Schulte Gives Chalk Talk; Pictures of Varsity Games Shown.

The Nebraska gridsters were the guests of honor at a banquet at the Omaha chamber of commerce last night which was sponsored by the Douglas county Alumni association. The coaching staffs of the University of Nebraska, the University of Omaha and Creighton university were also special guests at the dinner.

Ray Ramsey, "the old Maestro" was to have presided at the festivities but was not able to attend because of illness. Coach "Indian" Henry F. Schulte gave a chalk talk on the locker room. Pictures of Nebraska games this fall were shown and the climax of the program was reached when Laurence Ely was interviewed by Harold Hutchinson, a pivotman on past Nebraska teams.

A football autographed by all the Nebraska players was awarded as a door prize. The members of the Nebraska team sat one at a table to permit the other guests to become better acquainted with them. Most of the football players of the Omaha senior high schools attended the dinner.

297 Students Crowd Into Picture Studios Saturday

Nearly three hundred students answered the last minute call for Cornhusker pictures Saturday. Between nine in the morning and five in the afternoon the Hauck and Townsend studios were crowded with students.

In spite of repeated appeals sent out by Ralph Spencer, editor of the 1933 Cornhusker, a great many students waited to have pictures taken till the last day. A large thermometer in the Cornhusker office records the total of pictures taken. Saturday's record gave the temperature a big rise.

An accurate check up of Saturday's totals revealed a total of 297 sittings, each with three exposures.

A long chalk talk followed by an hour's workout with Coach John Waldorf's Wesleyan five made up Wednesday afternoon's cage practice for the Varsity basketballers. Since this was the last extensive practice preceding the Razorback game it was a tough workout.

The Huskers tried both their defensive and offensive skill against the Coyotes. The play was still somewhat ragged but from time to time flashes of offensive skill were shown and on the defense the Scarlet five held the suburbanites well in check.
