STUDY METHODS DISCUSSED

Ag Instructor Will Offer Practical Suggestions at Council Meeting.

The second freshman council meeting of the University Y. M. C. A. will be held tonight in the "Y" rooms of the Temple building. The meeting is scheduled for 7:15 p.m.

Prof. C. E. Rosenquist, botanist from ag college will act as leader of the gathering. Mr. Rosenquist will offer some practical suggestions of effective methods of study. He has used these methods with freshmen for several years and has found them to be very successful. A Y. M. C. A. cabinet meeting will immediately follow the freshman council meeting.

STUDENTS SUPPORT NAZISM

Undergraduates in Germany Show a Direct Interest in National Government in Contrast to Lack of Interest Here, Declares Werkmeister.

By Virginia Selleck.
The difference between the German and the American college student is that the former is interested in national policies, both theoretical and practical, while the latter is comparatively indifferent to our national affairs. These were the views of Prof. W. K. Werkmeister, instructor in the philosophy department, expressed in an interview yesterday. Professor Werkmeister toured Germany while on his vacation this summer.

"The German student feels himself to be one of the factors that shape the destiny of the nation, and has wants to do his part in rebuilding his fatherland," Professor Werkmeister continued. "On the other hand, the American college student seems to be less sure of the part he ought to play in practical politics."

The reasons for this difference, Professor Werkmeister stated, are to be found in the differences in the national philosophy. In Amer-

Announces Officers

COL. W. H. OURY.

Commandant of the R. O. T. C. Regiment, who announced the names of the leaders in the cadet regiment yesterday. The appointments go into effect immediately and will last thru the present semester. Col. Oury is a graduate of the University of Nebraska.

FRESHMEN LAWYERS NAME ELY PRESIDENT

Other Officers Are; Foster, Young, Nelson and Mary Quigley.

JACK MINOR GETS DERBY

Laurence Ely was elected president of the 1933-34 freshman law class at the class' first meeting held Tuesday morning. Other officers chosen were Harry Foster, vice president, Lee Young, song leader, Meredith Nelson, treasurer, and Mary Quigley, sergeant-at-arms.

Jack Minor became the first freshman law student to be honored with a week's free use of the traditional brown derby when he uttered what promises to be one of the prize "boners" of the year. The remark was of such a delicate nature as not to bear repeating.

AG COLLEGE PLANS ASSEMBLY MONDAY

Chancellor Burnett, Deans of Colleges Will Be Guests.

Agricultural college students are to be excluded from classes for the 10 o'clock convocation scheduled for Monday, Oct. 2. Assembly is to be held at the student activities building. Chancellor Burnett and deans of other colleges will be special guests.

Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, will discuss "Rural Education Challenged." Taber, regarded as an outstanding leader in agricultural organization, has been connected with practically every movement for the betterment of agricultural conditions in the last twenty-five years. He will also address a luncheon of Lancaster county farmers and Lincoln business men at the chamber of commerce Monday noon on "Teamwork Between Town and Country."

Prof. H. C. Filley, of the agricultural college, is arranging the details of the morning convocation and Prof. H. J. Gramlich is in charge of the luncheon.

Nebraskan Reporters May Appear for Work

All students interested in doing reportorial work for the Daily Nebraskan should report to the office of the publication any afternoon after 3 o'clock.

Approximately 140 applications were filed last week for positions on the Cornhusker staff. One hundred of these were filed for the editorial staff, forty for the business department, fifteen for advertising manager, twelve for circulation, the remainder were for business assistants.

According to Woodrow Magee, editor, there was more interest shown by girls than men, and there were more applications from the Yellow Jackets than usual. This latter fact shows that more equal consideration will be granted.

The appointments will be made the latter part of this week, and will appear in the Sunday Nebraskan. These positions are to be temporary, and will only become permanent after a month's work when some of those appointed will be dropped for slackening on the job. Others will be chosen from those not regularly appointed, but have shown interest by doing unsolicited work.

