EICHELBERGER SPEECH BEGINS TRANSACTIONS FOR ALL STATE MEET

and has found that there is a general desire for a statewide assembly. Doane college at Crete is especially interested in having the conference convene there.

Both speakers were of the opinion that to assemble the representatives on a campus smaller than Nebraska would be a distinct advantage because of the many conflicting interests that would be encountered here.

Model League of Nations.

The conference would assume the nature of a model League of Nations assembly. Students would act as representatives from the various nations and present the economic and political viewpoints in regards to problems of international peace and commerce of their respective nations.

"The students of the United States do not take as active an interest in matters of leadership in international affairs as do those of other countries" Eichelberger said. "By the organization of the student conference our students are given an opportunity to develop such leadership and to express themselves on matters of world interest."

No Action Taken.

No definite action was taken by the body of students present at the meeting, but the discussion following the addresses of the afternoon revealed that certain student groups are interested in sponsoring next spring's conference. The discussion also brought to the necessity of having the opinions of different interests, such as the political sciences, the economics, the religious and other groups expressed during the assembly.

"By the formation of public opinion through these various groups on such important subjects as world peace we hope to get much done in the movement for disarmament," Terrell pointed out.

He stated that the world peace question will probably be settled within the next two or three years.

It is anticipated that the various student organizations will take some definite action in the near future to formulate plans for the sponsoring of a conference here next spring.

Don't Let The MOTHS RUIN Your Winter Coat

Have your winter garments thoroughly cleaned. Moths won't bother them.

Tuxedo's, too, should be cleaned before putting them away.
