

HENRION RETURNS TO TEAM AFTER LAYOFF

Sauer at Center Post While Kansan Is Out With an Ankle Injury.

Walt Henrion, whose ankle injury had forced him to take things easy in previous workouts this week was an active participant in Wednesday's drill. He was at center on a combination that found Hub Boswell and Bud Parsons at forwards, Steve Hokuf and George Sauer at guards.

The varsity exhibited a fine floor game and good shooting in the session, lining up against the frosh first in a drill on fundamentals which was later topped off with two fifteen-minute scrimmage periods. George Sauer replaced Henrion at center at the start of the second scrimmage, with Paul Mason and Bob Belka alternating at his vacated guard position.

Belka, Crete sophomore, has been improving at a rapid pace, and it is expected that he will see action against Iowa State, when the Cyclones come to Lincoln Jan. 30 for the first game of the second semester. The squad is idle both this week and next on account of semester examinations.

The PRESS BOX
by Joe Miller

Again I bid goodbye in this column, but this time it is final and complete. It has given me no end of pleasure in writing the "Press-box" and editing the sports page of the Daily Nebraskan. I hope you have enjoyed it.

Although a serious drop in advertising revenue forced the Nebraskan to reduce the paper in size, the sports staff has attempted to cover adequately all athletic news on the campus. Stories were "teled down" and cut to about half their former length in order that they might be included.

A brief glance at the athletic outlook reveals that the Huskers should be in the field next fall with another fine team, perhaps better than the eleven that carried Nebraska to a second successive Big Six football championship. The basketball quintet is now clicking on all cylinders and under as able a coach as W. Harold Browne, the school is certain to enjoy fine cage teams. Coach Schulte has such capable cinder performers as Heye Lambertus, Don Gray, Jerry Lee, Steve Hokuf, Roger Bevard and
