BRITISH SPEAKER IS HERE THURSDAY FOR CONVOCATION

Dalton Describes Economic Planning in Theory And Practice.

IS STUDYING DEPRESSION

Lecturer Points Out Seven Objectives He Believes Russia to Have.

Speaking for the first time before an American audience, Hugh Dalton, distinguished economist and British statesman, addressed a university convocation Thursday morning in the Temple theater. With the subject: "Economic Planning in Theory and Practice," Mr. Dalton described to his audience the plans which various countries are employing to fight the depression.

"It is my hope," he said, "that in the years ahead bold experiments along the lines of social and economic planning will lead the countries of the world out of the twilight of frustration into the sunlight of common interest which will be of benefit to all."

U. S. In Experiment.

In the United States to study its depression measures, Mr. Dalton said America had "plunged breast-deep into economic planning," in an experiment that would be of great importance to the world and economists as well as to ourselves. "However it ends," he stated, "it will be judged by history to have been a very gallant effort."

Planning, as defined by the speaker was the deliberate direction by persons in charge of large resources with free competition, he believes, and is a move away from the automatic direction thru price movements. Planning substitutes wider objectives, yet he warned, it was not to be confused with socialism, nor did it indicate dictatorship.

Economic Society.

"Both capitalism and socialism are best conceived," the economist said, "not in terms of all or nothing, but in quantity." For countries usually have more or less of each, he pointed out. Mr. Dalton described four kinds of economic society which he believed existed. His first was the old type where there was little of either planning or socialism. Secondly was the plan toward which he saw the United States and England moving. Calling this a planned capitalism, he spoke of it as having

TODAY'S NEWS Briefly Reviewed

J. E. Lawrence, who recently returned from Washington where he was tending official business in connection with Nebraska's public works advisory board of which he is a member, reports that this state leads all the rest. Nebraska's share of PWA grants is, he says, $13 per capita, an amount larger than that of any other state on the basis of population.

President Roosevelt, reversing his decision to remove airmail from private carriers, yesterday proclaimed that contracts would again be negotiated with private companies. Legislation, to carry out his newest plan will provide for "honest competitive bidding" for future contracts. He declared that the government intends to be absolutely fair to everyone concerned and to attain an honest service.

A dispatch from Washington announces that the house leadership has tentatively approved the 30-hour work week bill. Speaker Rayney and Majority Leader Byrnes have indicated they are inclined to favor this action.

NEW RUSH RULES ARE SANCTIONED BY PANHELLENIC

Revision Measures Receive Official Approval of Greek Council.

OPPOSE ONE PROVISION

Suggestion for Open Summer Activities Goes Back To Committee.

At a special meeting of Panhellenic Thursday at 5 o'clock at Teachers college delegates voted to accept all revised rushing rules discussed except one, e.g. a ruling summer rushing. Time did not permit a discussion of all revisions proposed by the committee that has been working on rules for the past several weeks. Suggestions accepted by the delegates include the following:

No high school girl except a sister or daughter of members of a sorority may be entertained at the sorority house. Only sisters or daughters from out of town may remain over night.

Closed Until Graduation.

No invitation may be extended to a high school graduate until 8 a. m. the morning following graduation exercises.

Any mixed gathering of 5 or more people where at least three members of a sorority are present is called a rushing party.

No favors may be used at any time except at the preference party. Simple place cards are not classed as favors.

Men cannot take rushes to or from a party during formal rush week.

No flower or favors may be sent to rushes.

Several objections were stated when the suggestion was read that summer rushing be open. After a short discussion it was decided to refer the measure back to the committee.

Every seat in the Ag hall auditorium was filled Thursday night when Prof. H. J. Gramlich, member of the advisory board, told students about past Farmers' Fairs.

Members of the senior, junior and advisory boards were introduced at the rally, and Arthur Peterson, 1934 manager, talked briefly on the big job students have ahead of them and appealed to the loyalty of every Ag man and woman to help make the fair the best it has ever been.

The program opened with songs and Farmers' Fair yells and included moving pictures of past fairs. The films, Miss Moffitt said, were secured from the office of Dr. Condra at the soil conservation and survey department.
