AG STUDENTS TO HEAR ALEXIS AT FOURTH CONCLAVE

Professor of German Will Speak on Impressions of Mediterranean.

HAS TRAVELED WIDELY

Convocations Sponsored by Student and Faculty Committee.

Students on the Ag college campus will assemble Thursday, March 8, at agricultural hall for the fourth of a special series of convocations. Roy Blaser, president of the convocations committee, announced Monday. The speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Joseph E. A. Alexis, professor of Germanic languages and chairman of that department.

The subject of Dr. Alexis' address Thursday, according to the convocations committee, will be "Impressions from the Mediterranean." It will touch upon topics pertaining to Spain, Italy, Greece, Egypt, and numerous other countries. The student-faculty sponsored convocations have been well attended, Blaser said, and the address Thursday is expected to draw a record attendance.

Dr. Alexis, the committee members said, has traveled recently in numerous foreign countries. He knows first hand the set up of their social, economic and political institutions. His address Thursday is expected to cover a wide range of topics of interest concerning European countries.

Few Ag students, Blaser pointed out, have had an opportunity to contact with Dr. Alexis in their classes, and the convocation Thursday will afford them an opportunity not only to learn interesting facts about European countries but also to meet an interesting and widely traveled member of the Nebraska faculty.

The convocation Thursday is the fourth of a series sponsored by the student-faculty convocations committee organized last fall to bring to Ag campus men who speak with understanding and authority on broad social, political and cultural subjects. The committee was organized, its members say, because it was recognized that Ag college courses tend to be technical, specialized and restricted in scope, and that more broadening and general influences are needed on the campus.

Dr. Patterson to Address Doane Students March 7

Dr. C. H. Patterson, assistant professor of philosophy at the university, will address a Doane college convocation at Crete, March 7. His subject will be "Christian Ideals in a Selfish World."

Lancaster Says People May Vote On Unicameral Legislature Next Fall if Present Plans Work Out

"If present plans materialize, the voters of Nebraska will have the opportunity next fall to pass upon a proposal to establish for the state a legislature of a single house," according to Prof. Lancaster of the Political Science department in the Sunday Journal and Star.

The idea is a definite departure from any previous form of American state government, and is the subject of numerous controversies. If the proposal goes through, the legislature will consist of not fewer than thirty nor more than fifty members, elected in the same manner as the present system on a non-partisan ballot.

SIXTH ALL-UNIVERSITY PARTY ON AG CAMPUS

Arrangements Complete for Barb Council's Dance Saturday Night.

Saturday night at 8:30 the sixth All-University party of the school year is to be staged in the Student Activities building on the Ag college campus. This will be the first one of these affairs sponsored by the Barb council to be held on the Ag campus this year.

According to an announcement made by Marjorie Filley, vice-chairman of the council in charge of arrangements, Rose Bullin's orchestra will play for the affair. This Lincoln band has proven highly popular at Ag mixers throughout the year.

All arrangements for the dance have been completed, and the committee is beginning with plans for the final party of the season, set for Saturday night, March 31, in the Student Activities building. It is possible that another party for the Coliseum will be arranged by the council. No date for this tentative affair has been set, but it probably would be held late in March. Five parties have been held in the field house this year.

TICKET SALESMEN SAY ADVANCE SALE IS GOOD

Ticket sales for the junior-senior prom, according to Roma DeBrown and Fred Nicklas, committee members in charge, have been good. At a meeting yesterday afternoon of salesmen it was discovered that the advance sale has been satisfactory.

"This would seem to indicate that most of the students have made plans to attend the prom," they stated. Arrangements for the last formal of the present season are practically complete, members of the committee yesterday declared.

Chaperons for the affair will be announced tomorrow, according to Owen Johnson, in charge of that division of the committee.

According to Bill Fisher, chairman of the committee, the plans for presentation of the 1934 Prom Girl are being worked out by Harold Soderlund, winner of the committee's contest for presentation plans. "Soderlund's plan presents an unusual and spectacular method of presenting the winning candidate," Fisher said.

Tickets will be sold at the gate Friday night and special arrangements have been made to accommodate a large number of spectators in the balcony the night of the Prom, it was learned.

COUNCIL PLANS TO INVESTIGATE CAMPUS GROUPS

Governing Body Will Study By-Laws of All Clubs This Week.

MAY DEMAND REVISION

Work of Organizations to Be Check Against Rules of Constitution.

Investigation of the constitutions of all campus organizations will be made this week as the next step in the Student Council's policy to renovate campus groups.

The Tri-K-Club, Pharmaceutical club, Gamma Lambda, and the Dramatic club are still temporarily inoperable following their suspension by the council last week.

Roma DeBrown, chairman, Maynard Miller, and Adele Thombrink are the members of the committee that will conduct the investigation to last thruout the week. All the constitutions will be read and carefully checked with the present policies of the organization. Any group that has deviated too far from its by-laws will be aided in reorganization to a correct working basis by the council. This week a meeting of the heads of all groups will be held to discuss the exact procedure to be taken.

Four Reinstated. This investigation follows the order of the council given to all groups to submit their constitutions for approval. Eight of the groups failed to comply with the order and were temporarily suspended. The A. W. S. board and the Ag Executive board were favored by the Y. M. C. A. and the Girl's Commercial club to receive reinstatement before the week was over. The four groups yet suspended will not be reinstated until their constitutions are received by the council.

First action of the council came last fall with the temporary abolishment of the Corn Cobs. Whether any organization will be permanently banished from the campus depends upon the outcome of the committee's investigation.

This is the tale of the Lost and Found department that was lost. But don't be alarmed, for it has been discovered by a Nebraska reporter in J. K. Selleck's office in the Coliseum.

The "department" upon investigation was found to contain: Several varieties of gloves, (but not a pair among them), one banker's two books, one pencil, and a "diamond" earring (of the dime store type).

The Lost and Found department, several years ago, was located in the Student Activities office in the old Armory. When the Coliseum was built, the department was moved to the Nebraska office. Members of the staff complained that they had no one officially designated to take care of it and that most of the "customers" were people trying to see what they could find for themselves rather than looking for articles they had lost, and so the department was moved back to Mr. Selleck's office again, this time in the Coliseum.

According to Mr. Selleck very few students know that the office exists, and those who do know of it find that it is too far from the main part of the campus to bother about. He says that he would like to see it moved to a central and more convenient place on the campus.

Members Nebraska Faculty Return From Cleveland National Educational Convention; Report Brighter Outlook

Ten faculty members who took part in the convention of the National Education Association which met in Cleveland have returned to the Nebraska campus.

Group discussions of problems involving education were the chief features of the convention according to those professors who have returned.

R. D. Moritz, director of the department of educational research, met with the National Vocational Guidance association whose purpose is to find placements for university graduates. He says that the general opinion at the meetings is that the outlook for placements for teachers is more favorable this year than last.

He said that particular stress was put on the necessity for a better advisory system in directing students in the channels for which they are best fitted. Students are left to their own resources too much in choosing their courses and needed a closer contact with a personnel director.

Dr. A. R. Congdon, professor of the pedagogy of mathematics was elected vice president of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. Trends in the teaching of mathematics were discussed at the meetings of that organization.

Despite the fact its reputation is such that stories and poems have been reprinted from it in such works as Edward O'Brien's "Best Short Stories" and that critics have consistently rated it along with such magazines as Harper's and the Atlantic Monthly, its editors feel that it is not well known to the people of the middle west.
