ing sold to unaffiliated women than ever before.

"The drive is going well," she said, "and it is distinctly encouraging to see Tassels keeping hard at work."

Coach Schulte, in his noon talk, was impressed as all the noon speakers have been at the enthusiasm saleswomen are showing.

You're representing the right brand of school spirit," he declared, "but you're also representing another kind of spirit. Yours is the ebullient enthusiasm of youth, and I'm sure you're going to do a good job of the responsibility that has been entrusted to you."

The track mentor pointed out some of the uses to which athletic department money is put, and stressed the idealism under which an attempt is made to make athletics "all-university."

"The department has two purposes," he explained, "one is to provide fine, clean sports for the student body, and the other is to make use of the money as well as humanly possible."

Lambertus, hurdle star, altho disclaiming ability to make a speech, said he thought the Tassels were doing a good piece of work and that the entire athletic department appreciated their efforts.

The fourth pep luncheon of the campaign series will be held Thursday noon, but names of speakers were not available Wednesday evening.

ORDER FORBIDS EATABLES TO BE SOLD ON CAMPUS

ter addressed to the student pulse was received by The Daily Nebraskan Tuesday.

TO THE EDITOR:

The N. R. A. is working splendidly on the campus. One of the biggest sources of unfair competition has just been abolished. Due to the protests of the drug stores and confectioneries around the campus, the university has issued a restraining order prohibiting Colonel Kidwell from selling candy bars in the basement of Nebraska Hall. Justice has again triumphed!

Even a Biz-ad Freshman knows that the candy bars that Colonel Kidwell has sold didn't make him a fortune, let alone break all the other stores up in business. And any merchant who has to resort to such methods to get business doesn't deserve it. The Colonel kept those bars down there to accommodate the boys, and it served the purpose well. There isn't time to run over to a store between classes, but you can pick up a cello in the basement of Nebraska Hall. But no more. Fearful of a gigantic industry that would become a frankenstein, the University officials have nipped it in the bud, and are now receiving pads on the back from their own hands and those of the local dealers.

It is paradoxical to find such a farcical situation on the campus of a college. The great big officious should be ashamed of themselves to stoop to such a thing; they should stick to their annual reports and perennial statements. If they must take candy away from little boys, they must. But please, please leave the drinking fountains on the campus.

HUNGRY FRESHMAN. University Rules Forbid Sale.

According to Operating Superintendent Seaton, there are a number of university rules which forbid this action. The new order definitely forbids the sale of any such material to students, unless authorized by the university. Some students have been buying ink in various buildings in the campus at one cent per penful. This is also forbidden, as well as sales of paper, pencils and other petty supplies.

The University rules state: Chapter X, Section 3.—No appointee or employee of the university shall have any financial interest in, or receive any compensation from the sale of supplies required by students.

Section 5.—No appointee or employee of the university shall, without permission of the board, engage in any employment outside the institution. This permission is not required in case of occasional employment germane to work in the university; but in no case shall any outside employment interfere with efficiency in serving the university.

Section 6.—No member of the instructional staff shall have financial dealings with any student which might by any possibility have an influence on the status of such student in the university.

and an aspiring artist provide the amorous element in the story. Exceptional comedy roles are found in the play, the principal one being assumed by Clara Christensen in the role of "Abby," the former sweetheart of the late artist.

The action of the play is precipitated by the arrival in a sleepy New England village of a group of scheming art buyers from New York. The discovery of numerous valuable canvases in the physician's home leads to humorous situations.

Six plays are being produced by the players this season. Tickets are placed on sale at the box office in the Temple theater on the Monday preceding the opening of each play. The curtain is scheduled for 7:30.

why they should wear them. First of all is the matter of school spirit which is greatly dependent upon the enthusiasm of the freshman class. On the other hand, the members of the freshman class should become acquainted with each other because of the many friends which one finds in one's own class.

No definite plans have been made for the contest which will determine how long the freshmen shall wear their caps.

STUDENTS INSPECT X-RAY

Hospital Invites Engineers To Examine Unusual Equipment.

The student branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, is sponsoring a meeting at the Lincoln General hospital, Wednesday night, Oct. 4, at 7:30, where they will inspect the new X-ray equipment of the hospital. This X-ray equipment is the largest and most complete of its kind in this country. All students are welcome to attend this meeting, and electrical engineering students are especially urged to attend. John Brewer is in charge of the meeting.

