BRYAN WILL PRESENT STATE EXPENSES TO LEGISLATURE FRIDAY

Reports Say Governor Has "Taken Ample Care" of Nebraska U.

By Cliff F. Sandahl.
Nebraskan Editor 1929-30.

The forty-ninth session of the Nebraska state legislature is now under way. Organization of the senate, composed of thirty-three members, and the house, with its 100 members, is now complete and the two branches are ready to begin work.

Of interest to the University of Nebraska are two matters:

1. Governor Charles W. Bryan will present Friday at a joint session through his budget director, William H. Smith, itemized recommendations for the operation of the state government and its departments for the next two years, including maintenance and operation of the University of Nebraska.

2. Consolidation of state library at the university was recommended by the governor in his inaugural message delivered at a joint legislative session Thursday.

Regarding the latter, Governor Bryan had this to say in his message:

"It is recommended that the public library commission, for which an appropriation of $19,200 was made in 1931, be abolished and the activity be administered by the state university library management."

What the executive will suggest as far as the university is concerned will not be known, of course, until Friday, but it is understood in legislative circles that "he will take ample care of the university."

Upon receipt of the budget Friday, the house of representatives is expected to begin at once to work out the financial program. The budget will be referred to the all-powerful finance committee, which was organized Thursday.

Representative Frank S. Wells of Fairbury is chairman of the house finance group and the following are members:

Representatives George E. Nickles, Murray; Fred D. Maclay, Auburn; Vincent J. Lowery and Jackson B. Chase, Omaha; Frank J. Kloppe, Wayne; J. I. Slaymaker, Oakdale; Emil Anderson, Minden; C. S. Hawk, Chadron; P. M. LaVelle, North Platte, and Obed Raasch, Norfolk. Of these Representatives Chase and Raasch are the only republicans and Representatives Wells and Anderson are the only members who served in the same capacity at the last term.

"I look for early action on the budget," declared Chairman Wells. The fiscal year of the state, including the university, ends June 30, 1933.

Prospects of an unusually large number of play entries from which to select the annual Kosmet Klub spring show are in view, it was announced recently by Jack Thompson, president of the Klub. The deadline for submitting manuscripts is Monday, Jan. 9.

"Several students and individuals connected with the university intend to submit plays," Thompson declared. "As soon as all entries have been received, a faculty and student committee will be named to select the play for the spring show."

Do You Have Spiders? Collins Can Use Them

Do you have a spider in your home? If you have, bring it to the observatory and Prof. O. C. Collins will put it to work for the astronomy department and tender you his thanks.

Spider webs, it seems, are used inside of telescopes to facilitate measurement of distances between stars, the web being stretched across the inside of the instrument so that it cuts across the field of vision.

Prof. Collins announced that the observatory would be open to the public Saturday evenings.

PLAYERS TO PRESENT SHOW IN WEEK'S RUN

University Actors to Give "The First Mrs. Fraser" Starting Monday.

"The First Mrs. Fraser," a three-act comedy drama by Sir John Ervine will be the next production of the University Players in the Temple theater, the week of January 9 to 14.

An English drawing room comedy, "The First Mrs. Fraser," is the story of the divorced wife of John Fraser, a rich Scotchman. Suspecting his wife of infidelity and at the same time, filled with ennui, he obtains a divorce and marries a younger, prettier woman, a girl of 21. After a little of married life, she becomes tired of her husband and also sues for divorce. Complications arise.

A satirical representation of the younger generation, "The First Mrs. Fraser" shows much of the intellect and cleverness of its author, Sir John Ervine, eminent British critic and playwright.

PLANS ARE COMPLETED FOR FRATERNITY BALL

Kansas Basketball Date Is Shifted for Coliseum Formal Party.

Final arrangements for securing the coliseum Saturday, Feb. 4 for the annual Interfraternity ball, temporarily delayed by a basketball game scheduled for that night in the field house, were completed during vacation, it was announced yesterday by Byron Goulding, chairman of the committee in charge of the ball.

The game, scheduled with the University of Kansas, has been advanced to the previous evening, Goulding told members of the committee at the meeting yesterday. Tentative plans previously drawn up for decoration of the field house for the ball will be used, according to John Gepson, in charge of decorations.

Tickets for the affair will be printed immediately and distributed to members of the Interfraternity council at the next meeting of that organization. Otto Kotouc, committee member in charge of tickets, announced yesterday.

Final negotiations for signing the orchestra to play for the ball will be completed within a very short time, and definite announcement will be made as soon as possible, it was announced by Robert Pilling.

which closed at the agricultural college Thursday afternoon. Attendance records, officials said, were broken both for the individual sessions and for the "fun feed" held Wednesday evening.

George Jackson, secretary of the state fair board which sponsors the Organized Agriculture meetings each year, expressed himself well pleased with the outcome of the week. Likewise W. H. Brokaw, director of agricultural extension, declared the week to be one of the best ever held at the college.

Practically every farm organization in the state held its meetings on the college campus during the week. Each program was built around the economic problems confronting the different organizations. Increased interest and attendance was noted at each meeting.

Prominent Men Speak.

E. A. O'Neal, president of the American farm bureau federation; Chris L. Christensen, dean of the Wisconsin college of agriculture and former Nebraskan; and George E. Farrell, in charge of regional extension work appeared as the chief speakers on the general session programs held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

In his talk about farm problems, O'Neal urged Nebraska farmers to get organized in order to help their industry. Other industries are well organized and the federal government will not be able to help the farmer effectively, until his wants are known, he declared. In addition O'Neal charged the Nebraska farmers with being lax in organization. He spoke highly of President-elect Roosevelt who, he said, has pledged himself to farm relief support.

"Farmers generally over the country should get behind the domestic allotment bill as being brought up before congress now," O'Neal declared in his talk. "The
