

BASKETBALL SQUAD HOLDS SCRIMMAGE

After Three-Week Practice Coach Browne Expresses Satisfaction.

REPORTS GOOD MATERIAL

Friday afternoon, November 24, the varsity basketball squad held its first scrimmage under the guidance of Coach William H. Browne, head basketball coach, at the coliseum court, after a three-week practice and conditioning period.

Coach Browne was favorably impressed and said that this year's squad of twenty is far superior to last year's quintet.

The men on the present Varsity squad are:

During the previous training period Coach Browne reported that the most promising material was in the sophomores who have been outstanding in performance. Sophomore stars include K. Lenser, D. Loder, N. Zentz, H. Sorensen, H. Widman, and M. Scott.

Husker left tackle, who set up the pats for the Biblemen's only touchdown of the afternoon. When Dick Crayne, sensational Iowa back, fumbled a low pass from center and then completely missed the ball when he attempted to punt, Coppel came through and recovered the ball for Nebraska on the Hawkeye 29-yard line. Without Coppel's alert pouncing upon the ball a Husker touch-down at this time would have been improbable.

LaNoue Makes Classy Runs. Immediately after the Scarlet gained possession of the ball Coach Bible sent in Jerry LaNoue, flashy sophomore back, with instructions to make wide end sweeps.

This LaNoue did, and with flawless interference he swept around left end for nine yards on the first play and six yards on the second. Masterson then came through again, taking the ball ten yards through the center of the Hawkeye line.

Another first down for the Scarlet on the Iowa 5-yard line. At this point the heavy Iowa line held for three downs and then Masterson staged his daring and sensational play for the Husker touchdown. Masterson's kick for the extra point was high and true, fixing the score at 7 to 0 for Nebraska.

Iowa's touchdown came late in the final quarter after a strong

Iowans Arrive to Fall Before Huskers

Nebraska's Coach Bible was on hand Friday morning to greet Coach Solem and his Hawkeyes as they arrived for yesterday's tilt with the Cornhuskers. Coach Solem has the surprise gale caught LaNoue's punt in the air and stopped it on the Husker 35-yard line. LaNoue punted from his own 20-yard line and the kick got off well but the terrific wind halted its progress.

Iowans Start Drive. At this point, from the Scarlet 35-yard stripe, Coach Ossie Solem's gridgers started their touchdown drive. With the wind at their back they completed a pass from Laws to Swaney which was fumbled and Fisher, also of Iowa, recovered. Then Dick Crayne, sophomore triple threat for the Corn state, drove through for another six yards, placing the ball on the Nebraska 14-yard marker.

Again resorting to the air Hoover shot a pass to Laws who leaped into the air to bring it down on the Husker 1-yard marker. Thus with a first down and only one yard to travel for a touchdown Husker chances of holding looked slim. This proved to be true for on the second play Crayne drove over his own right tackle for the touchdown.

Russ Fisher's kick was low making the score 7 to 6 in favor of the Biblemen. Russ Fisher was sent in by Coach Ossie Solem solely for the purpose of kicking goal.

Bishop, O'Brien, Kibbourne. Throughout the contest the fine defensive work of Bishop, O'Brien and Kibbourne stood out on the line. Masterson, Miller and Boswell were the main cogs in the offensive work.

Jack Miller, by his hard-running and sweeps, and his backing up of the line in the absence of George Sauer, featured the work. Roby, speedy end, played an excellent offensive game and supplemented the punting of Clair Bishop.

During the major portion of the contest, LaNoue did the kicking when Roby wasn't in the tilt. Coppel was one of the main cogs in the defensive machine.

Boswell's run of 23 yards early in the second quarter was one of the day's features. Boswell received a pass from Masterson behind the line of scrimmage and sped around left end for a 23-yard jaunt before he was finally downed on the Iowa 40-yard line. Jack Miller's end sweep of 6 yards plus another pass from Masterson to Boswell netting 3 yards placed the Husker's again in an advantageous position. However, at this point Nebraska was thrown for an 11-yard loss when an attempted fake punt, turned into an end run, failed.

Pass Nearly Complete. Another sensational long pass to Kibbourne was nearly completed by Nebraska in the third quarter, but the wind carried the ball just beyond Kibbourne's finger tips after he had eluded the Iowa safety.

In the fourth quarter, following Iowa's only touchdown, Masterson, on the play after receiving Crayne's kickoff, ripped through the center of the line for 19 yards making a first down for Nebraska. A play later, LaNoue broke loose on one of his end sweeps and raced 33 yards before being halted on the Iowa 33-yard marker. LaNoue's run was the longest of the day and for a while it looked as if it would result in a touchdown.

However, failing to gain against the Hawkeye forward wall, LaNoue placed a nice punt out of bounds on the Iowa 4-yard line. Again it looked as if Boswell would break loose on one of his pet long runs when Crayne, kicking from the end zone, punted to Boswell on the Iowa 30-yard stripe. Bos' displaying excellent ability in broken field running, cut and zigzagged through Coach Solem's gridmen for 24 yards before finally being brought down on the Hawkeye 6-yard stripe. Boswell seems to have had his usual run of hard luck as he momentarily lost his balance and was tackled by Laws. Nebraska lost five on the next play as the game ended.

