Petitions Presented.

Two petitions presented by Lee oung, senior class president, were tabled by the council until their next meeting. The first calling for changing the Junior-Senior Prom ommittee from twelve juniors to six juniors and six seniors, was not received very warmly as members felt that it was too late to do anything about it this year.

Young contended that he could no reason why the juniors should give the party and call it a junior-senior affair when the eniors were charged for attending Members of the council stated that the committee would not be any more representative of the student body if it were changed.

The second petition presented by Young providing for a standing faculty committee to supervise each and every student election was strongly opposed by members of the council. Young, in defendng the petition, declared that it d from all criticism which might fall upon it, and stated that it would relieve the position of the group if definite proof of an honest lection were had in the form of a faculty supervising committee.

The pictures exhibited were drawings, produced entirely by hand, are required for each film, for which about eight weeks are required for completion. Altho Walt Disney has surrounded him-self with a staff of more than a hundred talented artists, musicians and writers, he is himself responsi-ble for the major portion of the ideas and drawings.

He usually selects the subject and makes a series of key drawings, covering the main situations in the plot An artist at the Mickey Mouse studio must serve a long term of apprenticeship doing just ears or tails or feet before he is entrusted with more finished drawings, which is one reason that the cost with of making a Mickey Mouse picture is greater per foot than that of a full-length feature picture.

Great attention is paid to de-tails and the musical score which forms the background for the production is enormously important, since the number of beats in a phrase of the music determines how many movements Mickey can make in as many feet of film. The drawings will be on exhibit until Saturday, Feb. 10.

EARLY APPROVAL OF NEW ARMORY

Government Funds Already 'Earmarked' States E. A. Burnett.

Burnett Returns Wednesday Morning From Trip to Washington.

federal projects could be secured by Chancellor E. A. Burnett of the on the ballot University who returned to Lincoln Wednesday morning after a ten day trip to the east. While in Washington he interviewed the Nebraska delegation in congress; Secretary of War George H. Dern; Col. H. M. Waite: Col. Fred E. Col. H. M. Waite; Col. Fred E. Schnetfe, head of federal building projects division; Congressman J. J. McSwain of South Carolina. McSwain chairman of the military affairs committee: and others.

War Funds Not Available.

Little hope for the erection of the Pershing Memorial armory was held by the chancellor unless it should be provided for from specific appropriations now before congress. Chancellor Burnett found that all of the PWA funds set aside for war department use have already been "earmarked" for other purposes and that it was not probable that an outright grant to a single state for an armory would be made because of the danger of establishing precedents. He found that had the building been planned on a 70-30 basis that the chances of early approval would be greatly increased. The PWA commission has not given a definite decision on the armory project.

No New Projects.

A policy of not approving new projects until additional funds are available will stop the university's move to secure federal aid for destitute students, unless the request of Commissioner of Educa-tion George F. Zook for $3,000.000 per month from CWS funds is included in the new grant now be-fore congress for its approval Then it would be handled as a state project.

The budget items now before congress would seriously hamper engineering, agricultural work, and agricultural extension and experimentation, reported the chan-cellor. One bill would reduce federal appropriations to land (Continued on Page 3.)
