BIZAD NEWS LETTER SENT TO GRADUATES

Dean Asks Promotion of Better Business
Conditions.

The fifteenth annual news letter to graduates of the college of business administration at the university was included in the new issue of the university extension department's weekly news letter released Monday.

Included in the news letter to the business administration students were news of the classes, activities of the school during the past undergraduate year, items of interest concerning the faculty members of the college of business administration, and other items.

A foreward, written by J. E. Le Roosignol, dean of the college, made a plea for graduates of the college to continue to promote better business conditions. He said in part: "In thinking of business recovery which, in spite of the drouth, is surely on the way and will soon come around the corner, I am wondering what contribution we, as students of economics and business administration, have made or can make to that desirable end, we may be relatively insignificant factors in the great world of affairs, and yet our training and experience should count for something in the completed forces making for better times."

Concluding his letter to the graduates the dean stated: "When good times return let us remember that permanent prosperity can only be established upon the good old foundations of hard work."

Hole-in-One Scored At Country Club By Chancellor Burnett

The university discovered Saturday that its Chancellor, besides being an able administrator of the university, was an excellent golf player.

Playing over the Country club course Saturday Chancellor Burnett scored a hole in one on the 120 yard fourteenth, the green being located across a dried up water hazard. While hailed by many of his friends as an ardent golf fan, the chancellor's feat Saturday put him in that exclusive class of golfers for which all strive to reach sometime during a life time.

Playing with the chancellor were Frank D. Williams, Earl Cline and H. J. Gramlich, of Ag College. Called by a Nebraskan reporter yesterday, the chancellor modestly declined to comment on his feat.

SELLERS SPEAKS AT DEMOCRAT MEETING

Importance of Unity in Party Organization
Is Stressed.

The importance of unity in the party organization was stressed by Dr. J. L. Sellers, professor of history at the university, before a meeting of over 200 Lancaster county democrats at the Lincoln hotel last Friday evening.

"This country has always had its affairs administered by the people thru the two party system," stated Dr. Sellers, "and it probably always shall, since the constitution provides that a majority must sanction a proposal before it becomes law. If the constitution provided for only a plurality, the same situation would probably not be true."

Dr. Sellers went on to say that he regarded this period as a most opportune time for the democratic party because they "have the most popular president in office since the time of Abraham Lincoln."

He declared however, that "the popularity of the president will not win county offices for us—only a unified organization, with the best possible candidates can do that for us."

Dr. Sellers continued by saying, "In time of war, we serve our country by military enlistment, but in time of peace we serve our government and our nation by our political activity. The interest of American people must be maintained by politics."

OFFICIALS EXPRESS SATISFACTION WITH EDUCATIONAL MEET

Possibility of Making It a Permanent Feature Is Extremely Likely.

University officials expressed satisfaction with the state educational conference Monday, declaring that it was a highly effective means of co-ordinating the attitudes and methods of state teachers.

It was also stated that the probability of making the state conference a permanent feature of the university summer session was extremely likely.

Unofficial figures indicated a total of nearly 350 school teachers and supervisors were in regular attendance at the conference. This figure included 150 teachers in attendance at the summer session. The remainder was distributed as follows: City superintendents, 82; classroom teachers, 75; secondary school principals, 28; county superintendents, 20; others interested in education, 20.

A brief summary of the last two days of the conference is as follows:

Miss Cusack Speaks.
The new deal has created a bigger demand for school children's reading materials, and placed a new approach on the methods in which they are taught, Miss Alice Cusack, Kansas City, told teachers gathered for the final session of the state educational conference.

"The influences of social science on the reading program of the elementary school," stated Miss Cusack, "is tending toward two general objectives. Teaching reading at the present time requires that the development of the whole child and the emphasis be placed on social studies be borne in mind."

Social changes have always influenced the reading curriculum of public schools in two ways, according to Miss Cusack. First, in the materials with which the students have to work, and the methods by which they are taught to use the materials. She felt that personalizing the reading program of elementary school would aid in training the whole character of school children.

Must Acquire Materials.
"The social changes of recent years have created a new demand for reading materials."

HITLER MAKES WISE MOVE—WERKMEISTER

Should Have Wholesome
Influence States
Instructor.

Chancellor Adolph Hitler's success in stamping out the recent uprising in Germany should exercise a wholesome influence on the life and stability of Germany, Prof. W. H. Werkmeister, chairman of the department of philosophy at the university, declared Sunday, in a special communication in the Sunday Journal and Star.

The communication stated that the housecleaning should have been effected by Chancellor Hitler long ago, and was a wise move on the part of the German nazi leader. Professor Werkmeister said in part:

"Hitler's speedy action against the radical conspirators in his own party, and the determination he showed in 'cleaning house,' was nothing short of an international sensation. The trouble had been brewing for some time, it was impossible until now really to understand what was going on behind the scenes in nazi Germany."

"There can be no question in the minds of those who know anything about German affairs that the men with whom Hitler dealt in a summary fashion were and always have been a great liability to his regime. Germany is decidedly better off without them. If they never had obtained positions of influence to begin with, the world would have been spared much of the brutality and unreasonableness of nazism."

"When I visited Berlin last year."