Mr. Magee appeals to those who are not regularly appointed to come to the office, so that they will have a chance of being put on the staff after the month tryout.

NEBRASKA BIZAD DEAN APPROVES NEW NRA PLAN

LeRoussignol and McCrea, Columbia Dean, Agree in Backing Code.

INDIVIDUALISM EXTINCT

McCrea Disbelieves Idea That Too Many Go Thru Business Schools.

NEW YORK. (CNS). What business men used to call "rugged individualism" has become outmoded, and we are now on the threshold of an era of co-operation as a result of the national recovery act, in the opinion of Dean Roswell McCrea of the Columbia university school of business.

His views on the NRA—a program were contained this week in his annual report to President Nicholas Murray Butler of the university. In the report he declared that the national industrial recovery act is "a charter of possibilities which should play an important role in the movement to substitute co-operation toward social ends for the old, outmoded, rugged, self-seeking individualism of the past."

The NRA and NIRA programs "will develop into the beginnings of a better controlled business order," according to Dean McCrea. The task of creating such an order, however, is not going to be simple, he indicated.

"To safeguard price standards without barring the road to plenty, to guide expansion and innovation without closing the door of opportunity, to safeguard capital commitments without placing a premium on inefficiency involve delicate adjustments which call for brains and courage and high ethical standards will be required in unwonted measure; and our university schools of business should become normal channels thru which these qualities may be expected to flow into effective personal functioning."

Schools Not to Blame.
The contention that schools of business are glutting the employment market with numbers of graduates far in excess of present or future needs is the result of conditions bred by over activity or proslaying on the part of the schools, the report stated.

"To educate to better understanding of vexing problems and of opportunities for service, and to raise the plane of competition among workers from lower to higher levels is surely a gain rather than a detriment to the social weal," Dean McCrea said.

"None the less here is a grain of truth in the contention and in recognition of this truth, it behooves us to strive perennially for better selection of student material, for more effective vocational guidance and for better focused efforts at placements of graduates in particular jobs."

Dean J. E. LeRoussignol, of the Nebraska College of Business Administration, when asked to comment on the NRA, voiced his approval of its efforts to restore prosperity.

"The NRA is a desperate effort to remedy a desperate situation," he stated. "It is a well intended movement and with the government"

140 STUDENTS APPLY ON CORNHUSKER STAFF

Appointments Are Not Final, But Depend on Work, Says Magee.

Featuring a fifty voice choir made up largely of university students the St. Paul Methodist church will open its new Sunday church program, Oct. 1. Those singing in the new choir were selected by personal tryout.

A new organist of national fame, Mrs. Frank Labers, has been secured by the church. Mr. Labers, who is a personal friend of Irving Berlin and other notables, has played original manuscript for Mr. Berlin.

The music for the evening services is to be furnished by the Jolly Rogers quartette a quartette made up of university men. The quartet includes Russell Gilman, first tenor, Donald Jackson, second tenor, Al Rieder, baritone, and Bill Miller, bass. This group has been prominent in university functions and has done a great deal of broadcasting during the past two years.

All music is to be directed by W. G. Temple, superintendent of music at Lincoln high. Rev. Aitken sends a cordial invitation to all university students.

KOSMET KLUB'S FALL REVUE NEEDS WORKERS

Will Receive Applications At U Hall Offices All Week.

ELIGIBILITY IS CHECKED

A call for workers for the annual Kosmet Klub fall revue was issued yesterday afternoon by Frank Musgrave, president of the Klub, after the first meeting of the organization this semester.

Application blanks for workers will be available at the Klub office in the basement of U hall every afternoon during the week. Musgrave stated. Applications will be received from 2 to 5 o'clock every afternoon thru Monday, Oct. 2. Members of the Klub have been assigned office hours to take applications.

Committee appointments for the fall show were announced by Musgrave at the meeting. The remainder of the committee appointments will be made from those applying for work after each applicant's scholastic eligibility has been checked by the office of the dean of student affairs.

