EXCEPT FOR THE BALL TUESDAY night it's beginning to look as if the only mid-week activities of any consequence are the rush parties which are being given for the mid-year graduates of the high schools. For the last couple of days, both sororities and fraternities have been busy with luncheons, teas and dinners, and the Moon has become a rendezvous for informal rush parties. It would seem that until final pledging studies will be neglected for the more important business of the moment.

NO MATTER what else happens, fraternity elections still go on. This time it's the Tekes. At their meeting last Monday night the following officers were chosen: Bob Thorpe, president; Russell Gilman, vice president; Earl Carstensen, treasurer; Mike Smith, secretary; Dick Stines, historian; Dee Griffith, sergeant-at-arms; and Jack Pheilan, pledge master.

At a luncheon at the University club on Saturday Miss Florence Panter will be hostess to eight guests.

VARIETY PROGRAM IS OFFERED BY STUDENTS

Art Bailey Is Master of Ceremonies; Satire Presented.

A satire on women card players, "If Men Played Cards as Women Do," was featured in the variety program of the monthly dramatic art departmental night held last evening in the Temple theater.

With Art Bailey as master of ceremonies, the parade of home talent included child wonders, a piano soloist, and transported the audience from a haughty king's court to the forest in the vicinity of Peter Rabbit's home, and back to the wedding of the painted doll, with short stops to hear about Hamlet's tonsils, and the adventures of one of Kipling's British officers in India.

The cast for "If Men Played Cards as Women Do" included: John, played by Dwight Perkins; Mark, Bob Chase; George, Melvin Fielder; Bob, Don Crow. The rest of the program is as follows: "Two Slatterns and a King," Kathleen Carraber; "The Adventures of Peter Rabbit" by Mr. Yenne's fine arts 55 class; a take-off on Hamlet, Margaret Carpenter; "The Child Wonder," Lois Patterson and Art Bailey; piano solos by Henry Barbour and Douglas Harper; Kipling's "East is West," by Francis Brandt; "Wedding of the Painted Doll," the sophomores.
