Freshmen to Take Cornhusker Oath

CEREMONY SET FOR THURSDAY

New Students Will Meet After 10 O'clock in Front Of Social Science to Parade to Coliseum Where Initiation Will Take Place.

GEORGE SAUER HAS CHARGE OF ARRANGEMENTS

Deans, Chancellor, Presidents of Mortar Board and Innocents, Coaches Bible and Schulte on Tentative List of Speakers.

The annual ceremonies for the initiation of all freshmen and students new to Nebraska and the administration of the Cornhusker oath will take place Thursday morning in the university coliseum, according to an announcement made yesterday by George Sauer, member of the Innocents society, men's sorority honorary, in charge of arrangements for the event.

All freshmen and new students will be excused after their 10 o'clock classes for the ceremonies, which will start promptly at 11 o'clock in the field house, Sauer said. The program will last approximately forty-five minutes, he added.

Announce Speakers. A tentative list of speakers for the initiation includes Miss Amanda Hepper, dean of women; Chancellor E. A. Burnett, T. J. Thompson, dean of student affairs; Byron Gooding, president of Innocents; Wills Norris, president of Mortar Board; Coach D. X. Bible, Coach Henry S. Schulte and Dr. G. E. Condra, who will give the Cornhusker oath.

Administrative officers, ranking members of the faculty, members of the two senior honorary societies Innocents and Mortar Board and the two pep organizations, Corn Gobs and Tassels, will be on hand to welcome the new students officially into the Nebraska student body.

Freshmen to Parade. All freshmen will meet after their 10 o'clock classes are excused in front of Social Science hall to form a parade over to the coliseum. The B. O. T. C. band, under the direction of W. T. Quick will furnish the music for the procession, and members of Tassels and Corn Gobs will form and direct the parade.

Speakers on the program will be limited to three minute talks. Sacred songs, members of Innocents and Mortar Board will officiate at the ceremony, and Dr. Condra, faculty adviser to the Innocents, will administer the Cornhusker oath at the closing of the program.

All freshmen are expected to attend this traditional affair, which has been an established custom every year for a number of years. All freshmen men will be expected to don their scarlet freshmen caps at the close of the event.

DIRECTORY TO APPEAR IN MIDDLE OF OCTOBER

Bernard Jennings Is Business Manager of Book; Frank Crabill Editor.

The 1933-1934 edition of the student directory, published by the University of Nebraska, will appear about the fifteenth or twentieth of October, according to an announcement made yesterday by Bernard Jennings, business manager of the publication.

The staff of the publication, appointed by C. D. Hayes, university Y. M. C. A. secretary, has already started work on the publication in an effort to get the directory out at a date earlier than usual. Jennings said. Frank Crabill, Red Cloud, is the editor of the publication. Members of the business staff are: Bob Funk, advertising and sales manager; and Richard Schmidt, assistant business manager.

The book will be printed by the McKelvie Publishing company, which printed the directory last year. Several new features will be incorporated in this year's directory, Jennings said.

NEW ANIMALS INSTALLED

Museum Has Mountain-Zebra And Baby Rhinoceros In Collection.

Recently installed in the Nebraska museum in Morrill hall are a mountain-zebra with nearly perfect stripes from the Adam Freede collection, and a baby rhinoceros. This two-weeks old mounted rhinoceros is one of three in America. The animals are exhibited on the lower floor of Morrill hall to the left of a lion group from the same collection, placed last spring. James L. Clark studios in New York City did the mounting.

SCARLET CAPS AGAIN AVAILABLE TO FROSH

Traditional Headgear Will Be Donned Officially Thursday.

INNOCENTS IN CHARGE

A new supply of scarlet and white freshmen caps will be available to those freshmen men who did not purchase them while registering during the first two days of enrollment, according to John Gepson, member of the Innocents society in charge of the sale of caps.

"A number of freshmen men did not purchase caps while registering and have since that time made efforts to get the caps, so we have made these arrangements in order that every freshman man can wear one of the traditional caps," Gepson stated.

Caps may be purchased from the Ben Simon clothing company on Monday or Tuesday afternoons from two to five o'clock. Gepson said. The price of the cap is fifty cents. If the student wishes, he may purchase a ticket at the Daily Nebraskan office on Monday or Tuesday afternoons entitling him to one of the caps. Gepson added.

Gepson urged all freshmen men to get their caps before the annual freshmen initiation in the coliseum Thursday morning. The custom at that event has been for the freshmen to officially don their scarlet caps. Quite a number of caps are already being worn on the campus by members of the freshman class.

300 COUPLES ATTEND ALL UNIVERSITY PARTY

Year's First Varsity Dance Proves Success States Council Head.

Three hundred couples attended the Get-Acquainted All University party Saturday evening in the Coliseum. The dance was the first Varsity party of the seven to be held this year, and the first of five to be held in the Coliseum.

Chaperones for the affair were Prof. and Mrs. A. W. Medler, Prof. and Mrs. H. C. Riley, and Prof. and Mrs. H. H. Marver.

The All University parties, which is comprised of eighteen unaffiliated students, who are elected annually in the spring election. Burton Marvin is chairman, Marjorie Filley, vice chairman, and Wilbur Erickson, secretary-treasurer.

"Since Saturday night's party proved so successful," stated Marvin, "we feel that we will be able to put on a fine group of parties during the year, and plan to make the highlight of the year the D.D.'s Day party, which is to be held the night of Saturday, October 28."

