

DALTON TO SPEAK AT CONVOCATION

Famous British Economist and Parliamentarian Will Address Students in Temple This Morning at Second of Series of Conclaves.

ECONOMIC EXPERIMENTS OF NATIONS IS TOPIC

Lecturer Prominent in Academic and Political Fields; Visitor Will Be Guest of Business Men and Faculty at Luncheon Today.

At an all-student convocation Thursday morning at 11 o'clock in the Temple auditorium, Hugh Dalton, well-known English economist, educator, parliamentarian, and lecturer will deliver an address on the subject "Economic Planning in Theory and Practice." This is the second of a series of three convocations which has been planned by the faculty convocation committee, the first talk having been presented by Lorado Taft, sculptor, Tuesday, Feb. 27.

Mr. Dalton expects to discuss some of the chief experiments in the field of economics undertaken by various nations throughout the world, with special reference to the problems arising from the repeated fall of prices since the debacle of 1929.

Wins Distinction. Having won distinction in both academic and political fields, Mr. Dalton has, since 1919, been reader in economics at the London School of Economics, connected with the University of London. From 1924 to 1931 he was a member of the English parliament, and from 1929 to 1931 was under-secretary to foreign affairs under the Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson.

Mr. Dalton attended Elton and is a graduate of King's college, Cambridge university, and is now barrister at law of the Middle Temple. He has recently been brought to the United States for a six week's lecture tour by the University of Chicago, and it was thru that institution that Nebraska obtained him for Thursday's convocation.

At noon Thursday a luncheon for Mr. Dalton will be held at the Chamber of Commerce, with social science faculty, professional and business men of Lincoln, and members of the university administration attending. More than 100 guests are expected to attend the affair.

TASSELS PLAN FOR NATIONAL CONCLAVE

Meeting of Phi Sigma Chi To Be Held April 21 At Lawrence.

The national convention of Phi Sigma Chi, national pep organization at Lawrence, Kas., on April 21, was the topic for discussion at a meeting of the Tassels Tuesday evening. The chief topic of the convention will be a consideration of ways in which to encourage a definite spirit of enthusiasm on the campuses concerned.

Anne Bunting, who is national president of the society and Wanda Edmonds, Lawrence, national vice president, will be in charge of the convention. The four universities now comprising the organization are Nebraska, Lawrence, Manhattan, and Ames. This is the third national meeting, the first being held at Nebraska, and the second at Manhattan.

It was also decided that the Tassels will usher for the University Symphony concert to be held March 18 in the coliseum.

TODAY'S NEWS Briefly Reviewed

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, speaking at one of the several hearings of code authorities Wednesday afternoon, gave notice that he would appeal to them for support of a 10 percent reduction of code working hours in all industries that can stand such curtailment. Due to the fact that dealing with each of the 600 codes individually on this point would be extremely complex and difficult, General Johnson informed the authorities that the ruling would have to be a general one. Johnson stated that he wished to emphasize the fact that the order would not be mandatory. The details of the program will be worked out later according to the executive.

Farmers around Atchison, Kas., along the Missouri river have been run out of their homes by waters of the swollen stream. 10,000 acres of bottom lands have been flooded by the swirling waters, fifty persons are marooned, and five are missing. The flood waters were piling up behind a twenty-five foot ice jam. People in many isolated houses were being saved from the flood by boatmen risking their lives among the blocks of floating ice. No lives had been reported lost up to Wednesday evening, but livestock loss has proven heavy, two farmers losing 600 head each. The river has spread out to the width of a mile, usually flowing through a channel of 60 to 70 feet in width, and the flood has been termed the worst in the district since 1881.

AG CONVOCATION TODAY FEATURES TALK BY ALEXIS

Mediterranean Countries to Be Subject of Fourth Conclave Address.

Conditions in Spain, Italy, Greece, Egypt and other countries will be discussed by Dr. Joseph E. A. Alexis, chairman of the Germanic language department, when he presents his address entitled "Impressions from the Mediterranean" to students gathered at Agricultural hall today at 4 o'clock.

Doctor Alexis, whose address will touch on a number of subjects pertaining to European countries, has travelled extensively and is familiar with the social, economic and political structures of foreign nations.

Broaden Ag Influences. The gathering today will be the fourth of a series of special convocations held for the purpose of bringing to the ag campus men who speak with understanding and authority on subjects of a social, political, and cultural nature. The series is sponsored by the student-faculty convocations committee which was organized last fall by people who recognized the need of broadening influences upon the ag campus. The fact was recognized that courses at Ag college tend to be technical, specialized and restricted in scope. According to Roy Blaser, chairman of the committee, the convocations have been well attended.

