CHANCELLOR ISSUES SPECIAL INVITATION TO WINTER CONCERT

Annual Program of Nebraska Band Will Be Held in Coliseum Sunday.

A special invitation to faculty members and university students to attend the annual winter concert of the University band to be presented in the Coliseum Sunday afternoon, Jan. 14, at 3 o'clock, was contained in a statement issued by Chancellor E. A. Burnett.

Admission to the concert is free. "I am very desirous," Chancellor Burnett stated, "that there be developed in this university a greater appreciation of student organizations that contribute to the life of the institution. It is a little disappointing to arrange a concert, have several thousand people there from outside the university community, and find only a comparatively small proportion of our faculty and students in attendance."

Occupies Prominent Place.

The chancellor, in commenting on the fine quality and loyalty of the band, pointed out that it occupies a prominent position among the nation's college bands.

More than 100 student musicians are expected to take part in the concert Sunday which will be under the direction of Bandmaster W. T. Quick. One of the features of the varied program will be the playing of the "University of Nebraska March," written for the University of Nebraska and its band by the late John Philip Sousa, renowned bandmaster. Sousa presented the Nebraska band with a cup in 1926 because of its excellent performance.

Richard Harrison, Negro Who Holds Lead in 'The Green Pastures,' Has Colorful Life; Got Role at Age of 66

It is not unusual in our youth-leaving theater for actors to play leading roles at the age of 16. The Jackie Coopers and the Jackie Coogans, have been stars at 6. But it is very unusual indeed for an actor to make his debut in a leading role at the age of 66. But that is what Richard B. Harrison did, when on Feb. 26, 1930, he played at the Mansfield theater in New York. Lincoln amusement lovers will see him repeat that fine performance when the famous Pulitzer prize play comes to the Liberty, Jan. 15, for afternoon and night presentation.

Has Extraordinary Gifts.

Seasoned play-goers immediately recognized Harrison as an actor of extraordinary gifts. They assumed that overnight a miracle had been wrought, and that the need of Marc Connelly's beautiful play for a Negro actor of great benignity and charm and distinction had somehow created the man. That, of course, was not so. Richard Harrison, the very distinguished player had been created in the way that distinguished players are always created—thru a long process of education and training and gradual refinement. Tho he was unknown to the sophisticated audiences that watched his "performances" with a kind of unbelieving awe, he was very much of a personage in another world, where

THETA SIGMA PHI MEETS

Women's Journalistic Group Plans for Initiation of Three Pledges.

Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalistic sorority, met last night at Ellen Smith hall. Plans were made for the initiation of three members Nancy Field, Margaret Eansterday and Violet Cross. These pledges will probably be initiated on Jan. 31. After first semester grades are issued arrangements will be made to initiate the remainder of the pledge class. The meeting was concluded with a discussion of national convocation and of delegates to be sent to the session. Carolyn Van Anda, president of the organization, announces that no meetings will be held for the next two weeks on account of semester examinations.

ELECTION OF YW OFFICERS TO BE HELD ON JAN. 16

Four Offices Will Be Filled; Nominees Announced Next Sunday.

The annual elections for Y. W. C. A. officers will be held Tuesday, Jan. 16 on both campuses. The nominees who are to be announced next Sunday are being selected by a special nominating committee consisting of two senior members from the cabinet and one member of the advisory board. Miss Bernice Miller, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., is an unofficial member of this committee. The offices which must be filled are those of president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, the president appointing the cabinet. On the agricultural campus the candidate defeated for presidency becomes vice president.

Every Member on a Staff.

Miss Miller hopes to have every member of the organization on one of the various staffs and urges all girls who are interested to report to her.

The polls will be open from 2 to 5 in the afternoon giving plenty of time for every one to vote. Usually the elections are held in March but it was believed that by installing the officers at the first of the semester they would become acquainted with the work earlier and be better able to carry it out.

The audience forgot that only one person composed the cast, so expertly were the changes made. Rank is a graduate of Nebraska, and served a year as an assistant in the dramatics department headed by Miss Howell who highly praised his work.

Rank wrote the play which is an adaptation of Hubert Dail's "The Ape Monster," personally designed the scenery, and played the parts of five characters, proving his versatility.

Galaxy of Entertainment Promised Students at the First All-University Ice Carnival at Oak Creek Tonight

Threading a needle on the ice when you can just as well thread it in a rocking chair and keep warm while you're at it may seem a waste of time. But variety is the spice of life, and if you would add a bit of color to an existence made otherwise drab by oncoming examinations, come out to the ice carnival to be held Thursday evening, Jan. 11, at Oak Creek park at 7:30.

Not only will you witness a needle threading race, but also such other highly diverting sports as a chair race, exhibition skating, and a hockey game between the two political factions on the campus. All this, mind you, on a glossy, smooth ice rink, the largest in the city. To further add to your entertainment three amplifiers will be used to bring music and announcements of the events. And all this is gratis, no admission being charged.
