CHANGE DATE OF AG ELECTION TO MAY 22

Small Number of Candidates Filing for Positions Causes Change.

Ag college elections have been postponed from Thursday, May 17, to Tuesday, May 22, according to announcement made by Vernon Filley, president of the Ag executive board, Tuesday afternoon.

"Due to the fact that very few have filed, and because the executive board believes that more will file, the deadline will be extended to Saturday noon," stated Filley. Three boys and three girls are to be elected members of the senior Farmers Fair board. Before applicants are able to file they must have compiled a petition with the signatures of at least twenty-five students appended.

Officers of the Ag club, men's organization on the Ag campus, who are to be elected will fill the positions of president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer. The president and secretary will automatically become members of the Ag executive board.

Two girls and one boy are to be elected Tuesday to the Coll-Agri-Fun committee, and one boy and one girl are to be named to the Ag executive board as members-at-large.

All filings are to be made at the office of the dean of the College of Agriculture before Saturday noon. Filley urges as many Ag students as possible to sign up for candidacy for offices.

Walter Dean, also charged with murder, is the remaining member of the trio. Aubrey Ray being killed by Robbins when the chase ended in Prairie Home. Rivette was the driver of the fleeing car.

June Robles and William Gettle were both found Tuesday and no ransom was paid in exchange. Thus America's newest wave of kidnaping was climaxed with outstanding victories for the forces of law and order. June Robles, 6, was freed from a prison cave near Tucson, Ariz., where she had been held nineteen days. In Los Angeles, a police raid on a kidnapers' den freed William F. Babe Didrikson, Here With House Of David Nine, Warns Women She's Going for Golf Honors 'In Big Way'

Texas' contribution to the hall of world athletic fame, Mildred "Babe" Didrikson, most famous woman athlete on the face of the globe, volunteered an important message to a Daily Nebraskan reporter Tuesday morning before leaving the city with the nomadic House of David baseball team. The information was fairly sizzling with significance and should be conveyed to the ears of every woman golfer in the United States who aspires to the national woman's golfing throne.

Responding to a query as to how she enjoyed playing baseball in comparison to competing in the other sports in her wide athletic curriculum, Miss Didrikson reiterated what she has been "ballyhooing" for the past two years, only this time with pronounced finality. "Yes, I like baseball very much when it is in season, but I have always to excel in golf more than any other sport now that I have turned professional. Why, even now I am able to keep a reasonable pace with the average professional. On my western tour with the House of David baseball nine I try to play as often as time permits and at the conclusion of the present itinerary I intend to go in for golf in a big way."

Gracious Warning. She said this without a trace of boasting, but rather with unlimited confidence in her ability. Such a gracious early warning should cause the nation's Vares, Orcuts, Van Wies, et al, to touch up on their strokes before encountering the Babe.

Despite the fact that she has played little golf under the strain of competition, those who have seen her whacking the little white pellet down the green fairways are unanimous in the opinion that she is a natural player and would be outstanding should she turn to (Continued on Page 4.)

1934 Cornhusker, Released This Morning, Depicts University Life Of Past Year in All Its Phases

Cornhusker, 1934 edition, appears on the campus this morning. Between its covers is a cross-section of this university, its students, its activities, its faculty and its administration. The year's work for Woodrow Magee, Robert Thiel and their staff is completed as they place the book in the hands of those who have been waiting to get their copies. In the words of the staff members who saw the book Tuesday evening, it is a true representation of the school for which it was named. Here follows what is to be seen in the yearbook, just off the press. Dedication, kept secret until its publication, is to Chancery E. A. Burnett, as a symbol to those who have built this university and those who are destined to carry on.

There are six parts, first "University," second, "Classes," third, "Cultural Activities," fourth, "Nebraska Life," fifth, "Organized Activities," and sixth, "Athletics."

Book one depicts the administration of Nebraska, its colleges and deans. Student government comes in this section where are pictured the groups of students who have for the past year taken part controlling student affairs. Editorial content explains these various departments of the school and gives general information about them.

