The program was conducted by Jean Alden, president, who acted as toastmistress. Her mother, Mrs. C. L. Alden, spoke as a representative of the mothers. Evelyn Hease and Dorothy Cathers gave short talks. Jane Robertson, past president, gave a resume of the year's work. Doris and Mildred Dickinson, Corrine Jane Beal and Robert Coffee offered musical selections.

The breakfast marked the closing of the "Y" activities for the year. Jane Robertson listed the "Y" activities for the year. Jane Robertson listed the Y's accomplishments in her toast. The Y. W. C. A. has during the last year organized a firemen cabinet composed of officers of the firemen commission. This cabinet was instrumental in planning the table appointments for the breakfast. The Swap Book shop was a new development under the supervision of the project staff. The Girl Reserve association had never before been organized under a staff head. The constitution was revised putting the election of officers earlier in the year.

"I'm special gratified for leadership which many cabinet members have given to this campus thru the Y. W. C. A. These new points in organization have come to meet new needs and do work better and have already proven their value. In some ways this has been a difficult year for the Y. W. C. A. but because of difficulties unusually strong leadership has developed in some of the cabinet members," stated Miss Bernice Miller in expressing her gratification of the work accomplished this year.

No definite plans have been made for next year's accomplishments. The staffs and cabinet for the coming year are already active and are gradually formulating plans.

WE'RE MAKING HISTORY....

Cleopatra made history. And so are we! Cleopatra found her man Anthony without the aid of a classified ad. But today times have changed.

The best way to let people know that you have lost something is to tell them about it. And the very best way to tell them about it is to run a classified ad in the Daily Nebraskan.

For a charge of 20c we'll tell the whole university population about your troubles. Can you find a cheaper means to let the world know that you have lost something?

Classifieds are really making history these days! They're locating valuables. And it costs so little. You too can find your losses by this means.
