Monday Night Review

Closing their sixteen weeks run in Lincoln with a revival of "St. Elmo," members of the Liberty Stock Co. Monday night entertained with a most effective performance.

Gladys Griswold in the part of Edna Earl, and E. H. Fitzgibbons playing opposite her in the title role were especially fine in this Grace Hayward dramatization of Augusta Evans' novel.

How St. Elmo's personality is reverted into human channels after a lapse of twenty years makes a moving story, and members of the Liberty add greatly to the presentation with their ready characterizations.

An especial treat is in store for the admirers of Elton Hackett, who furnishes the comic element as Willis Wood, "from Chattanooga."

The complete cast: Mrs. Wood, Marjain Fink, Willis Wood, Elton Hackett, Edna Earl, Gladys Griswold, Aaron Hunt, Clyde Armstrong, Hilda, Audrey Rickert, St. Elmo Murray, E. H. Fitzgibbons, Dr. O'Beck, John Graham, Clinton Allston, Don Darcy, Rt. Rev. Hammond, Gavin Harris, Joe Murray, Russell Lindskog, Mrs. Murray, Marjain Fink, Mrs. Agnes Powell, Juliette Goodwin.

Editor of Cornhusker Announces Last of Picture Taking.

Entering the last lap of picture taking activity, studios of Cornhusker Photographers Hauck and Townsend have been thrown wide open, Editor Ralph Spencer declared Monday.

"Students desiring their photos in the fraternity or sorority sections would do well to have them taken immediately," he said. "The indicator shows that almost enough pictures have been taken to allow closing this section, and as soon as the limit is reached, no more photographs will be accepted."

The junior and senior sections are still open, and work on the feature section, to portray highlights of the year on the campus, is progressing satisfactorily, Spencer indicated.
