TWO ART SENIORS ARE CONSTRUCTING WALL-SIZE MURALS

Sally Green and Maurice Gordon Work Under Miss Faulkner.

Original classroom projects are seemingly becoming a favorite requirement of professors toward the end of the school year. Outstanding among them for length and detail of labor involved, for decorativeness and demonstration of individual ability is the work being done by Sally Green and Maurice Gordon, two seniors in the fine arts department.

Under the supervision of Miss Kady B. Faulkner, two wall-sized murals are being constructed in the art office and one of the laboratory rooms of Morrill hall. That of Miss Green is a classical representation of the arts: Music, art and literature. She has worked it out on a large scale from a tapestry design of her own for a theater, depicting the old Greek idea of the arts, with modern influence. The form is colorful and detailed and is to be painted in oils on a muslin foundation which has been treated with a size and a white ground.

"Revolt in Nebraska" is the title of the large mural by Morris Green which is to cover an entire wall in Miss Faulkner's office. Done in bold style, it represents the problems of agriculture and was probably inspired by the recent Nebraskan farmer's holiday.

STAFF GIVES PLAY AT Y. W. C. A. VESPERS

A play, "The Color Line," was given by members of the Nebraska in China staff at the weekly Vesper services, Tuesday April 18. The cast of characters was as follows: Mr. Lawson... Emily Hickman; Miss King... Ethel Rorer; Chun... Mr. Benjamin Wong; Barbara... Phyllis Snyder; Stanley... Lillian Vodehnal; Wanda... Eleanor Price.

The play was concerned with the plight of Chun, a Chinese who had been disowned by his family because he had adopted Christianity. However, after staying in America for some time, Chun found that he was not only shunned by his own people because he was a Christian, but that he was shunned also by the Americans because he was a Chinese.

This situation made him resolve to turn against Christianity and return to his native land to tell his people not to accept Christianity. But the fine spirit of his dear friend, Barbara, when she learns that her father has been killed by Chinese makes him believe that there is, after all, something beautiful in Christianity, and he decides to go to China and tell his people that America and China are friends.

Ruth Cherney, who was in charge of the program, pointed out that this week was Nebraska-in-China week.

APPROPRIATION REPORT LEADS APRIL ALUMNUS

Issue Presents Names of Candidates for Board of Directors.

A review of the action of the legislature on the appropriation for the university leads the April issue of the Nebraska Alumnus, which appeared recently. The number also presented the candidates for the board of directors of the Alumni association.

The university has been cut over $600,000 more than the legislative investigating committee found as the minimum budget for the efficient operation of the university, according to the data contained in the review. The committee recommended a maximum cut of $1,185,000 and the house finance committee brought in a bill calling for a cut of $1,777,150.

Expect Further Cut.
The report also brings out that the university is anticipating a further cut of $545,000 in the money it receives from its cash fund. This cut is a result of a reduction in the receipts from student tuitions and from the agricultural products sold by the institution.

The Alumni association is publishing this report so that Nebraskans may learn the facts of this appropriations controversy. The association also favors the Bryan budget as the way to prevent the disorganization of the university. Eleven are Candidates.

Eleven men are candidates for members of the board of directors from five districts in the state. The officers of the association will be elected on the same ballots as the directors. The ballots were being mailed with this issue of the magazine.

The number contains a summary of the honors convocation and the names of the new members of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi, honorary scholastic societies. The recent events on the campus are included in the regular sections of the monthly.
