PLAYERS OPEN WITH 'ROMEO AND JULIET'

Zolley Lerner and Miriam Kissinger Carry Lead Roles of Drama.

BY BRUCE NICOLL.

The University Players successfully opened a week's run of their last production of the current season last night at the Temple theater with the Shakespearean romantic tragedy "Romeo and Juliet," under the direction of Miss Alice Howell.

The play, which is the sixth to be presented by the university dramatic organization this year, followed the original and probably the most famous of Shakespeare's effort, in modern tempo.

To Zolley Lerner and Miriam Kissinger due credit must be given for a very capable and entertaining portrayal of Romeo and Juliet. Both leading characters offered a delightful interpretation of the extremely emotional temperament characteristic of the Italian, a thing which the English genius sought to instill in his work.

Especially fine performances were offered by the supporting cast; included among those whom patrons enjoyed most were Clara Christensen as the nurse and Herbert Yenne as Mercutio. Those who enjoy Shakespearean drama set to modern tempo will enjoy "Romeo and Juliet." The plot moves swiftly, the costumes are above par, and the simple, but effective settings for the numerous scene changes, make Miss Howells latest effort a well rounded production.

The play will run at the Temple theater the rest of this week closing next Monday night. In line with the usual custom the play will be presented to the school children of Lincoln and surrounding territory Saturday afternoon at a special matinee.

Another performance has also been scheduled for the Player's presentation of "Romeo and Juliet" at the Joslyn Memorial in Omaha, April 22.

NEBRASKA TO MEET CREIGHTON IN LAST DEBATE OF SEASON

Affair Will Be Staged at Omaha Tech High School.

The debate squad will close its work for the year with a debate against Creighton university before the Omaha Technical high school on Thursday April 6. This year Nebraska has participated in twenty-eight debates, five more than any previous year.

"There seems to have been more interest shown in debate this year than in recent years," states Prof. H. A. White, coach of the squad, "as is shown by the number of people who have turned out for the team and the number of debates with other schools."

Nebraska argued two questions this year. The first semester the question was Resolved: That the federal government should enact legislation to provide for federal control of all electric power utilities. The subject for debate the

PLANS ARE LAUNCHED FOR BIZAD FIELD DAY

Council Decides to Hold Outing in Place of Spring Party.

Plans for the 1933 Bizad field day to be held at Capitol Beach, Friday, May 5, were launched at a meeting of the Bizad executive council held Tuesday afternoon.

"Friday classes will be dismissed for those Bizad students wishing to participate in the field day," Norman Prucka, president of the executive council, announced.

Prucka stated that due to the already overcrowded social calendar, the council had decided on the field day in preference to the spring party which featured last year's Bizad day. With the exception of last year when the party was substituted, the field day has been an annual event in the Bizad college.

The committee in charge of preparations for this year's affair as announced by Prucka are: Richard Mayborn, chairman; Harold Hines, refreshments; Harold Winkquest, publicity; Edward Gildner, tickets; Bertha Debus and Mildred Kelley, entertainment; Gladys Williams and Lucille Lindstrom, supplies; and Victor Markytan, transportation.

Sales will be conducted through co-operation with members of the Men's Commercial club.

Prucka state that prices for the event will be at a minimum and will be announced along with entertainment in a few days.

Display of Etchings and Paintings Will Be Featured at Farmers' Fair

Bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard is the west wall of the exhibits room in the Student Activities building. But on Saturday, May 6, the day of the coming Farmer's Fair, it will be lined with an elaborate display of etchings and paintings in a setting of flowers and oriental shrubs. It will be the scene of an Art Exhibit by the newly formed Lincoln Art Guild.

Mr. Dwight Kirsch, president of the Lincoln Guild and instructor of painting and drawing in the university, has charge of preparing the exhibit. "The art exhibit will consist of etchings and paintings, and perhaps some tapestry," Mr. Kirsch said. "There probably will be more than fifty paintings and etchings in the display, and every one of them will be the work of some member of the Lincoln Guild."

Group's First Exhibit.

This will be the first exhibit of the new organization; and, ording to fair exhibits Chairman Victor Rediger, the Guild has taken full responsibility for the preparation and arrangement of the exhibit.

"Such an exhibit will add to the value of Farmer's Fair," Rediger said, "because it will give students and other guests at the fair a chance to see and appreciate good art work. There is no reason why people interested in agriculture should not have some knowledge and appreciation of art work as well as any one else."

In connection with the art exhibit will be another new Farmer's Fair feature, Rediger announced. It is to be a snapshot contest in which prizes will be given to winning photographers, both amateur and professional. Any person living in Nebraska, or any student in a Nebraska college, is eligible to enter the contest. Entries will be limited to three per person, and "The College Student" will be the subject of a talk to be given by Dr. S. M. Corey, professor of history and principles of education in the Teachers college, at a meeting of Phi Sigma, honorary biological society, to be held on Wednesday, April 5, at 7:15 p. m. in room 118, Bessey Hall.

CLASSES WILL NOT BE LET OUT FOR MEETING

People Wishing to Attend Must Arrange With Instructor.

Classes will not be dismissed for the convocation at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, April 6, according to Dr. J. O. Hertzler, chairman of the faculty committee on arrangements for this event. Students will have to make arrangements with their individual instructors to attend the assembly, the chairman asserted. In commenting on the lecture Dean T. J. Thompson advised students to attend provided they had no other activity at that time.

Dr. J. P. Senning, head of the political science department, especially urged students to hear Dr. Joshi. He assured them the lecturer would have something worthwhile to say. In a further discussion of the convocation Dr. Senning told of the personality and good English of the speaker who was educated at Yale.

To Discuss India.

In his lecture Doctor Joshi will discuss the future of India and its relation with the British government. The past summer he spent traveling in England and on the continent, while there meeting Lord Erwin and Lord Lethain, president of the franchise committee. He also visited at League of Nations headquarters in Geneva.

Professor Joshi is an instructor of comparative religions and Indian philosophy at Dartmouth college at the present time. He is making a special lecture in western states while his own school is having spring vacation.

The speaker held an exchange lectureship in this university during the second semester of the school year 1922-23.

REGIONAL SECRETARY SPEAKS AT VESPERS

Miss Scurlock Declares That Money Is Not Motive in Life.

"The most pernicious thing that has been taught us is that we work for money only," said Miss Stella Scurlock, regional secretary of the Y. W. C. A., in her talk at the weekly vesper services, April 4.

Miss Scurlock's topic was "Jobs for the Jobless." She pointed out that even though one may be jobless, there are still many interesting things to work at.

"Work," she said, "is putting yourself into life; it is a chance to grow and to serve. It is not true that money is the motive in life."

Elizabeth Rowan, who was in charge of the services, announced that there would be a musical service by the choir at next week's vespers.

Gepson reported Tuesday night and presented a form giving the office of the dean information as to whether or not the house will be closed, how long, and who will be in charge.