The convocation today will not only be instructive as to affairs in foreign lands, but will give Ag college students the opportunity of meeting an interesting and widely travelled member of the faculty, with whom not many of them come into contact in classes.

350 STUDENTS ARE EMPLOYED AT K. U.

Work Long Accumulated Is Being Cleared Up by CWA Employees.

LAWRENCE, Kas., March 7.—Literally scores of different jobs are being carried on at the University of Kansas by the 350 students employed under the federal grant for student employment, according to Raymond Nichols, executive secretary to the chancellor and assigned to handling details of the student employment project.

In no case was a student on the federal project assigned to duties already being performed, and thus it has been possible for a large number of campus activities that have had to fall behind in recent years. Without making any effort to arrange the projects in any particular order, Mr. Nichols listed these as among the activities of students on federal jobs:

Clerical assistants in numerous offices on the campus. Repairing of apparatus and equipment for laboratories. Artists (for making charts for research problems). Assistant librarians. Bibliographical assistants in the bureau of governmental research. Book repairers, especially for the law library. Cabinet-makers, to provide display space for entomology department. Assistants in departments of botany and entomology, classifying and displaying hundreds of collected specimens. Assistants to prepare exhibit material for museums of paleontology, geology, and mammalogy. Dish-washers (in special laboratories). Greenhouse gardeners, for departments of botany and pharmacy. Stenographers and typists. Printers, painters, and recording clerks. Night supervisors for music and drafting class rooms. Elevator operators at Bell Hospital, Kansas City, during visiting hours. Model maker (for department of mathematics).

In some cases, the student assistance relieves a faculty member of detailed labor, but in many, the student's work represents a clearing-up of work long accumulated, as for example, the filing of clippings from the University Daily Kansan, in the department of journalism. The file goes back twelve or fifteen years, but at some points, where the assistance was not of the best, filing was lax. This is now being corrected, with a complete and adequate file for use of the student reporters.

EDITOR PLACES MARCH AWGWAN ON SALE TODAY

Humor Magazine Follows Satirical Effect of Vanity Fair.

PROM IS EMPHASIZED

Special Articles and New Features Enliven Publication.

The Awgwan for March, a takeoff on Vanity Fair, is on sale today. Copies of the magazine were placed in booths in the Social Science building, Andrews and Mechanical Arts halls this morning.

According to Rosalie Lamme, editor of the publication, the new issue promises to be the best and most interesting number this year. Emphasizing the junior-senior prom in its theme, it reproduces, satirically, many of the features of the nationally known humor publication.

Marvin Robinson, past editor of the magazine whose drawings and cartoons have often appeared in the Awgwan has designed the cover for the current issue. Robert Pierce, staff artist, and Dwight Kirsch, with Robinson have furnished the art work appearing in this month's publication.

New Features. New features are expected to draw quite a bit of attention and enliven the magazine. Bruce Nicoll has produced "Corn College Tradition" and from the pen of Richard Moran is an article entitled "Petty Politics."

In "A Basic Campus Wardrobe," Charles Bursik, men's fashion editor, comments on the latest clothes for college men. Martha DeWeese tells about women's fashions in her "Gowns by DeWeese."

Two articles by Maurice Johnson, "We Suggest for the Hall of Fame" and "The Editor's Electric Chair" also appear in this issue.

PROM TO BE OPEN TO ALL STUDENTS FISHER DECLARES

Committee Completes Final Arrangements for Event.

Final arrangements for the junior-senior prom were made at the meeting of the prom committee Wednesday afternoon in the student council room in University hall. Reports from all of the sub-committees were heard by Bill Fisher, the chairman of the committee.

"The junior-senior prom committee wishes to emphasize the fact that the dance is open to freshmen and sophomores as well as juniors and seniors," stated Fisher following the meeting. "All students are welcome to attend this last formal of the season."

Accommodations for spectators have also been arranged for, with room provided for several hundred people who may wish to view the presentation of the prom girl.

At the committee meeting elaborate plans for the presentation were completed and all minor details ironed out by the group. Charles Galloway and Arlene Bors are in charge of this phase of the proceedings as well as supervising decorations.

DECLARE CORNHUSKER SALES SATISFACTORY

No Copies of Yearbook to Be Available After Close of Final Drive.

The final sales drive of the 1934 Cornhusker was progressing satisfactorily at the end of the third day of the drive Wednesday evening, Robert Thiel, business manager of the yearbook, announced. No official count of the number sold thus far was available at that time.

