A Real Contribution To the Campus.

NO longer will students dance in the cheerless barrenness of a barnlike structure or pay immense amounts of money to make the big airdome over on Vine street attractive. No longer will it be necessary to strain one's ears to hear the faint voice of a speaker as it disperses into the upper reaches of the rafters. The coliseum is to be made into an auditorium or a dance hall sufficiently commodious and yet presentable to make a decent setting for a number of campus events which heretofore have had to put up with the poor facilities on this campus. The much talked of permanent decorations are purchased, largely paid for, and will be ready for use next year.

If this is not a tangible evidence of the value of student enterprise none can ever be found. The Innocents society, with the co-operation of other student organizations bent their energies to raising the money for this permanent improvement of the campus. The benefits to be derived may without exaggeration be expected to be of real significance to campus life.

At the first of this past year the Nebraska talked of joint fraternity and sorority parties as an economy measure. The chief objection to this plan lay in the fact that there was no place in town large enough to accommodate such parties except the coliseum, which was so unattractive as to be impractical. This objection is now removed. Joint parties, if they are desired, could be easily promoted.

There has been much talk of the need for some auditorium where the major share of the student body can be gathered together. The coliseum has been the only place where such gatherings could be held, and what a place! With the permanent decorations installed, the coliseum should be utilized much more frequently for such gatherings, and there can be no doubt that it will be almost entirely satisfactory. The only objection will be in the fact that the chairs in the coliseum are not stationary.

It is particularly noticeable that this project was put over in this year of poverty. And yet no student or group of students was obliged to sacrifice much for the realization of the plan. It is merely an example of the constructive use to which the collective profits of various student enterprises can be put.

Congratulations to all those who had a part in the realization of these permanent decorations and congratulations to the student body who will enjoy the benefits of what really amounts to a new building on the campus.

A Slight Taste Of Victory.

THE tabulated results of the senior poll on the activity tax are published in today's issue of the Daily Nebraskan. Out of a total of 288 votes, 210 were cast in favor of the plan, and of these 210 affirmative votes, 120 students voted for every item listed on the ballot.

The Nebraskan feels highly elated over this favorable sentiment toward the blanket tax plan as expressed by the senior vote. We recognize, of course, that the senior opinion may be discounted on the grounds that those who voted will not have to pay the tax and hence are more willing to vote for it. But on the other hand we are inclined to feel that a feeling against the plan would manifest itself regardless of the fact that a student would not be in school next year.

The Nebraskan will have ceased publishing before the result of the poll of underclassmen is known. Therefore the Nebraskan must take what satisfaction it can for whatever part it has played in influencing opinion on the activity tax plan from the results of the senior poll.

While the vote of the seniors is interesting and may fairly be assumed to give some indication of campus opinion on the tax plan, it is the vote of the underclassmen which will be taken next week during registration which will really determine the fate of the tax plan. The Nebraskan sincerely hopes that the underclassmen will find the idea as acceptable or even more so than the seniors.

Lets Have Some Action.

THE matter of the reorganization of the Interfraternity council, recently brought up for quite a bit of discussion but very little action, has apparently been forgotten. This is but another evidence of a lack of interest on the part of the greater number of students in organizations whose welfare and prestige is entirely dependent upon the respect accorded them by those same students. Such matters furnish topics for conversation, and if any action is ever taken, very few students are involved or even interested.

Now is the logical time for fraternities to take a definite stand on the matter. The present school year is almost over, and if any reorganization is to take place, it should be accomplished now in order that the new council may start functioning with the opening of school next fall. All houses will have at least one more meeting before the semester is closed in which to decide on this matter, and in the meantime it would be well for all fraternity men to spend a little time thinking about the proposed plan for reorganization.

Older fraternity men, as well as faculty men closely connected with the students and acquainted with fraternity life and problems, have openly endorsed the plan. No reasonable fraternity man will deny that the council at the present time is a political organization and much weaker than it should be. The merits of the plan of reorganization, which would provide for a senior man to represent his fraternity on the council, are too obvious for discussion.

But whether the fraternities favor a change or not, now is the time to act. The council will have one more meeting, and with the opinion of every fraternity expressed, the council can accomplish something.
