Kansas has won its third consecutive Big Six basketball championship. The Jayhawkers won 8 games and lost two in successfully defending the title against all conference foes. The only games they lost being the first game with Oklahoma, which the Sooners won 25 to 23 at Norman, and the Missouri game at Columbus, which the Tigers won by a 21 to 17 score.

In the game which decided the championship Friday night the Jays set back the Sooners 35 to 26 in a comparatively easy fashion to definitely prove that they were the class of the league. However, the vanquished Norman five journeyed on to Lincoln Saturday night and trimmed Nebraska 38 to 27 by using in effective fashion a fast breaking attack.

During the season Oklahoma lost to Kansas, Iowa State and Missouri. The Tigers dropped tilts to Kansas, Iowa State, Oklahoma and Kansas State in the double round robin schedule.

Coach Corsauts Kansas State quint after licking Kansas twice in pre-season only won four conference games, those from Iowa State (two), Nebraska, and Missouri. Nebraska licked Iowa State twice and Kansas State once. Iowa State hung up a couple of upsets, licking Missouri and Oklahoma once each.

As far as scoring honors were concerned it took Norman Wagner of Missouri to beat out Bill Johnson of Kansas in the race. Wagner tallied 18 points Saturday against Kansas State as the Missourians were setting back the Aggies 37 to 33 in an extra period game. Johnny Cooper of Missouri, who tied for high point honors with O'Leary of Kansas last year with 112 points was in fourth place with 88. His turn and push shot didn't function as well this year as last. Andy Beck of Oklahoma made 24 points in the last Iowa State game to carry off the honor of making the most points in any one mix.

TRI-DELTS CAPTURE GIRLS' SWIM MEET

Tanksterettes Engage in Competition Each Saturday.

Members of the Delta Delta Delta sorority won the swimming meet which was staged by the Tanksterettes, girls' swimming club, Saturday, in the coliseum pool. The meet was one of the regular events staged by the club each Saturday.

Each week different organized groups are selected to enter into the competition. The groups which entered Saturday were Alpha Delta Theta, Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Alpha Theta, Phi Omega Pi, Kappa Beta and the Hobby club.

Alpha Omicron Pi, Delta Gamma, Kappa Delta, Pi Beta Phi, Lambda Gamma and T-N-T will compete in the meet scheduled for Saturday, March 11. Thelma Sterkel and Justine Mickey will conduct the activities.

Intramural points will be given for group attendance, according to Miss Josephine Orr, sponsor of the Tanksterettes. Intramural representatives are required to turn in names of the girls who will take part in the meet. Contestants are required to present a swimming permit at the pool before they will be allowed to compete, she stated.

TUMA WILL SWIM IN MEET

Oklahoma Enters One Man In Match Scheduled for Saturday.

NORMAN.—Ed Tuma of Oklahoma City University of Oklahoma diver, will be the lone Sooner entry in the "Big Six" conference swimming meet March 11th at Lincoln, Neb., it has been announced by Ben G. Owen, athletic director.

Tuma will leave Norman Thursday morning for Lincoln, driving through in his own automobile. Last year he placed second in the "Big Six" diving event with 115.7 points. Sutherland of Nebraska, won second with 128.2 points.

Last year Oklahoma scored 23 points to take third place, but depleted finances and lack of a pool to practice in prevented them from entering a team this year.

W. A. A. ELECT OFFICERS

Alice Geddes Is President; Jean Brownlee Will Be Vice-President.

Alice Geddes was named president of W. A. A. for next year at a mass meeting of intramural representatives, sports board, club heads and W. A. A. council Monday noon in the club room. Jean Brownlee, Delta Gamma, will assist her as vice president. Halene Haxthausen, Alpha Chi Omega, and Maxine Packwood, Kappa Delta, were elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

The remaining members of the council for next year will be selected by the newly elected officers and members of this year's executive council. They will be installed at a mass meeting of university women near the first or middle of April.

SOONERS PLAN STIFF BASEBALL SCHEDULE

Oklahoma Team to Practice Rigid Economy for This Season.

NORMAN.—By practicing rigid economy in the matter of equipment and traveling expenses, University of Oklahoma baseball team this spring will play its strongest intercollegiate schedule of the past five years, despite the fact the sport is being abandoned right and left by other schools of the nation.

Coach Lawrence "Jap" Haskell landed an attractive four-day road trip with the University of Texas and Texas A. and M. college by volunteering to house and feed his players in Austin and College Station dormitories. "Uncle Billy" Disch's Texas Longhorns have won the Southwest conference championship 15 of the past 16 years, while Texas Aggies are the only team ever to dethrone them during that period.