On the night of Saturday, September 20 the next All University dance is to be held in the Coliseum. Plans are now being made to procure a good orchestra for the affair, and other arrangements will soon be completed.

ANNUAL EDITOR STARTS JOB OF FORMING STAFF

Work on Cornhusker to Get Under Way During This Week.

35 POSITIONS AVAILABLE

Amateur Photographers Are Urged to Report for Early Duty.

With a call for applicants to fill the thirty-five editorial staff positions still available Editor Woodrow Magee of the Cornhusker launches the work of the university yearbook this week. Both former staff members and those who desire to work on the publication for the first time are urged to apply during the week.

A plan of having a representative from each fraternity and sorority on the editorial staff will be inaugurated this year. "By doing this we hope to attain a more complete and effective coverage of fraternity and sorority affairs," Magee explained.

"Work Must Begin Now." "Since the Cornhusker includes a record of university activities throughout the year, it is necessary for the editorial staff to begin functioning at the first of the open- (Continued on Page 4.)

FACULTY SUBSCRIBING TO DAILY NEBRASKAN

Instructors Are Responding Readily to Offer Made By Publication.

Early returns from the Daily Nebraskan subscription drive among members of the faculty indicate that the circulation of the publication in that body will be considerably greater than in former years, according to information released yesterday by Bernard Jennings, business manager.

Subscription blanks, mailed in the early issues of the Daily Nebraskan, have been coming to the office of the publication in greater numbers and sooner than in previous years. Jennings reported. The blanks will continue to be published for several days, he said.

A reduction in the subscription price, to one dollar and fifty cents a year, is one of the big reasons for the increased circulation, according to Jennings. An increase in advertising revenue for the year makes the reduced price possible, Jennings said.

A drive to sell subscriptions to members of the student body and to organized houses on the campus will be launched within the next week, the business manager announced.

CHANCELLOR GREETED OVER 400 STUDENTS

Faculty Members and Their Wives Present Friday At Reception.

GUESTS VIEW EXHIBITS

More than four hundred students attended the annual Chancellor's reception, held Friday night from 8 o'clock until 10 on the second floor of Morrill Hall. Most of the faculty members and their wives were present or assisted at the function which opened the university social season.

In the receiving line were the Chancellor and Mrs. E. A. Burnett, Dean T. J. Thompson, Dean Amanda Hepper, Miss Florence McCarty, and the deans and directors of the various colleges and schools. Representatives of the Y groups, Innocents, Mortar Board, Barb Council, A. W. S., and W. A. A. assisted in acquainting the new students with the building.

Students and members of the faculty also assisted the regular staff of the museum in conducting tours through the exhibits on the lower floors, and the art staff took charge of the art galleries on the second floor.

Hosts and hostesses on the lower floors and in the galleries were Professor and Mrs. H. C. Korb, Professor and Mrs. F. D. Korb, Professor and Mrs. Don Whelan, and Professor and Mrs. Roy Cochran. A number of the members of the faculty and their wives presided at the table during the 190 hours of the reception.

NUMBER PLEDGING

DROPS THIS YEAR

Approximately 20 Percent of Men Rushed Pledged According to Report Just Released by Interfraternity Council.

DEFINITE COMPARISONS ARE NOT AVAILABLE

75 Percent of Women Affiliate With Upper Ten Sororities While Remainder of List Is Spread Over Lower Half.

Thirty-one Nebraska fraternities pledged a total of 265 men, according to a bulletin released late Saturday by the Interfraternity Council office. The results indicated that approximately 20 percent of the total number rushed pledged.

Absence of definite figures on last year's rushing results makes comparison difficult, but a marked decrease in the number of men pledged is believed to have occurred. The total number of new pledges and holdovers for the current year comes to 456, a decrease of seven from the corresponding figures for last year.

Delta Upsilon and Sigma Alpha Epsilon headed the list in number of men pledged with 2 each. Phi Kappa Psi was third with 17, and the remaining fraternities varied from 14 on down to 6. Five houses, or 16.12 percent, pledged over 12 men. Nine others, or 29 percent, pledged from 10 to 12 new men. Eleven fraternities representing 35.48 of the houses, pledged between 5 and 7, while the six remaining pledged from 1 to 4. Four fraternities, some of which apparently made no effort to do so, failed to secure any pledges, indicating that the number of houses on the campus may be materially reduced this year.

A prevalent opinion in most fraternities is that a great number of men are "hanging fire" and will pledge as soon as the deadline set by the new rules has been reached. It is believed that an effort will be made to have the rules amended at the council meeting Tuesday night, so that rushes may move into the houses of their choice before the stipulated month after rush week has elapsed.

Following is the list of new and holdover pledges for fraternities:

Terrific Storm Nearly Spoils Summer For Prof. Bell's Archeological Diggers

Clinging desperately to flapping ends of a capized tent during a furious hail and wind storm, and nothing to wear but nature's own protection was the primitive experience of Prof. Earl H. Bell and a group of five university students digging up archeological remains near St. Helena, Neb., this summer.

"Our work in that section," declared Professor Bell, "aroused keen interest among the natives, as high as one thousand people watching us work in one day. We were never without an audience."

The students who accompanied Professor Bell on his expedition included Stuart Neitzel, Vilas Shokson, Bernard Refshauge, Harold Dahms, and Ed Wolfenbarger.