Musgrave will head the production committee for the show, and assisting him will be Byron Goulding, Woodrow Magee, and Charles Flansburg. The business end of the show will be handled by a committee composed of John Gepson, as chairman; Owen Johnson and Henry Kosmet.

Plans for the presentation of the Nebraska Sweetheart will be arranged by Neil McFarland, Art Bailey and Tom Davies. The election of the Nebraska Sweetheart will be handled by Woodrow Magee and George Holyoke will handle all Klub contacts in connection with the production.

Frank Crabill and Dale Taylor will be in charge of all commercial advertising for the show, and Dick Moran will handle the publicity.

ST. PAUL SERVICES TO FEATURE CHOIR

Methodist Church Names Frank Labers New Organist.

"Y" STUDENTS MAY FORM CHESS CLUB

To Discuss Organization at Temple Building Tuesday Night.

In response to requests by a number of university freshmen, plans for a Y. M. C. A. chess club are being formulated. Definite plans for the club will be discussed in the Y rooms of the Temple building Friday evening at 7:30 p. m. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the University Y. M. C. A.

All university students who play chess or who are interested in learning the game are invited to attend the meeting. If sufficient interest is developed, plans for a chess tournament at the end of the year will be laid. According to C. D. Hayes, secretary of the university Y. M. C. A., it is probable that chess matches with similar clubs from other colleges will be scheduled.

SOCIAL WORK MAJORS MEET FOR LUNCHEON

50 Assembled at Grand Hotel To Honor New Teacher in Department.

Miss Esther Powell, who was recently appointed instructor in sociology at the university, was the guest of honor at luncheon held by students majoring in social work, at the Grand hotel Tuesday noon. Approximately fifty students attended the affair.

The program consisted of three talks given by students, who had experienced unusual vacation periods in various fields of social work this summer.

Marjorie Ley of Wayne, a senior in the department, told of work in the field of county relief at her home in Wayne county, where she directed the setup of the county machinery under the federal relief administration.

Nola Alter, a sophomore from Alma, Nebraska, who attended school in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, last year, described her experiences at the Kingsley House, a social settlement in the poorer quarters of Pittsburgh. Miss Alter was a volunteer student there.

Helen Still of Hastings, senior, spent most of her summer in Chicago with headquarters at St. Elizabeth's hospital where she assisted in the medical social work. Through Miss Dorothy Thomas, a graduate of Nebraska, she did work in the family division of the juvenile court, taking the place of one of the workers who was on her summer vacation. Miss Still said one of her most interesting experiences was to assist in teaching a class of foreigners at Hull House, where she met Jane Adams, founder of the house.

FIRST ALUMNUS ISSUE FEATURES CLASS OF '33

Names and Addresses of All Members of Last Year's Senior Class Listed.

"The Class of '33 Embarks" by Richard F. Ferguson, alumni president of the class of '33, is the feature article of the first issue of the Nebraska Alumnus, issued recently. The magazine this month serves as a directory, furnishing the names and addresses of all the members of the '33 class.

The magazine includes an article about Miss Amanda Heppner, dean of women, by Berenice O. Hoffman of the class of '32, an article on football by Coach Dana X. Bible and a page in memory of Prof. Charles A. Robbins.

The Nebraska Alumnus association, publisher of the magazine, plans to run a variety of articles this year. Among these is a series of articles dealing with early student pranks and another dealing with members of the faculty who have been with the University of Nebraska for a number of years. There will also be an occasional article on research work.

Football supplements, four page papers which go to press the day following a football game, will be put out by The Nebraska Alumnus again this year. The first of these will come out Oct. 9.

BRACKETT DESCRIBES IRRIGATION PROJECTS

The development of pump irrigation in Nebraska since 1913 was traced by Prof. Elmer E. Brackett of the college of agriculture before a meeting of the Engineer's club Sept. 25 at the state capitol cafe. At the meeting Prof. C. W. Smith compared the merits of rubber a steel tires for farm tractors.

In spite of the depression, pump irrigation has made considerable progress in the past two years, according to Professor Brackett. He pointed out that there are nearly 1,200 installations in the state now and made the prophecy that the near future would see an increase in this type of irrigation.

