EXTENSIVE PLANS MADE FOR EC MEET

Dean LeRossignol and
Rev. Hunt Are
To Talk.

Seven colleges throughout the state, plan to send representatives to the convention. They are Midland college, York college, Hastings college, Doane college, Peru Normal, Wayne Normal and Kearney Normal.

Rev. Ray Hunt will open the conference, of which scheduled debates among various colleges will comprise the major part. Midland and York colleges will debate on "Is Our Present Economic System Responsible for the Recurring Period of Business Depression?" following Rev. Hunt's talk.

The afternoon session of the first day will be opened by a debate between Nebraska Wesleyan university and Peru State Normal on "Is our present economic system conducive to international conflict." Following that debate, the Wayne Normal and Hastings college will argue on "Does our present economic system foster vicious alliances between big business and government?"

A banquet will be held following the Wayne-Hastings debate, at Ellen Smith hall.

"Is our present economic system incompatible with the highest development of human personality?" will be the question of the argument to be held between Doane college and Kearney Normal. Following all debates an open forum discussion conducted by the presiding officer, will be held.

A talk by Dean LeRossignol will predominate the second day of the conference. Following the address, Meridith Nelson will conduct an open forum and give a brief resume of the work of the conference as well as a prediction into the future.

The admission price is twenty-five cents, and fifteen cents extra if attendance at the banquet is desired, according to Viola Vail and Alfred Adams, co-chairman of the conference.

Freshmen Women Have Chance to Gain Sophistication at Charm School

Freshmen women students on Nebraska's campus this year have had an opportunity to gain touches of sophistication and womanliness that is so often lacking in women attending midwestern colleges and lends fineness to eastern schools women. This is being made possible by the Charm School, sponsored by the Big Sister board with the assistance of Miss Elsie Ford Piper, assistant dean of women. Kathleen Becker has conducted the group.

When this club was first organized, it numbered only a few members. Wednesday evening a group of sixty elected officers for this semester. Madeline Raymond, president; Priscilla Herrick, vice president; and Katie Fern Clark, secretary-treasurer are the girls chosen to official positions.

The school has been chiefly concerned with advancing the culture of university women. Miss Piper has long desired to have just such an organization on the campus. The realization of this hope is due in a large part to her own enthusiastic efforts. Thruout this year she has taken part in the meeting and has been instrumental in securing speakers for the group.

Talks by talented women who have been successful in their chosen field of profession have been the main features of the charm school programs. Wednesday evening Mrs. E. E. Moore of the interior decorating department of Gold and Co. talked to the girls about antiques and their proper use in the home. The speaker brought with her to illustrate her talk some relics of her own.

Miss Piper expressed her disappointment that non-sorority girls had shown little interest in the group. She feels that they are missing an opportunity to make worthwhile contacts with the fine women.

Girls who have regularly attended the meetings have reacted very favorably to the idea. The general opinion is most favorable. When speaking of the school, they show a great deal of interest in the type of program planned.

Agronomy Club Takes

In Ten New Members

Ten students were initiated into the Tri-K agronomy club at a meeting of the organization held yesterday on the ag college campus. Clarence Henry of the Chicago board of trade was the principal speaker. He told members of the group that the farmer is the most conservative and soundest thinker of all people today.

Those who were initiated are: Leonard Hoegemeyer, Boyd Shank, Philip Henderson, Walter Spilker, Raymond Kinch, Elmer Heyne, Raymond Wilson, Cecil Sherfey, William Nelson, and Ira Clarke.

A red-headed student's club has been organized at the University of North Carolina.
