

PROFESSOR CONDUCTS SURVEY OF PRINCIPALS

Koch Considers Position in Place of Overcrowded Superintendencies.

Dr. H. C. Koch, professor of secondary education, has been conducting a research project for the past year and a half on the feasibility of interesting more young men in high school principalships as a permanent office in their occupation.

The first phase of the project directed inquiries to superintendents in representative cities of 15,000 or more population. The second phase directed some fundamental inquiries to principals in the same cities, about 1,000 high school principals in all. The third phase of the project is directed to the leading college of education in the country.

Dr. Koch hopes to secure as nearly exact data as possible in this work and believes that some direct benefits may be derived from the research and added to the training of high school principals.

One of the reasons, state Dr. Koch, for doing the research is that the field is being overcrowded by young men aspiring to superintendencies and overlooking the principalships.

Before beginning the project, Dr. Koch conferred with such representative men in the field as Dr. George Carrothers, University of Michigan; Dr. Fred W. Morrison, University of North Carolina; Prof. Paul W. Perry, University of Alabama, and others, who concurred with the idea and encouraged him to undertake the research. He expects the project to require about two more years before it is completed.

'B' TEAM TRIMS LUTHER

Hartley and Walker Star In 38 to 26 Victory At Wahoo.

WAHOO, Neb.—Luther college fell before a powerful University of Nebraska "B" team here Saturday night by the score of 38 to 26. It was the second victory of the season for the Huskers.

Nebraska slipped into the lead in the first six minutes of play and was never headed. Hartley and Walker were the mainstays in the Nebraska attack, scoring fourteen and twelve points respectively, while Anderson appeared to best advantage for Luther.

liance. The Crete athlete played a top-notch floor game, was high score man for the home aggregation with eight counters, and played a tenacious defensive game. On the Razorback quintet the outstanding performers were Sexton, who copped high point honors with an eighteen point total, Capt. Bruce Kendall, who was runnerup in this department with thirteen tallies for the evening, and Sub-captain Tom Murphy, stocky guard, who was the spark plug of the offense as well as the outstanding defensive player on the floor.

Last night the Arkansas team mixed with Creighton on the Bluejays court in Omaha, and Monday evening is due to play the South Dakota Coyotes in Vermillion.

'MESSIAH' ORATORIO WILL BE PRESENTED AT COLISEUM TODAY

Baso—Why do the nations so furiously rage together.
The Resurrection.
Soprano—I know that my Redeemer Liveth.
Chorus—Hallelujah! The Lord God Omnipotent reigneth.

Soloists will include Miss Velma Lyon, Kansas City, soprano, Kathryn Dean, Lincoln, contralto; Charles Hedley, New York City, tenor, and Carl Nelson, Chicago, basso. These vocalists appear in Lincoln with established reputations in their musical world. Miss Dean graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1928, and is at present a graduate student on the campus.

Kirkpatrick to Direct.
Professor Howard Kirkpatrick, director of the School of Music, will direct. The 1932 presentation of the "Messiah" will mark Mr. Kirkpatrick's sixth yearly conductorship of the oratorio on the Nebraska campus.

The Choral Union has 277 members on its roster, one-half being students from the campus, the remainder singers from the city. The union will be augmented by the College of Agriculture chorus, directed by Mrs. Althina Tullis. The Lincoln Symphony orchestra, with membership of approximately sixty, will accompany the soloists and chorus.

Station KFAB has been granted permission to broadcast the oratorio in its entirety; going on the air at 3 o'clock. The weekly 3 o'clock feature of the station, the New York Philharmonic orchestra from the Columbia chain, will be cancelled.

First at Coliseum.

This is the first presentation of the oratorio in the coliseum, former presentations being in Grant Memorial hall. The latter hall's inadequate seating capacity necessitated the shift to the field house.

The origin and composition of the "Messiah" has an interesting history. Handel, in desperation, turned to this type of composition after many failures in the opera field. He was fifty-six years of age at the time of its origin, and had suffered great financial reverses.

In this state of affairs he was invited by the Duke of Devonshire, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, to present a series of musical entertainments in Dublin. It is in this city that Handel composed the "Messiah" in the incredible brief space of twenty-two days. The year was work was in Dublin, April 13, 1741.

The first presentation of the 1742, and proceeds went to the relief of prisoners of Dublin's jails. The hall had a capacity of only 600, and ladies were requested to come hatless and the gentlemen without swords.

Handel is supreme in choral compositions, and his work of this type remains unapproachable to the present day. His oratorios do not recognize custom and time, but are as effective and compelling today as the time of their origin.

LACKEY TO ADDRESS GEOGRAPHY COUNCIL

Nebraska Professor Will Spend Vacation in Eastern Cities.

Earl E. Lackey, associate professor of geography at the University of Nebraska, has been scheduled to speak at the annual meeting of the National Council of Geography Teachers.

The meeting will be held at the Shoreham hotel in Washington, D. C., on Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 26-27. Prof. Lackey's subject is "A Method of Selecting and Evaluating Materials for a Course in Introductory Geography for Teacher's College Students."

Prof. Lackey declared that business interests would take him to New York city for the week of Dec. 19, where he would also visit his son, who is a student in Columbia university.

The Nebraska professor is secretary of the national geography teachers' council, and his subject is the result of research conducted at Nebraska. He expects to arrive home about New Year's day.