The sale, which is to close March 10, is the last opportunity for students to secure copies of the 1934 annual, Thiel declared. The book is offered on a basis of $4.50 cash or $2.50 down and the balance of $2.25 on delivery of the book. Orders may be placed with salesman who are covering each of the organized houses on the campus, at the Daily Nebraskan distribution booth in Social Science, or at the Cornhusker office.

Will Address Seniors

OWEN D. YOUNG.

SALES DRIVE FOR PRAIRIE SCHOONER WILL OPEN TODAY

Final Organization of Teams To Be Made at Meeting In Temple.

Opening the sales drive and expansion campaign of the Prairie Schooner, a meeting will be held this afternoon at 4:30 in the Y. M. C. A. rooms in the Temple theater for all driven workers.

Final organization of teams and instructions and materials to workers will be given out at this meeting. Dr. Lowry C. Wimberly, editor of the Schooner, will give a talk on the literary value of the magazine and will explain its nature and origin. A brief program of entertainment, the main feature of which will be several readings by Herb Yenne, instructor in the dramatics department, has also been planned. Gwen Thompson, associate editor, will preside and will also say a few words to the workers.

Goal is 500 Subscriptions. The goal of the drive—500 subscriptions—will be graphically presented by workers by a poster showing in silhouette a prairie schooner being drawn by ten horses, representing the ten teams, over a trek of 500 miles. The poster is the work of the poster staff of the Y. W. C. A. under the direction of Ruth Allen.

Having as its main purpose to make the Prairie Schooner well-known in Nebraska and the middle west, as it already known away from its birthplace, the campaign will emphasize the value of the magazine as an outlet for the talents of midwestern writers. It was in this interest that the publication (Continued on Page 2.)

COUNCIL COMPLETES PARTY ARRANGEMENTS

Sixth All-University Dance Scheduled for Ag Campus Saturday Night.

Chaperons for the sixth all-university party of the year were announced Wednesday evening by Margaret Medlar, chaperon chairman of the Barb council, which is in charge of the functions. The sponsors of the party are to be Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Keim, Miss Margaret Fedde, and Dr. and Mrs. Pelfer.

Saturday night at 8:30 is the time set for this Varsity party which is to be held in the Student Activities building on the ag college campus. This is the first of the seven parties of the season to be held on the ag college campus, and is the next to the last of the season's all-student affairs, the final of the year coming on March 31 at the same place. There is a possibility that an additional party for the city campus will be staged in the coliseum sometime late in March, but no definite arrangements have been made as yet.

All Students Invited. Marjorie Filley, who is in charge of the party Saturday night, stated that all arrangements have been made for the dance, and that a large crowd is expected to attend. Rose Bulin and her orchestra will play for the function. This band has proven popular in previous parties, ag mixers, on the suburban campus. The party is open to all students of the university, and all of them are urged to attend.

DR. SAMUEL A. ELIOT GIVES BACCALAUREATE

Chancellor Says Nebraska Fortunate in Obtaining Two Outstanding Men for Annual Ceremony; Both Are Prominent in Respective Fields.

Owen D. Young of New York City, chairman of the board of directors of the General Electric company, director of many electrical corporations and banks, and internationally famous lawyer, will be the commencement speaker at the university's sixty-third annual commencement June 4. Word was received Wednesday morning by Chancellor E. A. Burnett of Mr. Young's acceptance of the university invitation to speak at that time. It will be the only commencement address Mr. Young will make this year.

Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, minister of the Arlington Street church of Boston, ex-president of the American Unitarian association, and son of the late President Eliot of Harvard, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, June 3, it was also announced.

"The university is only too fortunate in being able to secure two such outstanding speakers as Owen D. Young and Dr. Samuel Eliot for its commencement program," commented Chancellor Burnett in announcing the names. "I cannot speak too highly of them as outstanding leaders in their fields in the United States and men who should give their audiences a talk well worth coming hundreds of miles to hear."

Young Widely Known. Owen D. Young, who will deliver the commencement address, is one of the most widely known men in America. He has served on many industrial boards, governmental boards and committees, and on the boards of several colleges and universities.

Mr. Young attended St. Lawrence university in New York and holds degrees, most of them honorary, from eighteen other colleges and universities, including Boston, Union, Tufts, Harvard, Dartmouth, Johns Hopkins, Colgate, Columbia, Yale, Rutgers, Princeton, Lehigh, Brown, University of State of New York, Hamilton, California Wesleyan (Conn.), and New York university. He is president of the board of trustees of St. Lawrence university and on the advisory boards of several other schools.
