BLAIR SAYS COLD WEATHER IS OVER FOR THIS YEAR

filling stations and college clothiers, business is beginning to be on the wane at caking headquarters around the campus.

Students are finding the social science steps more inviting these warm days than booths, according to the manager of one of the leading caking places. "The depression and spring are my worst enemies," stated the operator of another such establishment.

"My ma can always tell when it's really spring by the way my brother what's in university talks over the phone to his girl at the sorority," offered a too willing little brother of an unfortunate university man.

So with birds singing, Social Science steps occupied with people, picnic planning and the hanging of fraternity pins prove that something's in the air and that it must be spring even though Nebraska weather is unpredictable.

Cooperative Living Plan Proposed By Student Newspaper at Oregon

EUGENE, Ore. (CNS). Adoption of a co-operative plan of living this week was proposed for students of the University of Oregon by The Oregon Daily Emerald, undergraduate newspaper, which contended that individual expenses could be cut as low as $10 to $15 per month.

Under the plan outlined by the Emerald, two dormitories would be turned over to a selected group of students, who would divide the necessary kitchen and room clean-up work. The houses which would be used are owned by the university and could be rented at rates low enough to cover the bare cost of maintenance, light, heat, water and laundry, it was stated.

Meals cooked in the co-operative kitchens would cost each student 25c per day, according to a menu budget prepared by the home economics department. The menu provides for a balanced ration, giving the greatest nourishment for the least cost, with milk as the predominating food. Apples, carrots, spinach, potatoes, eggs, butter and bread would be the other principal foods used.

Students who otherwise must forgo one or two meals per day because of high rents would be especially benefitted by the plan, according to the Emerald, since the usual cost of maintaining regular house employes would be saved, altho graduate students would be appointed by the university to supervise the work done.

In connection with the plan, editors of the paper issued the following statement:

"The Oregon Emerald believes that scores of students are ready to make substantial sacrifices to obtain an education, and will willingly enter into a supervised, co-operative plan that will permit them to continue at the university at the reduced costs resulting therefrom."

Dean H. V. Hoyt of the school of business administration approved the Emerald's plan as "financially feasible."

DEAN BURR WELCOMES CREAMERY DELEGATES

Nebraska Stockholders Hold Annual Convention on Ag Campus.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Nebraska Co-operative Creameries, inc., held at the agricultural college Wednesday morning was attended by more than seventy-five delegates from all sections of Nebraska. The attendance surpassed that of last year.

Dean William Burr in his welcoming address to the creamerymen emphasized the need of co-operation today in creamery management and introduced the president, Carl S. Holm, who presided. E. L. Reichart, assistant professor of dairy husbandry, told of problems confronting the Nebraska creamerymen. He urged the elimination of price wars, increasing the volume of business, improved quality and standardization of products and development of better butter marketing as a solution. He also pointed out the need for reduced manufacturing costs and co-operation in buying and selling.

J. L. Lawrence, state extension agent in marketing, who was the chief speaker on the afternoon program, confined his talk to the subject of vital butter problems and stressed the importance of increasing volume, improving quality and a closer study of competition.

Another important speech was given by C. W. Fryhofer, supervising butter grader of the United States department of agriculture. He stressed the need of production of quality and standardized products declaring the present market situation is only temporary, and the consumer is becoming educated to demanding quality dairy products.

"Present market prices do not recognize quality products. They do not give the farmer the proper inducement for producing a quality product. However, that price range is going to widen and thus give encouragement to the farmers for producing better products," Fryhofer said.

A high compliment was paid the Nebraska creamerymen and farmers by the federal man for their production of improved quality and uniform products in past years. He declared that there has been a gradual increased improvement since the buying of cream on grade basis which is practiced in Nebraska.

COLLEGE STUDENTS TAKE MORATORIUM WITH GOOD SPIRITS

Some Discover for First Time Their Credit Is Good.

(CNS)—College students took the bank holiday on the chin—and liked it!

Reports from various parts of the country this week indicated that undergraduates and faculty members alike accepted the inconvenience in the same good humor as other citizens.

Thousands of students were discovering for the first time that

Salesmen Are Asked To Check In Tickets

All Junior-Senior Prom ticket salesmen are asked to check in their tickets to Lloyd Loomis in the Cornhusker office from 3 to 5 on Thursday. Students not checking tickets and money in by Friday will forfeit any tickets they may have earned.

their credit was good, while on some camp temporary measures for the transfer of credit in clearing house fashion were established to insure the continuation of normal business functions.

At the University of California at Los Angeles, the problem of lack of currency was temporarily solved when the Associated Students organization issued a form of scrip, good only on the campus. The scrip was issued to students in return for checks, and was accepted by student enterprises on the campus. Credit was extended in some cases.

Altho in most cases the bank holiday was accepted as "a good thing under the circumstances," Prof. Edward S. Shaw of the Stanford university economics department criticized the moratorium expedient as "a bad thing in the long run."

The banks, he said, have loaded up with "perfectly absurd loans" under a variety of jurisdictions.

"If the banks know that the state authorities will protect them, they will refuse to join the federal reserve system with its more stringent banking requirements," he declared.
