STATE SENATORS TAKE ISSUE WITH EDITORIAL VIEWS

Neubauer Thinks Students Have Wrong Idea Of Senate.

By Cliff Sandahl.

Nebraska state senators, instigators of the "movement to investigate" the University of Nebraska, Wednesday took issue with the view stated editorially in the Wednesday issue of The Daily Nebraskan to the effect that the legislature and the people of Nebraska may not get "their money's worth from such alarms and excursions."

The sentiment of the senate was expressed by Senator E. M. Neubauer, democrat, Orleans, author of the resolution asking for the investigation and consequently the chairman of the committee to carry out the wishes of the legislative body.

"I think the students have the wrong idea about us," Senator Neubauer said. "We aren't trying to pry into their affairs nor do we want to cripple the university. That would be the last thing I would think of with regard to the school."

"Entitled To It."

"What I want to do and what the senate wants is to get a fair and thorough examination or investigation of the university, especially regarding expenditures. We want it and we are entitled to it."

The inference that such an investigation might not be economical, as brought out in the editorial, the senator stated, "is unfair and not true." The main purpose of the examination would be to try to find further possible economies in the university's administration, particularly the elimination of duplications.

"The people in the state are asking more about the university than any other subdivision or institution in Nebraska," Senator Neubauer asserted. "They want to know what is being done with the 30 percent of the total tax money of the state that is given to the operation and maintenance of the university."

"The university is a part of the home. If you destroy the home there will be no university; hence we must keep our people from losing their homes first of all. This can only be done through strict economy."

Senator Neubauer said he is not certain when the committee will begin to function.

FAREWELL.

The Nebraskan is almost ready to go to press for the last time under our guidance. Tomorrow we plunge into final examinations and shut the book on our careers as managing editors. But before we do that, we want to take this means of expressing our thanks for the tolerance with which our efforts have been received.

To the staff which has worked with us, we want to express appreciation for their co-operation, and a hope that they—our successors—enjoy their work as much as we have.

There have been a variety of shifting conditions attendant upon reign "on the desk," and a good bit of work, and some disillusion. But it's been great, all of it. Good-bye!

COUNCIL OKEHS PROFIT FOR Y. W. BOOKSHOP

Votes Down Motion to Cut Margin Lower After Lengthy Debate.

Approval of the 20 percent margin of profit which the Y. W. C. A. has asked for its services in operating the student book exchange was given by the Student Council at its meeting Wednesday afternoon. The council voted down a motion to limit the profit to 17 percent after a long discussion as to the reason for asking 20 percent.

The council at its last meeting requested the Y. W. C. A. to submit a statement of its plans for operation to enable the council to determine whether the 20 percent proposed was justified. Ruth Cherney presented the statement to the council, and the request was approved.

Council members in the discussion emphasized the fact that until the organization had experimented with the book exchange it would be difficult to determine exactly what charge was justified. Several members of the council objected to the 20 percent profit, favoring instead a 10 percent margin. The exchange, they asserted, should be operated solely on the principle of providing a service for the student body.

Report on Forum.

Final plans were approved for the first student forum meeting with Kirby Page as speaker to be held on Jan. 25. Reginald Porter, representing the council on the forum commission distributed tickets to council members and announced that tickets would be on sale in the halls of various campus buildings for several days preceding the meeting.

The recommendation of John Gepson, appointed to investigate the best available date for the Junior Senior prom, was accepted, the date being moved from March 4, as originally scheduled in the university calendar to March 10. The fact that a basketball game is scheduled in the coliseum on the night of March 4 necessitated changing the date.

A motion was passed that a committee be appointed by the president to draw up a tentative calendar of student events for next year so that conflicts in the scheduling of basketball games and other events in the coliseum could be avoided.

ARTICLE ON BARBOUR APPEARS IN ALUMNUS

January Issue of Magazine Will Be in Mails by Friday, Jan. 20.

A biographical sketch of Prof. Erwin H. Barbour by Prof. E. F. Schramm is the feature of the January Alumnus that will be in the mail Friday, Jan. 20. The issue also carries an article by Chancellor E. A. Burnett on the financial problems of the university for the next two years.

The biography of Dr. Barbour tells of his contributions to the university since he first came here in 1891. Dr. Barbour has collected a group of specimens in the museum that has elicited the praise of Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborne, president of the American Museum of Natural History.

Dr. Barbour is presented as a friend and co-worker by James L. Clark, sculptor, naturalist and explorer of international fame. Mr. Clark was engaged in mounting the elephants of the Adam Brede collection in Morrill hall. Mr. Clark says that the energy and vision shown in the expansion of the museum are in a great degree the works of Dr. Barbour.

Discusses Finances.

In his article on "University Retrenchment" Chancellor Burnett gives the data on the reduction in the university appropriation that has been suggested by Governor Bryan. The Chancellor also outlines the policies that will be pursued by the university so that the appropriation cut will not be an undue hardship.

Reminiscences of Prof. Laurence Fossler, written by Chancellor Burnett, Dean Charles H. Oldfather and Dean James E. LeRosignol, are contained in this issue. The prevailing note in the stories by his colleagues is the great loss the university feels on the death of
