MEMBERS OF SENATE DEBATE ON ITEMS IN APPROPRIATION BILL

Seven of Finance Group Vote To Sustain Governors Recommendation.

With the state's appropriation bill laid before members of the senate yesterday, a bitter floor battle seemed apparent over certain items in the bill including those affecting the University of Nebraska and the four normal schools.

Chairman Callan gave notice of the impending fight when he stated yesterday that the minority members of the senate finance committee, of which he is a member, would try to get some of the items reduced below recommendations of Governor Bryan's budget. Seven members of the committee voted to sustain the governors' recommendations.

Meanwhile the extreme economy advocates in the house continue their efforts to get members of that body behind a movement to fight any increases which the senate might pass in the budget measure.

The leaders in the house who were leading the movement for strict adoption of their recommendations include Cone, of Valley, Well of Fairbury, and Kloppling of Wayne, the latter two chairman and secretary of the houses finance committee respectively. They declared that they would accept no substitution which the senate members saw fit to pass.

Also they refuse to show the petition they were passing, Cone and Wells declared that there were more than fifty members that would oppose any change.

One of the house leaders declared, however, that it was reported to him that names of many of the house members had been written on the petition by others than the members themselves.

One member of the house finance committee declared yesterday that he would not sign the petition, but that he was willing to admit that members of the senate were as smart as members of the body in which he is a member.

Some members of the senate argued that in view of the inflation movement and rising commodity prices, it would be out of order to make cuts below those recommended by Governor Bryan.

PLAY CONTEST GROUP ANNOUNCED BY YOUNG

Three Best Plays Submitted Will Be Produced Next Fall.

Lee Young, president of the Dramatic club has announced the committee to be in charge of the play contest, sponsored annually by the organization. Young will act as committee chairman. He will be assisted by Helen Shelledy, Reginald Porter, Lois Rathburn and Fred Nicklas.

The contest is sponsored to promote interest in play writing on the Nebraska campus. Any student properly registered in the university is eligible to enter. The plays, Young pointed out, must be original one act plays that require no more than thirty minutes for production.

Plays may be submitted any time and it is probable that a deadline for entrance will be set about the last of May. All plays must be submitted to Lee Young. The committee will select the three best plays and they will be produced next fall.

Final judging of the plays will be done just as it was this year. The audience votes following presentation of the three plays and the play receiving the largest ballot is awarded first prize of $25. "Kaddish," written by W. Zolley Lerner was the prize play produced in this year's contest.

REUNION BANQUET TO BE FEATURE OF ENGINEERS' WEEK

125 Former Students Are Expected to Attend New Event.

An alumni reunion banquet will be one of the new features of the annual Engineers' Week which will be staged May 4 and 5, according to George Swatek, general chairman of the affair. Approximately 125 former university students who were in the engineers college are expected to attend the affair on Friday evening, as well as 175 students now enrolled in the college.

Extensive plans have been formulated for the annual affair sponsored by the engineering college, according to the general chairman. An open house to be held on Friday evening from 7:30 to 11 p. m. to which everyone is invited, is one of the main attractions of the week. Six engineering buildings will be open to the public, in which all of the departments will give demonstrations, lectures and display the work which they have done. Displays of some of the work of the various departments will be shown in the business district of Lincoln for three or four days before the week.

On Friday morning a convocation will be staged at which several skits will be presented by engineering students. The best skit will be selected by the students at the convocation and the winner will be awarded a prize of five dollars. Engineering students may still enter. (Continued on Page 2.)

NATIONALITIES MAY CHOOSE OWN FOODS AT FAIR CAFETERIA

Hostesses Will Dress in Costumes Peculiar to Each Country.

Children and grandchildren of the Swedes, Germans, Irishmen, Danes, Bohemians, and people of other nationalities who were early settlers of Nebraska will have a chance to dine on their own characteristic foods at the International Foods Cafeteria at Farmer's Fair Saturday, May 6.

This Farmer's Fair cafeteria, according to the Home Economics exhibits committee, will serve the usual cafeteria menu, but in addition there will be hostesses dressed in typical costumes of the people who settled in Nebraska serving the guests with characteristic dishes of all the nationalities. Miss Dorothy Luchsinger, institutional management major, will have charge of the cafeteria.

"The idea for the cafeteria," said Miss Valentine Klotz, exhibits chairman, we got from the new episode in the pageant, 'Progress of the Prairie,' which is to depict the settling in Nebraska of many nations in the world. The cafeteria will be decorated with the colors of all the nations that were represented by settlers in Nebraska, and foods characteristic of each one will be served. The cafeteria will operate during the afternoon and evening of Farmers' Fair at the Ag College campus Saturday, May 6."

STUDENTS TO VOTE ON ACTIVITIES TAX

Dean Thompson, Prof. Congdon Approve Referendum Plan; Seniors Will Voice Opinion Concerning Matter at Spring Election, May 9.

Students will vote their approval or disapproval of the proposed compulsory tax plan for financing student activities when they register for next fall classes during the first week in May, the student council committee which has prepared the plan announced Thursday.

The referendum plan, which has been approved by Dean Thompson and Prof. A. R. Congdon, chairman of the registration committee, provides that all present students registering for classes next fall will ballot on the activities tax in their respective deans' offices as they complete the registration process this spring.

Senior students, since they will not be registering for next year, will vote on the plan at the regular spring election, May 9.

The decision to hold the referendum in connection with registration rather than at the spring student election was made in order to reach more students.

"The largest vote we could expect at the spring election," the committee explained, "would be between 1,000 and 1,500. All freshmen." (Continued on Page 2.)

Removal of Gold Standard Will Not Affect Ordinary Citizens, Says Arndt

Soaring Prices Not Caused By Change, States Professor.

Mr. John Smith, ordinary citizen of the United States, will not be affected by the removal of the gold standard in the nations currency system, was the opinion of Karl M. Arndt, professor of economics in the university.

"The prices of commodities soaring and stocks booming skyward has no direct relation to the country going off the gold standard," declared Mr. Arndt. "The government merely stopped the artificial control of the dollar."

The country has been off the gold standard since the bank moratorium declared by President Roosevelt early in March, and has merely attempted to artificially control its value on the foreign exchange, was the opinion of Professor Arndt.

"The gold standard, long a myth in financial circles, might well be thrown out completely, since the only purpose it performs is to stabilize the value of the dollar on the foreign exchange. Its effect upon the stability of domestic prices is practically a nonentity," said Professor Arndt in explaining the function of the gold standard.
