick asserted, "while at the same time entertaining with good music. We hope to increase the school's prestige in the state and tell the taxpayers what the university is doing."

"The School of Music is in communication with nearly every school within a hundred mile radius from Lincoln. We hope to visit as many of these as possible."

RHODES COMMITTEE MEETS SATURDAY TO SELECT CANDIDATES

coln, Cotner college; Meredith K. dence or in the states where they are attending school, provided they Nelson, Lincoln, University of Nebraska.

Thirty-two Awarded Yearly.

Candidates for scholarships may apply either in their states of residence or in the states where they have attended for at least two years. Several applicants this year live in Nebraska, but are attending schools in other states.

Thirty-two scholarships are awarded annually thruout the entire United States, the selection being made by districts, of which there are eight with each being entitled to four Rhodes scholars. These scholars by winning the Rhodes scholarships are given two years free study at Oxford in England.

Five on Selection Committee.

The five members of the state committee on selection include: J. E. Miller of Lincoln, chairman; H. A. Gunderson, Fremont, secretary; Paul Good, Lincoln; Robert B. Lasch, Omaha; and Ralph T. Wilson, Omaha. The qualities considered by the committee in making the selections deal with the all around worth and ability of the student. Among these are literary and scholastic ability, general qualities of good manhood, exhibition of moral force of character, and physical vigor. Thus, distinction in character, personality and intellect will be considered as the most important requirements for a Rhodes scholarship.

Nebraska university was unrepresented in the selections made in 1931 from this district. Price Heusner, York, a student at Swarthmore college, was one of the two chosen from this district. John Pirie, a University of Nebraska graduate, completes his work at Oxford this year and Ervin Schimmelpfennig, also of Nebraska university, was a Rhodes scholar from this university the previous year.

COACH BROWNE CUTS VARSITY CAGE TEAM TO SEVENTEEN MEN

Mason, Henrion, Boswell, Lunney and Belka on First Lineup.

Seventeen cagemen remained on the varsity basketball squad following the first cut of the season announced Wednesday by Coach W. H. Browne. The Nebraska mentor declared that a second paring would occur later in the week.

Browne's first team Wednesday included Lunney and Boswell, forwards; Henrion, center; Mason and Belka, guards, while a second quintet had Parsons and Wahlquist at the forwards; Eno, center; Pailing and Delaney, guards.

A long drill on teaming the ball down the floor occupied much of the session, topped off with a scrimmage between the frosh and varsity. The Huskers had little trouble penetrating the freshman defense, with Henrion, Mason, and Belka looking especially good.

Boswell Serves Notice.

Hub Boswell gave notice Wednesday that he must be considered a serious bidder for one of the forward positions, the Ravenna boy performing in fine style.

Steve Hokuf and George Sauer took part in the workout, but their activities were limited to a few minutes in scrimmage. After additional practice, this pair should be playing in their accustomed form. Hokuf will be with the squad for the Arkansas game Dec. 16, since he leaves with Ely for the East-West game until Dec. 18 or 19.

The sophomores, Belka, Crete and Parsons, former Jackson high school star are likely to see plenty of service at guard and forward, respectively, if they continue the fast pace they have established. Belka has been suffering from a bad cold, but it has not diminished his effectiveness. Parsons is a clever forward and has the height and speed to carry him far.

John Delaney, David City, Keith Eno, Lincoln, and Walter Pailing, Lincoln, are three more sophomores who have been working together on the second lineup.

The seventeen men listed on the Husker varsity are:

Forwards: Forrest Bauer, Hubert Boswell, Kenneth Lunney, Lloyd Long, Bud Parsons, George Wahlquist, Charles Wil-

Hams. Centers: Walter Henrion, Keith Eno, Leonard Copple. Guards: Paul Mason, Steve Hokuf, George Sauer, John Delaney, Walter Pailing, Glen LeDoyt, Robert Belka.

6 FRESHMEN COMPETE FOR LONG DEBATE CUP which begins Monday, Jan. 30.

A year ago some 300 couples attended the Interfraternity ball which was at that time held in the Cornhusker hotel. No plans have yet been made as to the location of the event.

Norman Galleher was chairman of last year's Interfraternity ball committee. Members associated with him on the committee were John Zeilinger, decorations; Chalmers Graham, entertainment; Jack Thompson, tickets; Charles Skade, music; Howard Allaway, publicity; and James Crabill, chap-erones and invitations.