CORRECTION.

It was incorrectly stated in the Sunday issue of the Nebraskan that Zeta Tau Alpha, social sorority, was not occupying a house this year. The organization is living in the same residence as last year at 1144 J Street.

300 SUBSCRIBE TO DAILY NEBRASKAN

New Rotogravure Section Picturing Student Life at Many Colleges Helps Boost Work of Campaign, Business Staff Members Believe.

CAMPUS DRIVE CONTINUES THROUGHOUT WEEK

Sales to Faculty Heavy Since Beginning of Drive; Expect Coverage of Instructors Will Be 100 Percent Before Saturday.

More than three hundred students have purchased subscriptions to The Daily Nebraskan during the first two days of its annual subscription drive, Bernard Jennings, business manager of the publication, stated late yesterday afternoon. The count for Tuesday was not quite completed, however, he said.

Announcement of the fact that the Nebraskan will carry as new regular feature a weekly rotogravure section picturing student life and work in colleges all over the country has helped boost the sale of subscriptions, Jennings believes. The Nebraskan will start publishing this section with the Oct. 1 issue and will run it every Sunday thereafter.

Faculty subscriptions to the Nebraskan are also coming in large numbers, the business manager announced. Quite a number of the instruction staff bought subscriptions among members of the faculty.

The subscription drive, which started Monday morning, will continue thru this week until Saturday afternoon. A corps of twenty-five solicitors will assist the business and editorial staffs of the publication in contacting the entire student and faculty body.

Subscriptions, which sell for one and fifty cents for the year on the campus and $2.50 by mail, are being sold at the booth in Social Science hall and in the finance office at Ag college every morning from eight to twelve o'clock. Students may also purchase subscriptions at the office of the publication price includes every issue for the school year 1933-1934.

Contrary to the practice in past years, copies of the Nebraskan will not be distributed at the bookstores near the campus. They will be available only at the regular distribution booths in Social Science hall and at the finance office at ag college or thru block subscriptions.

More than half of the organized houses have already taken out block subscriptions to The Daily Nebraskan, Jennings stated. The staff of solicitors will cover every house on the campus to sell block subscriptions of twenty-five or less before the campaign is closed, he added.

MAY BECOME JUNIOR CHAMBER ASSOCIATES

Suggest Affiliation of Men's Commercial Club With City Group.

Plans are being made whereby members of the University of Nebraska Men's Commercial Club will become associate members of the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce, according to a statement made Tuesday by Elmer E. Bosse, president of the Commercial Club. Mr. Bosse believes the union will benefit both organizations.

Further arrangements will be made at a rush smoker to be held Thursday evening at the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house. All Bizad men are invited to attend.

BARB CLUBS TO ORGANIZE

Meeting of Delegates to Be Held Soon, Says West, President.

Organization of the Interclub council will take place immediately, according to an announcement made by Harry West, president of the group, Tuesday evening.

This council composed of representatives from clubs which are made up of unaffiliated men students went through its first year of existence last season, and a fair amount of success was attained.

Other officers of the organization are Burton Marvin, vice president, and Wilbur Erickson, Treasurer. Marlo Smith, secretary, has resigned, because of lack of time.

TO THE STUDENT BODY:

The Daily Nebraskan is now conducting its annual subscription campaign. Every effort is being made by both the business and editorial staffs to canvass every student in order to obtain as great a circulation among the student body as is humanly possible.

The Daily Nebraskan this year will contain a number of outstanding features never offered before to readers of the Nebraskan. It will have starting Oct. 1, a regular weekly rotogravure section picturing student life and activity in universities all over the country. It will have at its service a news service presenting complete news of the outstanding events in the university world. The editorial staff promises as complete coverage of campus events as is possible.

No student can afford to miss a single issue of the publication. The price of a subscription for the entire year is the lowest in many years. Subscriptions may be purchased at the booths in Social Science hall, Finance office at Ag college, or at the Daily Nebraskan office.
