ning, socialites will again don their formals and tuxes to attend the Delta Gamma party which is also to be held at the Cornhusker. This, incidentally, is one of the three final formals of the season, which closes on March 9, Mrs. Gertrude Adams, Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Arndt, and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Oldfather are to be the chaperons.

THE PLEDGES of Sigma Chi are giving a dance this evening in the party room of the President apartments. About forty couples are expected, Chaperons are to be Mrs. Cora Bently, C. L. Larson, and R. C. Dein.

AND THE REASON for the decorations to be used at the Sigma Phi Sigma house party tonight is obvious. George Washington is in the limelight this week and cherry trees, hatchets, ctc. will be used as the motif. Chaperons are Fred W. Deaken, Mrs. Fannie Schnell, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Olon. play for the first time during the current congressional session loomed as revolt brewed in the senate against the veterans' pension bill. President Roosevelt' recommendations were considered too low by many senators, despite the fact that the present bill calls for an increase over last year's appropriations in response to the demands of a strong vets bonus lobby.

Definite steps to end the air mail emergency were being taken in Washington as the president and the justice department to work on new mail contracts. Altho the nature of the contracts was kept secret, it was known that new arrangements with private companies would be on a "cost-plus" system designed to keep expenditures at a minimum, and effect a saving of millions of dollars.

(Continued from Page 1). development of democracy the Nebraska senior senator described the development of our present national government. Bringing out the fact that as education progresses more changes in the setup of gov-ernment are demanded. he stated that our people are now sufficient-ly civilized and educated to know what kind of government they want and the type of laws they want enacted to enforce the government among themselves. Stressing the evil of the conference committee. Norris presented some of the defects of the present plan of bi-cameral legislatures and showed where his plan would rem-edy the situation. The conference committee, he asserted, is, in reality, a third house of the legislature but the people have no voice in its election. Yet, it is many times "the most important branch of the leg-islature." he declared. With a one house body this would be impossible

Representation Large.

As to membership the speaker declared that under the present system the representation is too large. With a smaller number as would be had under the proposal, much money would be saved for the taxpayers. "It would not only do away with many of the evils that now exist, but the business of the state would be transacted at the state would be transacted at less cost," he stated.

Stating that the state is a busi-ness institution and should be conducted on business principles. Nor-ris advanced the idea that members of the unicameral legislature should be elected on a nonpartisan basis. "The issues which divide the great political parties in our country," he said, "should in no way interfere with the business operations of the state.

Free From Corruption.

Drawing upon his long experi-ence as a statesman the senator declared that "A one house legis-lature, composed of comparatively small number would be much more free from corrupt influences than would a two house legislature, or
