SENNING WILL HEAD POLITICAL SCIENCE STATE CONVENTION

Instructors Plan Discussing Subject for Nebraska High Schools.

Presiding over the convention of political science instructors at the Hotel Cornhusker Friday and Saturday, December 9 and 10 will be Dr. J. P. Senning, head of the department of political science at the University of Nebraska. The theme of the conventions is political education in secondary schools of Nebraska.

Principals from high schools, junior high schools and political science professors from teachers' colleges will discuss the importance of the study of political science in such schools.

"The Significance of the Study of Government as a Basis of Civic Training" is to be the subject of John M. Gans, of the University of Wisconsin, at the conference dinner Friday presided over by Dr. Senning. Following this Prof. A. A. Reed, director of university extension division will speak on "Teachers of Civics in Nebraska Schools—Their Background and Training."

Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, of the state department of public instruction; Allen P. Burkhardt, Norfolk; L. J. Masters, Omaha; E. W. Smith, Red Cloud; and A. H. Staley, Hastings, will head the discussion.

Saturday Prof. J. G. W. Lewis, teachers college, will head the program with a talk on "Training of the Civics Teacher." Next Dr. Glenn Callen of Wesleyan will speak on "Civics Texts in Secondary Schools." "The Place of Government in High Schools" will be discussed by Prof. Earl W. Crecraft, University of Akron, O., who is the political editor of the magazine of the American Political Science association.

STUDENT DISCOVERS SLEEPING QUARTERS IN SOCIAL SCIENCES

New sleeping quarters for university men have been discovered in Social Science. Some tired fellow finds it convenient to take his morning nap on the bench between the second and third floors of "sosh." He sleeps peacefully as students dash up and down stairs between classes.

Several times he has been awakened by some curious invader but this never seems to interrupt his slumbers. He satisfies the intruder's curiosity—turns over and goes back to his dreams. It has been suggested that he get a job demonstrating mattresses if he can sleep so well in public. Instructors suggest it might be a good idea if more students would try stretching out on some of these unoccupied benches and snatch a few winks before stumbling to classes. Then they would not be bothered with so much noisy snoring in classes if this plan were followed by more students. If you happen to see this fellow leisurely taking his morning nap at "sosh," don't bother him—maybe he really can use the sleep. It isn't a publicity stunt!

PLAYERS TRIAL DATE NEARS

Department Seeks New Talent from Student Body Thursday.

With the date of the tryouts for University Players less than a week away, the department is looking forward to the discovery of much hitherto unknown acting ability in the student body.

The tryouts, to be held next Thursday, Dec. 15, are open to all men students of the university. Each man desiring to try out must give an impersonation of a character from some play, or he may, if he so desires, join with two or three others and present a scene from some play.

Miss H. Alice Howell, of the dramatics department, requested that all men interested report to room 153 in the Temple building before the date of the tryouts.

DEAN SAYS NEBRASKA STUDENTS ARE NAIVE

Knife and Fork Club Is Addressed by Thompson On University.

University of Nebraska students compare quite favorably with the students in other similar institutions, Dean T. J. Thompson said Thursday when he addressed the Knife and Fork club on the university and its educational system. Students here, according to Thompson, are more naive, rather than sophisticated as they are found in many eastern schools.

Among the important points of his discussion was the housing of students, the faculty, and the elective system used. He considered the first two mentioned points as highly important. Allowing the student to try the different colleges to decide for themselves where they want to go, he said, is a desirable plan.

ORCHESTRA AT PARTY DRAWS LARGE CROWD

Final Arrangements for Event Completed Wednesday.

With an orchestra which has received the highest recommendations of any that has even played for an All-University party and led by a director, Eli Rice, who is known as "the greatest living colored tenor," the Saturday night All-University party promises to pack the coliseum.

Final arrangements for the party were completed Wednesday evening, according to word given out by Jack Coupland, chairman of the committee in charge. Decorations are to be in red and green, with the Christmas theme carried out as much as possible.

Crepe paper streamers in alternating colors will hang from the ceiling and converge into a large star in the center of the building; green lights will play intermittently upon the dancers; and artificial snow will be utilized in adding to the seasonal effect.

