Our cupuan

So at last it's come to this. The tor makes a brave attempt to rationalize some of the things he has said, and an even more far-fetched attempt to show what has resulted from his daily efforts.

We have realized to the full extent from the beginning of the semester that most of the editorials have been rather impractical. We have been under no illusions as to our power to reform the world or even the campus. And most disheartening of all we have been aware that the number of people who read these editorials is negli-

Why then have we bothered to write what seems so futile? In the first place the editor is supposed to get a salary for writing. We could hardly justify drawing that salary, which incidentally is four months overdue, unless we filled our columns every day. In the second place, it is frequently difficult to fill the paper with news so that some sort of filler must be used.

And finally, despite what we said about our lack of illusions, we do have that optimistic feeling that some one or more persons might notice what is said and appreciate it or at least get angry about it, which is some satisfaction. And occasionally, believe it

DOUTHIT SELECTED SUPERVISOR OF AG SCHOOL AT CURTIS

Announcement of Transfer Made by Chancellor Burnett.

H. K. Douthit, supervisor of farm operator's courses at the college of agriculture, has been elect-ed superintendent of the Nebraska school of agriculture at Curtis. The announcement of the immediate transfer of Mr. Douthit of Ne-braska. Both the farm operator's work and the work at Curtis are under the control of the University of Nebraska, Mr. Douthit assumed his new work Monday.

Superintendent Douthit takes the place of C. K. Morse who will be connected with the university extension division in Lincoln.

For the past four years Mr. Douthit has had charge of the farm operator's course and all of the other short courses at the college of agriculture. The farm operator's course took the place of what was formerly the school of agriculture. Mr. Douthit has been very successful in building up the enrollment and in giving the boys in this course a much broader education than they might have obtained from the books alone, according to university officials. Under his leadership the boys had their own farm operators club, their own athletic program and their own boarding club. When the depression began to cut into the the other short courses at the coltheir own boarding club. When the depression began to cut into the enrollment of the agricultural college. Mr. Douthit became very much interested in a program to cut down living expenses and other expenses for the short course and regular college students.

While taking care of his work as supervisor of short courses. Mr.

as supervisor of short courses, Mr. Douthit has found time to take a few courses in advanced educa-tional work and make some special studies under Dr. Charles Fordyce.

Prior to his work as supervisor of short courses, Superintendent Douthit was county agent in Webster county. Before taking over this farm bureau work he taught Smith-Hughes vocational agriculture in the Red Cloud high school for about two years. During the summer months of the last four years Mr. Douthit has been out in the state almost continuously, giving talks at community meetings, high schools, and other gatherings.

At Meeting Monday

Dr. J. R. Wadsworth of the romance language department spoke the 7 o'clock dinner of L'Alliance Francaise at the Cornhusker hotel Monday night, Prof. Michael Ginsburg, president, introduced the speaker, and a general discussion followed the talk. About twenty members attended the affair.

FINIS

With this issue, the Daily Nebraskan completes its thirty-second year of publication. When this issue of the paper reaches the students, a staff of almost fifty workers will have finished a year of faithful, if not remunerative, service. They have received many hours of pleasure, made many friends, and gained much valuable experience while working on the "Rag."

Special thanks are due the reporters, the society editor, the sports editor, and the woman's editor, who have done a great amount of work without any pay, (not to mention the theoretically paid staff). Members of the faculty have also co-operated in giving us news otherwise unobtainable. We take this opportunity to thank all those who have helped in any way to make the Nebraskan a permanent record of campus events.

To our successors, the staff of next year, we wish the best of luck and success. We feel sure that they will never regret the hours they devote to work on the Nebraskan, although at times they will feel discouraged and disheartened by the constant work.

KLUB WILL ACCEPT MANUSCRIPTS EARLY

No Definite Deadline for Entries Set by Group.

Play manuscripts for the annual spring musical comedy sponsored by Kosmet Klub, campus dramatic organization, will be accepted at an date earlier than usual next se-mester, Frank Musgrave, newly elected president of the Klub, announced after a meeting of the or-ganization last night.

No definite deadline for enter-ing manuscripts was set by the Klub, but it was tentatively de-cided to call for all entries early in the fall instead of calling for them about the middle of the year, Musgrave declared. If possible, the work on the show will start soon after the play to be produced has been selected, he added, Final committee reports for the the year and a clearance of all of the remaining business were received at the last meeting of the organization for the year in the Klub rooms last night in University hall. Musgrave urged all persons planning to submit plays to the Klub to work on them during on "Edmond Rostand," following the summer so that they will be ready next tall.

CADET REGIMENT RATED EXCELLENT

Officer Makes Comment On Inadequacy of Facilities.

The university R. O. T. C. was again rated excellent, according to a letter received by Chancellor E. A. Burnett from Johnson Hagood, major general of the United States army following the recent annual inspection. The inspection was conducted by Col. R. H. McMaster, field artilery, and Lieut. Colonel George, F. N. Dailey, infanty.

According to the letter, in the opinion of the training inspector the unit was very fine and the courtesy, discipline, and attitude of the student personnel was especially to be commended.

Comment was again made on the inadequacy of facilities for indoor drill during inelement weather and the lack of a drill ground.