"We're going to have a full schedule this year if we have to play with a yarn ball," Coach Haskell has declared. "Oklahoma always has been a strong baseball school but the game would die here if we didn't play a representative schedule. We'll book all the games we can on a home and home basis, each team paying its own expenses and keeping its own gate receipts. And we're going to wear our five-year old uniforms again this spring."

Besides the two Texas schools Athletic Director Ben G. Owen has booked four home games with Missouri's "Big Six" champions, and Kansas State, and negotiations are pending for two games with Kansas State at Manhattan. Remainder of the schedule probably will be filled out with Oklahoma Aggies, Central, Southwestern, Oklahoma City university and perhaps Chillicothe.

CONFERENCE CATCHES

BY BURT MARVIN.

Coach Schulte doesn't plan to make application for the acceptance of Heye Lambertus' records in the 60 yard dash and the 60 yard low hurdles which were set up Saturday in the indoor meet with the Kansas Aggies. His time of 6.1 seconds in the dash is one-tenth of a second better than the world's indoor record in that event, and in running the low hurdles in 6.4 he bettered the old world's mark of 6.6. However, Schulte plans to have official watches on the Husker junior in the Big Six meet next Saturday afternoon at Missouri, where he is expected to help dispose of a few old records.

The listed world's record in the 60 yard dash event stands at 6.2, but as a matter of fact Meier of Iowa State ran it in 6.1 in the indoor conference meet two years ago. So Lambertus is one of two men to ever do that time. But in the low hurdles over the same stretch no man has ever equaled the Gothenburg flash's time. The Big Six mark in this event is 7 seconds flat, so it looks like the record is due to fall next Saturday, that is, if the Husker hurdler meets with no accidents which are so easily met with in these races. In fact Heye took a spill in the 60 yard high hurdle event in the Kansas State meet, and consequently lost out. If there ever was ever a beautiful race it is the low hurdle sprint when it is run with the class exhibited by Lambertus. When one looks over the heads of the crowd watching the event being run off he can see the almost perfect execution of form carried out by this speedster, for he takes the barriers in stride with virtually no raise in the level of his head.

Down Oklahoma way they're feeling optimistic about the chances of a sophomore, Whitley Cox, in the 60 yard dash event. He tied what is often stated to be the world's record by sprinting over the route in 6.2. Thus we Nebraskans can see that Lambertus probably will be plenty hard pressed in the event, and that a new record probably will follow. It is said that he is the first great dash man developed at the Sooner school in twenty years.

In just a little more than a week and a half the Nebraska coliseum is to be the scene of the Nebraska state high school basketball tournament held annually here. Two years ago was the only time when a different site was picked, and it was then held at Hastings. Fans know that from among the high school stars who appear in the logs of the various preparatory schools in the meet the Nebraska five is later composed. Anyway it's a great carnival and something to look forward to, especially since the Lincoln schools are back in the tourney this spring.

Last week the tennis courts around the city were again in condition, but just as soon as one gets ready to play a little it snows. The moisture also put a crimp in Coach Bible's plans to get the football practice started on the Memorial stadium sod Monday afternoon.

The wrestlers had a rather poor season this winter but prospects for next season appear much brighter than they did preceding this season. Just about all the men are due to be back next campaign. The main trouble with Nebraska wrestling is that there is virtually no interest manifest in the sport in this school, while most of the other institutions in the neighboring states stress the mat game. Iowa State grapplers can always be banked on to bring a number of national championships to the Ames school, and the Kansas Aggies often chalk up individual titles.

HOKUF WINS POSITION ON ALL-BIG SIX TEAM

Cornhusker Guard Is Only Nebraskan Named by United Press.

Steve Hokuf, veteran Nebraska guard, was chosen for a position on the United Press All-Big Six basketball team for the past season. He was the only Nebraskan placed on either the first or second fives.

Oklahoma was the only team to receive two places on the first team, Bud Browning and Andy Beck representing this well balanced quintet at guard and forward respectively. Browning was the only sophomore to receive a post on the first five. Johnson of Kansas was shifted to forward from his regular center position in favor of Norman Wagner of Missouri. Wagner always managed to control the tip against Johnson.

Hokuf was especially lauded for his "uncanny knowledge of when to follow his forwards down the court to scoring territory." He was also cited for his scoring ability, and leadership of the team.