Score by periods:

Iowa	6	0	0	6	6

Scoring: Nebraska—Touchdown, Masterson. Try for point, Masterson (place-kick). Iowa—Touchdown, Crayne. NEW SWEETHEART NAMED AT REVUE

(Continued from Page 1.) Kosmet respectively. George Sauer was presented as Prince Kosmet and received the new sweetheart as she stepped from a heart-shaped opening in a huge map of Nebraska which occupied the center of the stage. Philip Spoerry, 6 year old son of Captain and Mrs. G. W. Spoerry, presented the sweetheart with a huge bouquet of red and white chrysanthemums.

Novel Presentation. A novel form of presenting the sweetheart was used this year. The court scene was revealed with the king and queen on their thrones which were on opposite sides of the map, while Kosmet Klub members served as court attendants. As the lights were lowered and the court members and audience broke into the theme song, "Sweet Nebraska Sweetheart," while the orchestra played, Miss Haussemer's silhouette was cast against the screen covering the opening through which she appeared a few moments later.

Miss Haussemer was chosen by male students of the university from among seven candidates who had filed for the honor, at a special election held under student council supervision November 14. The election is an annual event, the results of which are kept secret until the conclusion of the fall revue.

Indiana Professor of Law Declares That Immediate Result of Repeal Of Eighteenth Amendment Chaotic

Editor's note: In a recent edition of the Daily Cardinal an Indiana professor expressed some new views on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. He declares that the real reason for people's voting for repeal and the reasons people thought they were using are entirely different. The Daily Nebraskan is reprinting this article, for it casts an interesting light on the current question.

Why do you think the people of the United States have repealed the Eighteenth amendment? writes Prof. Hugh E. Willis of the law school of the University of Indiana. I am afraid that I should not give the real reasons why the people of the United States have repealed the Eighteenth amendment. They would not be complimentary to the people of the United States and they might resent them. But undoubtedly the reasons why most of the people thought they were voting to repeal the Eighteenth amendment were principally three: (1) To get rid of social control and obtain personal liberty in a field regarded as non-economic. This was a point emphasized by a great many intellectuals. (2) To substitute state control for federal control. And (3) To get rid of bootleggers and lawlessness in general. The last two points were stressed by a great many politicians.

Immediate Result. What do you think will be the immediate result of the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment? The immediate result of the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, in my judgment, will be chaotic. One thing is sure; those people who thought they were going to get personal liberty in the matter of the liquor traffic will be disappointed. We shall have just as much social control as ever. The liquor traffic is too great a social menace for it to be freed from social control. Probably we shall have more state control than we have had in the immediate past, but this state control may vary in different states. It probably will run all the way from state-wide prohibition thru local option and high license and the prohibition of the saloon to the open saloon. The plan of either a governmental or private monopoly may be tried in some states. However, social control will not stop here. The repeal of the Eighteenth amendment will not stop federal control. As a matter of fact, we probably will have more federal control than before the Eighteenth amendment. There is talk now of extending the NRA into this field. Another thing is sure. The repeal of the Eighteenth amendment will not stop bootlegging and lawlessness. One further argument for the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment was the possibility of obtaining revenue in times of depression, and to accomplish this purpose both the federal government and the states will levy high taxes upon the liquor manufacturers and distributors.

Bootlegging to Continue. This will give the bootleggers just as great an opportunity as they have ever had. The government can not have both its revenue and freedom from bootleggers. Of course, the brewers and the distillers are now petitioning the United States government to protect them against bootleggers, and there is a possibility that the government may do for the liquor interests what it has failed to do for the people of the United States who wanted the enforcement of the prohibition law. One criticism of the Eighteenth amendment was that it was in the form of legislation, but the new Twenty-first amendment is also, so far as it goes, in the form of legislation rather than a grant of power. The repeal of the Eighteenth amendment has not solved any problem, but has merely created new problems.

Final Solution. What do you think will be the final solution of the liquor problem in the United States? My guess as to the final solution of the liquor problem in the United States is that we will continue to delimit the personal liberty of those who want to manufacture, transport and sell intoxicating liquors and that in the end we shall have just as much federal control under the Twenty-first amendment and the interstate commerce clause and the postal clause of the federal constitution as we formerly had under the Eighteenth amendment. The control of the liquor traffic is a national problem; the Twenty-first amendment admits this; the United States supreme court decisions have said this; the Roosevelt administration is acting on this assumption; there is no escape from this position. Of course, the federal government, to exercise its control, will have to act under implied authority instead of express authority, but the same result can be obtained. Whether or not the federal government will undertake to exercise its social control in the same old way or a new way, of course can not be prophesied. My guess is that it will be in a new way. Undoubtedly, social control of the traffic in beer and perhaps light wines will no longer be undertaken, but this might have happened under the Eighteenth amendment. Perhaps the federal government will try to act on some of the plans proposed by the Wickersham commission. So far as the stopping of bootlegging and lawlessness is concerned, that reform will not come, in my judgment, through any control of other parts of our machinery of social control not connected therewith.

Effect on Prosperity. Do you think the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment will help to restore prosperity? No, I do not believe the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment will have any appreciable effect in restoring prosperity. It is true that the brewers and the distillers will furnish some new employment and that both the federal and state governments will obtain some revenue from taxing the liquor traffic. But the taxes paid will ultimately be passed on to the same people who have heretofore been carrying more than their share of the tax burden. Any new purchasing power arising from wages paid