The orchestra is to be seated within a mammoth fourteen by sixteen foot fireplace to be constructed on the stage. A special amplifying system will be in use, and the music will be broadcasted over radio station KFAE.

NEBULA OBSERVATORY VIEW

Prof. O. C. Collins Will Show Visitors Large Orion Friday Evening.

Providing the sky is clear, visitors at the University observatory Friday evening will be shown telescopic views of the great nebula of Orion, according to Prof. O. C. Collins, director of the observatory. The nebula Orion is the largest of all nebulae, being irregular in form and located in the sword hilt of Orion. The observatory will be open from 8 until 10 o'clock for the general public and the nebula will be visible shortly after 8:30.

Annual Cornhusker Costume Party to Present Stars, Mammies and Pirates

Movie stars, negro mammies, and pirates will be among those present Friday night at the Cornhusker costume party, annual fancy dress affair for all university women sponsored by A. W. S. board.

One of the celluloid notables will be Charlie Chaplin, impersonated by La Verle Herman. Marie Dressler, Polly Moran, and Laurel and Hardy will be presented by other Gamma Phi Beta's. Another favorite of the film colony, Groucho Marx, will be Annie Bunting in disguise.

Breda Peterson, costumed as a negro mammy, will have in her charge two young children, a boy and a girl, who in every day life are Jane Axtell and Alice Quigle. Other infants in the crowd will be the members of the Alpha Phi trio, costumed in fluffy little frocks of pastel organdy, with big hair bows to match.

A very devilish devil you'll see will only be Margaret Carpenter, so don't run. The pirates shouldn't cause any fright either, as they

STUDENT COUNCIL TO INVESTIGATE TAX BY MAIL QUESTIONNAIRE

Alloway Will Send Inquiry About Activity Plan At Other Schools.

Questionnaires will be mailed to representative schools throughout the country to discover the success of a blanket activity tax plan used in those schools, according to Howard G. Alloway, chairman of the Student Council investigation committee.

The action was approved by the Student Council in meeting Wednesday afternoon after consideration of the adoption of such a tax at the University of Nebraska.

Alloway stated that the plan used by many schools was one whereby each student is taxed, that is, he buys a season ticket and year's subscription to all school functions and publications. The council expects to get information which will aid it in deciding the advisability of a blanket tax at Nebraska from the questionnaires. They will include such questions as:

1. Does your school use the blanket tax plan or any modification of that plan for financing extra-curricular organizations? If not:

1. Has there been any consideration of the plan?
2. If so, what obstacles were advanced against its adoption? If so:

1. What is the amount of the tax per quarter, semester or year?
2. By what method is the tax collected?
3. Itemize the distribution of revenue according to beneficiaries.

4. How long has the plan been in effect? In the opinion of those acquainted with its operation, has it proved successful?
5. How does the lump sum compare with the former individual ticket and subscription prices previously charged?

6. What has been the effect on the gross revenue of the beneficiaries encompassed in the plan?
7. If compulsory, are exemptions granted and when?

Sig Alpha-Phi Gam Field Day Features Egg Fight

With both teams in tip-top shape, tense for the struggle, the final moments before the annual rotten egg battle between Phi Gamma Delta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon are at hand. The teams will be made up entirely of freshmen from each house, and the battle will be a feature of the annual field day between the two fraternities Saturday afternoon at the stadium field.

Two Days Remain for File Of Tuition Scholarships

With only today and tomorrow remaining before filings close, many applications for tuition scholarship are still to be turned in, it was announced yesterday afternoon. All applications are being filed with heads of colleges.

Committees have been selected in each college to consider these applications and make final awards. Tuitions will be given on the basis of financial need and scholastic record.

CORNHUSKER EDITOR URGES PICTURES BE TAKEN BY SATURDAY

Photographers Report Many Appointments Made For Week-End.

Issuing his last appeal to the university students to get their pictures taken, R. W. Spencer, editor of the Cornhusker, yesterday made a final request that those who have not yet had their pictures taken for the 1933 book arrange to do so today or tomorrow.