"Classes," book two, places the juniors and seniors, their names, colleges, affiliations and activities before the annual's readers. It is printed in a style individual to the 1934 Cornhusker.

Next "Cultural Activities" is a display of student publications, and those who have taken part in them during the past year, prominent Nebraska alumni, the Military department, Kosmet Klub, Dramatic club, University Players, varsity debaters, men's Glee club and other organizations properly called cultural societies.

"One of the unusual features of my trip was the great number of Nebraska alumnae that I met quite unexpectedly—some on the streets, others in the stores, and just everywhere," explained Miss McGahey.

The speakers at the convention were among the best in the country, the registrar said. Dr. Ben Wood of Omaha spoke at one of the sessions and Dr. Ray Walters, proclaimed by Miss McGahey to be "one of the best" spoke on "Shall Educate the People."

Alumnus Herald's Approach Annual Roundup in June

Featuring commencement week and alumni round-up activities the May issue of the Nebraska Alumnus appears on the campus this week. Many of the contents of the magazine herald the coming gathering of alumni on the campus in the annual alumni round-up which occurs June 4, the same day as commencement.

A special page of the magazine is devoted to Ivy day photos taken by Ray Ramsey, secretary of the Alumni association, who is in charge of all alumni reunion arrangements. He reveals all plans for the round-up in the magazine, and outlines a program for the day.

In a special feature by the editor of the publication Chancery Burnett is sketched. This is the first of a group of articles about faculty and administration members contained in the May edition.

Jock, pet dog of Rev. Dean R. Leland, university Presbyterian pastor, is featured in one article. Jock is one of the best known of campus characters, being especially acquainted at the Temple building. He is the central character of an article written by Ray Ramsey. CORN COBS TO TAKE IN SEVEN PLEDGES AT WEDNESDAY MEETING

Smoker, Business Meeting Scheduled to Follow Ceremonies.

Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock Corn Cobs will initiate seven men at the second spring initiation at the Delta Sigma Lambda house, 1425 R street. The seven candidates for initiation are men who were pledged last fall but were unable to be initiated at the induction earlier in the spring.

According to Irving Hill, president of the men's pep group, all men in the club have been notified by the secretary, Irwin Ryan, and their attendance is compulsory. In addition, an invitation to all past members has been extended. The program will consist of initiation of new members, a smoker, and a business meeting. Gene Pester and Clayton Schwenk are in charge of arrangements.

Every fraternity on the campus must have had a man initiated into the pep club following the Wednesday night induction. Those houses which have failed to have men initiated will automatically lose representation on the Corn Cob roll. This provision was made in the new constitution drawn up last fall. Hill urges that names of all men who are to be initiated be submitted to him or the secretary by Wednesday noon.

In the business meeting plans for the part taken by Corn Cobs in the Big Six track meet rally will be made. Corn Cobs plan to cooperate with the N club, Innocents and Tassels in the Friday night "track booster" demonstration.

A representative of the Innocents society is to discuss plans with the Cobs for the rally Friday, and in this discussion arrangements for the part to be played by the men's pep group will be formed.

NCA ESTABLISHES NEW DEGREE REQUIREMENT

High School Superintendent Must Have Equivalent Master's Degree.

Editor's Note: In the Sunday Nebraskan an article concerning principals, superintendents and Masters degrees was mistaken on several points. The correct data is in the story below.

That the official in direct supervision of high schools, whether superintendent or principal, must have a Master's degree or its equivalent, is a recent standard established by the North Central association. This standard was adopted by referendum vote in 1932 and then postponed to be effective in the fall of 1934. Coordinate with this is the provision that the instructor shall have his degree from a college belonging to the North Central association with a minimum of six semester hours of graduate work in education and a minimum of two years' experience in teaching or in administration.

This standard is not retroactive within the association and may be subject to change by the state commission, in meritorious situations.
