ANNE MILLER TALKS TO VOCATION GROUP

Former Newspaper Worker Considers Journalism as Life's Work.

Miss Annie Miller, former staff member of The State Journal, spoke on "Journalism as a Vocation for Women" at a vocational guidance group meeting at Ellen Smith hall Monday, Dec. 12. Miss Miller recommended reporting on the Daily Nebraskan as practical experience for anyone interested in a journalistic career. Variety of work is one of the charms of newspaper work.

A reporter runs into many human interest stories and establishes confidential relations with many people. Salaries for newspaper work are not as high as paid to city school teachers but work is more interesting, she declared. Miss Miller praised Willa Cather for her work as a newspaper correspondent and also her literary career.

UNIVERSITY PREPARED LESSON SERIES SUPPLIES INFORMATION TO TAXPAYERS

In addition to the work of these seven men, aid was received from C. L. Dietz, Broken Bow, master of the Nebraska State Grange; Will Ferguson, Hartington, secretary-treasurer of the Nebraska Federation of County Taxpayers' leagues; W. B. Hughes, Omaha, secretary of the Nebraska Bankers' association; H. G. Keeney, Omaha, president of the Nebraska Farmers' Educational and Co-operative State Union; J. D. Ream, Broken Bow, former master of the State Grange; E. B. Stephenson, Lincoln, president of the Nebraska Public Efficiency and Economy association; and C. B. Steward, Lincoln, secretary of the Nebraska Farm Bureau federation.

Subjects.
The chapters of this tax primer take up the following subjects in their consecutive order: The public expenditures; public revenues, their forms and character; the revenue system, the federal revenues; the revenue system, the state revenues with special reference to Nebraska; the general property tax; the intangible property tax; exemptions; the sales tax; the income tax; the franchise tax; the relative burden of taxes; and tax administration.

Dr. Virtue, a recognized authority on economic subjects, came to the University of Nebraska in 1909 as professor of political economy. In 1925 he was made chairman of the newly created department of economics. During his term of service at the state university he has done special work for the Census Bureau, the Federal Trade Commission, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the U. S. Shipping Board. During 1913-14 he served on Governor Morehead's commission on revenue and taxation and took an active part in the preparation of its report.

FUND FOR PERMANENT DECORATION REACHES $850, ERICKSON SAYS.

(Continued from Page 1.) coliseum into a slightly ballroom with perfect acoustics, but also to effect economies in the long run for those various organizations who from time to time use the building for social purposes and are forced to spend amounts varying between $25 and $250 for a single decoration of it."

Amounts pledged to the fund to date are as follows:
 Innocents society $250.
 1931-32 Prom committee .. 300.
 Military department 300.

The contribution from the military department was announced by Col. W. H. Oury and the money is to be given from proceeds of the Military ball. The donation from the Prom committee is the total proceeds of the Junior-Senior prom given last spring. This amount approximates $300. The Innocents' donation will be taken from the proceeds of the second annual homecoming party which was given this fall.

"All other campus organizations are to be contacted in order to make the permanent decorations fund the joint endeavor of all extra-curricular groups with the purpose in mind of pooling their efforts in order to make a lasting contribution to the University of Nebraska," Erickson concluded.

Instructor Publishes Bulletin About Rain

W. A. Rockie, former geography instructor at the University of Nebraska, has recently published a bulletin on the erosive effects of heavy summer rains in southwest Washington. Mr. Rockie is now superintendent of the government Pacific Northwest Soil Erosion Experiment Station, located near Pullman, Washington.

A man who gave his name as Henry S. Fitch, forty-five, this week had been placed under arrest here, charged with having sold scholarships claimed to be good at the University of Pennsylvania and Temple university.

INSTRUCTOR'S 'HILDA' APPEARS IN DISPLAY

World Herald Reproduces Paintings From Art Exhibit.

"Hilda," a portrait by Louise Austin, drawing and painting instructor in the School of Fine Arts, which is ranked high among portraits at the "Nebraska and Iowa Artist's Exhibit" in Jocelyn Memorial, was reproduced in the rotogravure section of the Omaha World Herald, Sunday, Dec. 11. The same paper carried reproductions of photographic copies of "May Day—Nebraska" by Gladys Marie Lux, head of the art department of Wesleyan university, and "Nebraska Farmard," a painting by William L. Younkin, architectural supervisor of the Nebraska state capitol.

Some of the works of Dwight Kirsch and Kady B. Faulkner, of the University of Nebraska School of Fine Arts, have also been hung at this interesting exhibit. "Miriam," a portrait of Miss Wagner, physical education department, was submitted by Miss Faulkner; and "Lunacy," a landscape by Mr. Kirsch, and two of his water colors were accepted.

Debate League Plans for Reorganization at Meeting

The annual meeting of the Nebraska High School Debating League was held Friday Dec. 9 on the University campus. Prof. H. A. White, president of the league, presided at the meeting.

The membership fee for schools which join the league was lowered from $5 to $3 to take effect next fall. The meeting also decided that the extension division of the University of Nebraska should continue to act as the clearing house for the league and the publisher of its official bulletins.

A reorganization of districts was authorized by the meeting to suit the convenience of schools that would find a reorganization of districts advantageous.