According to reports from the studios they have more appointments for Saturday than can be taken care of, even with additional help. "The only solution is to have pictures taken today instead," the editor asserted.

Because the photographers will be too busy with their regular Christmas rush to take care of Cornhusker pictures they have set the deadline for Saturday, Dec. 10, after which junior, senior, fraternity and sorority pictures will not be taken.

"The 1933 Cornhusker wants your pictures in the new book and we believe that you want to be included too. Get them taken today or the last day's rush may make it impossible for you to be represented in Nebraska's annual," Spencer urged.

FEDDE STATES RUSSIA AIMS

Professor Says Country Plans to Educate Children, Convert Adults.

"Russia has three objectives," stated Prof. Margaret Fedde of the home economics department in an address before the Lions club Thursday evening. "The first is to educate the children into society so as to be able to take charge of the government in a relatively short time. Because of this few people over thirty-five have important positions. The second is to convert all adults to communism and the third is to preserve all the cultures of their seventy different nationalities."

Professor Fedde's six weeks observation tour covered 5,000 miles. She found that the educational program in Russia is not confined to schools but includes the press, the theater, the radio, parks, factories, prisons, in fact "anything that can be used to educate the people to communism."

Law College Challenge Unheard by Engineers

Upon inquiry Thursday afternoon the members of the engineering college stated they had heard nothing from the lawyers in regard to a football game between the two colleges. The freshmen law class Wednesday stated it had issued a challenge to the engineers for a game of football.

"That's all 'bull,'" said Dean Foster of the Law college, when asked about the proposed game.

Mrs. Green Will Speak At Commission Meeting

Mrs. Olive Green of the Y. W. C. A. advisory board will speak on "Friends" and "The Ideal Husband" at the meeting of the Sophomore Commission next Wednesday night at five o'clock in Ellen Smith hall.

ISADORE HILL WINS FROSH DEBATE AND GETS LONG TROPHY

Two First Year Men Argue Installment Plan Question.

Isadore Irving Hill, Lincoln, won the Long cup in the contest held Thursday evening in Andrews hall. Eugene Pester, also of Lincoln, secured honorable mention. There were no other contestants.

The question for the debate was Resolved: That installment buying is detrimental to the American people. The judges were Bernard Gradwohl, Nebraska '23, Everett M. Hunt, Nebr. '30, Floyd E. Leavitt, Nebr. '24. All were former debaters.

Mr. Hill, Sigma Alpha Mu, was a member of the state championship team from Lincoln high school in 1932. This team went to the quarter-finals in the national contest. Hill is a pre-law student in the Arts and Science college.

Professor H. A. White, debate coach, presided.

BAPTISTS TO HOLD SERVICE

Students Will Hear Dr. J. C. Cooper and Orchestra Sunday Evening.

Baptists will hold a union service Sunday evening at 6 o'clock so that all students may hear Dr. J. C. Cooper, who is here for the week end.

Kenneth Eaton's commission will have charge of the social hour, and Glenn Melson will have charge of the games.

At the 6:30 meeting Dr. Cooper will speak. Devotions will be led by Myron Jenkins and the First Baptist orchestra will play with Karl Stuermer singing. Kenneth Eaton will preside.

The Young People will also have charge of the church service which will be held at 7:45. Vaughn Shaner will preside over the service.

Special music will be furnished by the orchestra and the girls sextette composed of Ruth Randall, Naomi Randall, Marjorie Compton, Velma James, Evelyn Whitnah, Gertrude Hemphill.

June Elrod will lead the devotionals.

TEACHERS APPROVE GROUPS

Instructors Urge Attendance At Vocational Guidance Organization.

Women students of the university are being urged by instructors to attend the special vocational guidance group meetings sponsored by the A. W. S. board.

Several instructors have read the announcement in the Daily Nebraskan concerning the guidance pamphlets and vocation books to their classes, and suggested that students avail themselves of this opportunity to gain a little insight into special vocations.

Miss Annie Miller, Nebraska journalist and former employee of the State Journal, will speak at the next group meeting, Monday. Her topic is "Journalism as a Vocation for Women". All women students are invited to attend.