OLD GOLD'S RADIO COMIC TESTS WITS

'All-American Berle' Is Hit Of Popular Comedy Feature.

Milton Berle, Old Gold's fast-cracking radio comic, is on the spot. Cast in the role of the prize incurring freshman at Hokum college, the popular cigarette comedian is slated to match wits with that proverbial nemesis of undergraduate life, the college widow.

The fortunes of the "All-American Berle" hit a new high in last Wednesday night's radio show, when Berle, Hokum '37, ran roughshod over the faculty. However, he and are preparing to do impudent upperclass men at Hokum are taking this disgrace much too serious—tant bodily damage to Milton.

Under the baton of Fred Waring, the Pennsylvanians will be featured in more of their stirring college songs. Poley McClintock, Red Davis, Tom Waring and Stew Churchill will lend talented vocal support to Fred's melodies. Harry Richman, Broadway's ace interpreter of the blues, who commutes by plane from Chicago and the Chez Paree, the Midway's prime night club, will offer a number of popular songs.

Moran and Mack, known as the authors of the slow Negro drivel as a nationally popular comedy medium, have been engaged to handle the Old Gold comedy spot beginning Oct. 23. This celebrated black face comedy team, whose "Two Black Crows" phonographic recordings grossed the all-time record of 4,000,000, are signed to a four week appearance contract consistent with the cigarette sponsors' policy of rotating the supporting talent to Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians on the Old Gold variety show.

Jean Edwards Reported In Critical Condition

Jean Edwards of Wahoo was reported Wednesday night in a critical condition by hospital officials. Miss Edwards, a senior in the university, was stricken with a heart attack Sunday, and taken to the Lincoln General hospital. She is being attended by Dr. Harry E. Flasburg.

MUSIC CONVOCATION IS HELD WEDNESDAY

Visiting Artists Will Play In Temple Theater Each Week.

The first musical convocation of the year was held in Temple theater yesterday, with Emanuel Wishnow, violinist as the guest artist.

The convocations are a continuation of last year's series, and are a regular Wednesday afternoon feature of campus life. They are intended primarily for the students of music, but anyone is admitted. The primary aim is to give the student a chance to listen to compositions which he himself is unable to play, and to help him in learning how to play them. They are conducted under the auspices of the Nebraska School of Music, and present a different guest artist each week.

This week Emanuel Wishnow, concert director of the Lamson Symphony orchestra, was the guest artist, and rendered violin selections from Grieg, Lalo, Gerhart, Bloch and Kreisler.

He was accompanied on the piano by Earnest Harrison. Wishnow's complete program: Edvard Grieg: Sonata for Violin and Piano, Opus 8, No. 1; Allegretto con brio; Allegretto quasi andantino; Allegro molto vivace.

Edouard Lalo, Symphonie en pagnole; Andante; Allegro non troppo.

George Gershwin: Short Suite; Ernest Bloch: Nigun from East Shem Suite.

Manuel de Falla-Kreisler: Spanish Dance from La Vida Breve.

"WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND"

... there's cheer in good old BRIGGS!

Another football player may take your signals, but there's no substitute for BRIGGS. You could pay twice as much for other tobaccos and find them not half so good.

BRIGGS is aged in the wood extra long. It's mellowed and biteless. It's so good that it won nation-wide popularity before it had a line of advertising.

But it's easy to make a tobacco sound grand in print. Smoking's what counts. Won't you try a tin of BRIGGS?

Take Along one of these Brand New "Rainy-Time" CAPES

The answer to a coed's wish... no reason to go dashing back to the house and miss the game because it starts to rain... take out of your pocket a "Rainy-Time" Cape... presto... you're spic and span... dry as a bone! For "Rainy-Time" Capes are made of a strong rubber, the cape cap fits down over your hat and the cape itself comes over your coat, your sweater or suit to protect you from rain or snow.

Designed in red, black, white, green or blue... one of the very newest things we could offer... (it was inspired by the Century of Progress and called "Century of Progress Capes, by soum")...

Best of all This is "Rainy-Time"

All folded up in a tiny little pouch.

... even smaller in proportion than shown by the illustration... This cape folds up into a tiny bit and fits into most any pocket when you start for the game. Really, you should take one along even if old Sol is shining... never can tell when it's going to rain... and they're only
